RANDOM RANTS, RAVES & THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

'80s Ladies Take The Spotlight On TCM

Most Tuesday nights in July, Turner Classic Movies is turning its attention to terrific performances by actresses in memorable 1980s movies. The fun begins Tuesday, July 8, with a lineup that includes Romancing the Stone (1984), led by Kathleen Turner; 9 to 5 (1980), starring Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton, who also wrote and performed the Oscar-nominated hit title song; Working Girl (1988), featuring Best Actress Oscar nominee Melanie Griffith, and Best Supporting Actress nominees Sigourney Weaver and Joan Cusack; and Protocol (1984), with Goldie Hawn.

The July 15 lineup starts with The Fabulous Baker Boys (1989), featuring Best Actress nominee Michelle Pfeiffer, and continues with Witness (1985), with Kelly McGillis; Fatal Attraction (1987), starring Best Actress nominee Glenn Close and Best Supporting Actress nominee Anne Archer; and The Postman Always Rings Twice (1981), which has Jessica Lange taking on the femme fatale role in a remake of the classic film noir.

Best Actress winner Cher kicks off the July 22 lineup in Moonstruck (1987), which also stars Best Supporting Actress nominee Olympia Dukakis. That is followed by Mystic Pizza (1988), led by Julia Roberts, Annabeth Gish and Lili Taylor; For Keeps (1988), with Molly Ringwald; and Who's That Girl (1987), headlined by Madonna, who also cowrote and performed the title tune.

The final '80s Ladies lineup, on July 29, features The Color Purple (1985), starring Best Actress nominee Whoopi Goldberg, and Best Supporting Actress nominees Oprah Winfrey and Margaret Avery; Places in the Heart (1984), led by Best Actress winner Sally Field; Out of Africa (1985), featuring Best Actress nominee Meryl Streep; and Heart Beat (1980), with Sissy Spacek.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

75 YEARS AGO

Notable TV series, episodes, networks and/or events marking anniversaries this month.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

THE HAZEL SCOTT SHOW

Trinidadian jazz/classical music pianist and singer Hazel Scott headlined this program, one of the first American network television series hosted by any person of African descent, which ran on the long-defunct DuMont Television Network from July 3-Sept. 29, 1950.

YOUR HIT PARADE

Originating as a radio program in 1935, this show devoted to the popular music of its era also had a television incarnation that began July 10, 1950, on NBC. It continued there until 1958, when it moved to CBS, eventually ending on April 27, 1959.

happened to Storage Wars and will new episodes be back? I only see reruns. Also, I noticed Brandi and Jarrod seem to have split — what happened? — Del

Storage Wars returned to A&E for a new 10-episode season on Saturday, June 7. Brandi is back but no sign of Jarrod so far.

When is Good Bones with stars Karen Laine and Mina Starsiak Hawk coming back to TV?

After eight seasons, the Indianapolis mother/daughter home renovation duo called it quits. Toward the end of Season 8, Mina's relationship with her mother was becoming challenging, and she was in a mentally and emotionally unhealthy place coming to terms with her turbulent childhood, and needed to step away. In summer of 2024, Mina also took a break from her podcast after so intimately sharing the sober journey she and her husband embarked on. This past May, brother Tad Starsiak, who proposed to his girlfriend during Good Bones' finale, officially wed in Jamaica. We continue to wish the best for both ladies and their families, but it doesn't look like any reunion plans are in play.

Congratulations!

Our May Reader Rewards winners of the collector's magazine The Last of Us were Patrick Bombard and Jeffrey Jones.

BIG BROTHER

This American adaptation of the Dutch reality format is still going strong since debuting July 5, 2000, on CBS. The latest season, the show's 27th, premieres July 10 on the network, and is again hosted by Julie Chen Moonves, who has been there since the beginning.

SURVEY SAYS!

July Is All About Fun & Games

As summer kicks into high gear, broadcast nets leave the drama behind and pack much of their lineups with popular game shows and reality series. Here we break it down by network.

It's hard to believe, but CBS' Big Brother has been airing now for 25 years. For the show's 27th season, CBS is all-in, along with host Julie Chen Moonves, airing the show pretty much four nights a week, beginning with the 90-minute premiere on Thursday, July 10. The show will then air Sundays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. And, beginning Friday, July 25, you can follow Big Brother: Unlocked, as three all-stars offer never-before-seen footage and commentary. Former Houseguests will also share their insights as they analyze gameplay and assess the competition.

ABC's got a few of its own seasoned game shows returning including Celebrity Family Feud (Thursday, July 10) with teams this season led by Paul Feig, Lainey Wilson, Taraji P. Henson, Jennifer Hudson, Fantasia Barrino, Patti LaBelle, Diplo, members of the NFL and more (along with host Steve Harvey). Other familiars include Who Wants to Be a Millionaire hosted by Jimmy Kimmel and Match Game with new host Martin Short (Wednesday, July 23). Season 10 of Bachelor in Paradise (Monday, July 7) moves to Costa Rica, as opposed to Mexico, and host Jesse Palmer welcomes some "Golden" guests like Gary Levingston from Joan Vassos' season and Leslie Fhima from Gerry Turner's season.

FOX kicked off the majority of its summer lineup in May and June with LEGO Masters hosted by Will Arnett and The Quiz With Balls hosted by Jay Pharoah airing Mondays, and The 1% Club with Joel McHale taking over hosting duties this year and The Snake (its new competition series hosted by Jim Jefferies) on Tuesdays.

On NBC, you've got American Ninja Warrior (Mondays) and America's Got Talent (Tuesdays) and the new adventure competition series Destination X with Jeffrey Dean Morgan (Tuesdays).

OOPS! I Didn't Mean To Say That

Here are a few of the dumbest answers given on Family Feud over the years.

- Name a boy's name that begins with the letter H. "José"
- Name something that follows the word pork. "Cupine"
- Name something that is hard to do with your eyes open. "Read"
- Name something of Leonardo DiCaprio's you would like to hold. "The Mona Lisa"

5 QUESTIONS WITH JOHN C. McGINLEY OF HALLMARK'S "HOLIDAZED"

By Jacqueline Cutler

John C. McGinley is ready to bring back Dr. Perry Cox for that Scrubs reboot. He's also in the new Steve Carell project. But first, he's the curmudgeon in Hallmark Channel's Holidazed (two episodes air every Sunday beginning July 6 as part of the net's annual Christmas in July). McGinley plays a pissed-off patriarch, who sees Christmas as a dare. Speaking from his Malibu home, McGinley answers our "5 Questions."

1 Why does Christmas in July work? Because A) It's the best holiday. B) It's something to look forward to. If you're in the dog days of summer and you're dragging a little bit, if the Yankees aren't playing well, or if the Mets are dogs with fleas, you can fix that with Christmas. So, halfway through the year, there's light at the end of the tunnel, which is Christmas, where you get presents, and people are nice to each other, and that's why Christmas in July is titillating.

2 What's your ideal day? Right now, it's waking up early to get over to Warner Bros. and beat the traffic on the 101, grab a nap when I get there, because I've gotten there an hour and a half before my call time. Reviewing what we have to shoot that day and then stepping onto these sets on the Warner lot, which is just the biggest gift on the planet, and shooting this Steve Carell untitled college comedy. Being able to do this with Bill Lawrence is just nirvana. All the kids, everybody else is healthy, everybody's good here. We don't have any domestic problems, so I'm free to go and flourish, which is just as good as it gets.

3 Growing up in Millburn, New Jersey, and as a young actor in New York City, what were some jobs you had? I worked at a shrink-wrap factory. We would shrink-wrap the bill wraps for the federal government for hundreds and fifties. We would shrink-wrap Playboys because at the airport, back when those things were relevant, they didn't want you opening them, so we would shrink-wrap adult magazines. I caddied at Baltusrol [Golf Club] for 15 years. I worked for a coal company digging tungsten in Deer Park, Washington. I worked on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange as an assistant to a specialist writing tickets.

4 Tell us about a time when you were starstruck. I was shooting a medical comedy in Kansas City, Article 99, with Kiefer [Sutherland] and Ray [Liotta], rest in peace. Billy Joel was coming to town. So, we got to go to the show and then go backstage. When I met Billy, I was quite starstruck. But then the real starstruck thing — this was starstruck on steroids — happened. Billy calls me by my first name, and he goes, "John, I have Christie [Brinkley, Joel's wife at the time] on the line. She can't sleep until somebody reads her a bedtime story." And so, I told her a bedtime story.

5 How do you describe your career now? We're going to be wrapped by the middle of August, and then presumably I'll be going off to do Scrubs. There's no offer yet, but there will be. That's an exciting thing for a 65-year-old white male to be able to say in 2025. We're not exactly in vogue.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Dale Earnhardt Jr. Says Drivers Will Be Up For Head-To-Head Racing. By Ryan A. Berenz

One driver will win a wad of cash at the Yard of Bricks

The NASCAR Cup Series is the latest sports entity to kick the tires on an in-season tournament to boost interest in a typically slow period of its regular-season schedule.

The In-Season Challenge brings single-elimination competition to stock-car racing, as 32 drivers are placed into a bracket and each one has to beat their opponent head-to-head in the race in order to advance to the next round. The driver who wins every battle over five races wins a $1 million prize at the end of the Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis Motor Speedway on July 27.

The In-Season Challenge starts June 28 at the Quaker State 400 and continues with the Grant Park 165 Chicago street race (July 6), the Toyota/Save Mart 350 at Sonoma Raceway (July 13), and the Autotrader EchoPark Automotive 400 at Dover Motor Speedway (July 20), and wraps up with the final two-driver showdown at Indy.

NASCAR makes its return to TNT for the five-race summer stint, with Adam Alexander, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Steve Letarte in TNT's broadcast booth, and Larry McReynolds and Jeff Burton hosting the NASCAR In-Season Challenge Altcast on truTV.

Earnhardt knows drivers are eager for the chance to go mano a mano. "If I'm a driver, even though maybe I've not won races or maybe I'm not having the best season, I still feel like anything could happen in this In-Season Challenge," Earnhardt says. "And all I got to do is go out and make sure I beat that one particular driver each week, and I'm putting myself in a position to win the ultimate prize. So I think it's pretty cool, and I do think the drivers are definitely going to care about it. The ones that say they aren't into it are just sour grapes guys."

A QUICK RUNDOWN OF WHAT TO WATCH THIS MONTH

Chrissy Metz

Faith in the Flames

THE NICHOLE JOLLY STORY

Faith in the Flames: The Nichole Jolly Story; Courtesy of Lifetime

1 FAITH IN THE FLAMES: THE NICHOLE JOLLY STORY

Saturday, July 19 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

Chrissy Metz was at rock bottom financially; to be precise, she had just 81 cents left in her savings account when she got the role that would forever change her life: Kate Pearson in This Is Us.

"I had to borrow gas money to get to the audition," Metz tells us. "I vividly remember that after [I got the role] I called my [friend] to tell her that I was going to be able to pay her back for the rent and just thanked her for believing in me before I believed in myself."

Metz's story, as she openly shares and has wittingly detailed in her memoir This Is Me: Loving the Person You Are Today, is one of compassion, empathy, resilience and faith, and one she could lean into in her newest role — eagerly learning about the real-life heroine she plays in Faith in the Flames: The Nichole Jolly Story.

Jolly was one of many heroes in the November 2018 Camp Fire, which claimed the lives of 85 and destroyed the entire town of Paradise, California, making it the deadliest and most costly fire in the state's history. Her story is depicted in this adrenaline-fueled survival film.

"Our first conversation, I just asked her so many questions — mainly 'How in the world did you do this? How did you go through everything you went through and still have the courage to keep going?' When she was sort of stacked against all odds," Metz shares. "I feel very, very lucky and very grateful to be able to be just a conduit of a part of this story. I hope people will feel inspired, but also encouraged to keep pushing when you don't think you can anymore."

Here Metz shares more on her faith, her music, writing and more.

Playing real-life good people like Joyce Smith in 2019's Breakthrough and Nichole in Faith in the Flames are roles she enjoys.

"I get to pull from them what they were like, what they hope and want to share, and how they want to be portrayed, but also how important the story is of just courage and bravery and tenacity, your beliefs and your faith."

It wasn't until her parents divorced when she was a child and her family moved back from Japan that she realized she was really searching for something greater than herself and found her answer at church.

"I just was searching for some peace and some serenity in why I was dealing with what I was dealing with [throughout her tumultuous childhood]. There's not many 13-year-old kids who are going to church by themselves, but I certainly needed to. And I'm so grateful because it plays the biggest role in my life."

Some simple lessons to live by.

"I try to live in a way that I could feel proud about how I treat people. … I just try to treat people well, and I try to do the right thing. I try to treat people the way I would want to be treated and just have a lot of compassion and empathy and understanding. And it's not easy all the time because I'm a human being, but it certainly helps to have a firm foundation in my faith. I don't know where I would be if I didn't have it, to be honest."

In addition to penning her aforementioned memoir that was released in 2018, earlier this year Metz was on a book tour with her new children's book When I Talk to God, I Talk About Feelings.

"Even though I don't have children, I can understand in a different way. Teaching preschool, having 10 nieces and nephews, being the middle child of five kids, you really understand how important it is to validate feelings and to talk about them and to name them. … I think that if we can have kids understand their feelings and then feel validated and then feel seen and heard, we can make a difference in the world."

While she's in regular contact with her This Is Us costars, it's a show she fully realizes was lightning in a bottle and something she misses wholeheartedly.

"I miss just going to set every day and seeing all my friends and being able to play on set and just explore and challenge ourselves and challenge myself. And just being a part of something that was so impactful is what anybody dreams about. … It's just one of those dream jobs. I know that nothing will ever come close to what we experienced."

The one memento she'll always cherish from the set of This Is Us.

"I was able to have the piano that was in Kate and Toby's house, that was the piano that she played with her mom, and Kate played with Jack. So that was really, really special. And it's in my house in Los Angeles." [She splits her time between Los Angeles and Nashville these days.]

Her children's album Big Feelings is out now, and she's also got a new song that will be featured in this film.

"The song's called 'Last Day in Paradise.' I'm pretty excited. Definitely a bucket list to star in a movie and then write a song for it." — Barb Oates

NEW SERIES!

The long-awaited return of our favorite serial killer is finally here! This sequel series picks up not long after Dexter (Michael C. Hall) was shot by his own son at the end of Dexter: New Blood, and takes Dexter — who is, somehow, miraculously, once again alive — all the way to New York City and to an entirely new cast of friends and foes (including Uma Thurman!). Is there a chance for the sociopathic father-and-son duo to make up and be a family again? And can they ever stop killing? We sure hope so!

We recently got to sit down with Hall to discuss all this and more.

I'm sure you are bound to some secrecy here, but what can you tell us about the show? When we last saw Dexter, it was not looking good. Well, I can tell you that the forest floor that Dexter was on at the end of New Blood was very cold, and that Harrison's aim wasn't perfect, and that Dexter is not dead. He comes out of a long coma and his first impulse is to ask if his son's OK. And once he gets an inkling where his son is, he bolts out of there and goes to him without deliberating it, and that takes him to New York City.

How would you say this show is different from the previous sequel or even the original series? I think it's maybe a return to form in terms of Dexter's relationship to his Dark Passenger, but obviously with whatever battle scars and wisdom might go along with the intervening years. We find him in a place where he's reborn and can move forward in his life relatively unburdened by his past. He also encounters a degree of concentrated, distilled darkness that he's maybe never quite encountered, at least not in this potency.

How is it going behind the scenes, having all these new people on the cast, like Uma Thurman? Great. I think Uma's having a really good time. We all are. It's really gratifying for us that the show has a reputation that results in actors of this caliber agreeing to join us.

What's your typical fan encounter? Do people ever confuse you with Dexter and get scared of you? If they do, those are probably the people who don't say anything to me. More often than not, they express their love for the show, their affection for the character and their hope that there might be more to come. And that's very gratifying.

What do you find most relatable about Dexter? His preoccupation with authenticity. It's obviously heightened, but there's something fundamentally relatable about this guy who claims he's not authentically human. I think, in this day and age, we're all grappling with how to locate our authentic humanity independent of everything that's coming at us. — Zhanna Slor

Shark Week & Sharkfest Return! By Jeff Pfeiffer

Discovery's Shark Week and Nat Geo's Sharkfest have once again risen from the deep to take a bite out of summer programming ratings. Here's what we know about this year's installment of these two favorite shark-themed celebrations as of presstime:

3 SHARKFEST

Beginning Saturday, July 5 on NAT GEO

Sharkfest returns with over 25 hours of original programming, kicking off on July 5 with Sharks Up Close With Bertie Gregory, in which the famed wildlife cinematographer heads to South Africa for a dangerous attempt — without the use of a protective cage — to film great whites as they hunt seals underwater.

Sharkfest 2025 is again a multiplatform event, with shark content airing across Nat Geo, Nat Geo Wild, streamers Disney+ and Hulu, and other Disney-owned services. Along with several other new specials, Sharkfest will also premiere two series: Investigation Shark Attack and Super Shark Highway, each airing over six nights beginning July 5.

The top highlight of this year's Sharkfest is Jaws @ 50: The Definitive Inside Story, premiering July 10. Produced in partnership with Steven Spielberg's Amblin Documentaries, this is the only authorized doc about Spielberg's classic 1975 movie Jaws, charting its journey from the pages of Peter Benchley's bestselling novel to the big screen, where it became the first summer blockbuster and one of the most iconic films ever made.

Jaws @ 50 features rare archival footage from Spielberg's and Benchley's personal archives, along with new interviews with cast members (including Lorraine Gary and Jeffrey Kramer), crew (including John Williams, who composed the famous Oscar-winning score), other filmmakers and superfans (including George Lucas and James Cameron), and shark advocates, as it offers an unfiltered look at the behind-the-scenes chaos and creativity during the movie's production. It also examines how, along with generating cultural shock waves, Jaws paved the way for shark conservation.

4 SHARK WEEK

Beginning Sunday, July 20 on DISCOVERY CHANNEL

The granddaddy of summertime shark-themed programming stunts returns for its 37th year (it began in 1988). Information on Shark Week was a bit scarce at presstime, but the network did hype a new special, with the working title of Dancing With Sharks. Yes, the special appears to be just what it sounds like. Hosted by famed Dancing With the Stars master of ceremonies Tom Bergeron, this special looks to redefine "dancing with danger" as it offers an unprecedented underwater dance competition between expert divers and their shark partners. Blending skill, grace and thrills, five divers — all trained by a world-class underwater choreographer — will compete to show off their skills in epic underwater dances, with moves including the Hammerhead Hoedown and Tiger Trot. Sounds like there will be a bit more injury at risk to these dancing divers than merely having a partner step on their toes!

5 THE INSTITUTE

Sundays beginning July 13 on MGM+

NEW SERIES!

Exceptionally smart Minneapolis teenager Luke Ellis (Joe Freeman) spends his days slaying math tests, shooting hoops with his buddy and occasionally moving objects around with his mind. His telekinesis attracts the attention of a shadowy organization known as The Institute, which abducts ("recruits") Luke and brings him to their remote, secure research facility in Maine. Under the direction of Ms. Sigsby (Mary-Louise Parker), the doctors and staff of The Institute subject Luke and other kids like him to a battery of unpleasant tests designed to enhance and focus their abilities for what's purported to be a heroic cause. Meanwhile, Tim Jamieson (Ben Barnes), a former Boston cop with emotional scars from a shooting, seeks peace in the small Maine town near The Institute but instead finds strange happenings and a shroud of tragedy hanging over the residents. Based on Stephen King's 2019 novel of the same name and including King as an executive producer, the eight-part series The Institute is a chilling tale of children encountering and confronting adults' evil potential.

Heidi Klum but no Tim Gunn

6 PROJECT RUNWAY

Thursdays beginning July 31 on FREEFORM

SEASON PREMIERE!

Get ready for all the fashion do's and don'ts as the highly anticipated return of the long-running reality competition series drops this summer on a new network! Fashion icon and former model Heidi Klum will be back as host and judge for the 21st season, joined by longtime judge Nina Garcia and new judge Law Roach, an acclaimed celebrity stylist most famous for working with Zendaya. Replacing Tim Gunn, who was a mentor for 16 of its 20 previous seasons and will not be returning this year — unfortunately, to the dismay of many fans (and Klum herself), the man whose slogan "make it work" became synonymous with the show was not asked to return — is one of the show's most famous alums, Season 4 winner Christian Siriano, who you may remember from Project Runway's All Stars season, when he was host, or from his time as mentor from Seasons 17-20.

The beloved series, in which designers from around the world go head-to-head to win a prize and a head start in the industry, has been airing since 2004 and has had a profound effect on the fashion industry, launching the careers of many prolific designers, including Siriano, Austin Scarlett, Leanne Marshall, Irina Shabayeva, Michael Costello and Bishme Cromartie, among many others. Klum and Gunn left the show together to launch another reality competition series on Prime Video called Making the Cut, which ran for three seasons, and this will be the first season since then to have Klum back on its roster (and this will be its first season on Freeform). Despite the minor shakeups in both casting and networks, it's sure to be an interesting season!

7 SURVIVAL MODE

Mondays beginning July 7 on NBC

Drew and Jonathan Scott

8 CHASING THE WEST

Thursdays beginning July 10 on HGTV

NEW SERIES!

Property Brothers twins Drew and Jonathan Scott are back to help families find their dream homes — but this time, they'll be going out to the country! This new series focuses on ranches and vast sprawling homes away from hectic city life and closer to nature in Texas, Arizona and California. The Property Brothers are the best housing experts to help people find the ideal countryside location — before their home improvement fame, the two of them grew up on a ranch themselves, so they know exactly what to look for (and red flags to watch out for).

"We grew up on a ranch in some of the most beautiful country around," the brothers say in the intro to the series. "The lessons we've learned and our passions for the ways of the West made us who we are. So, we're tapping into our roots and everything we know about real estate to show that anyone can have that dream; they just need to know where to look."

If you've ever dreamed of giving up city life and adopting some chickens, then you may find yourself inspired to buy a cowboy hat and pack up your things to follow them.

9 BACK TO THE FRONTIER

Thursdays beginning July 10 on MAGNOLIA NETWORK

NEW SERIES!

Three American families prepare for the adventure of their lifetime as they leave their lavish lives behind, taking a major digital detox and going back in time in an attempt to survive as 1880s homesteaders. This life-changing experience will test their humility and endurance in ways they could have never imagined, including no running water or electricity (as well as no bathrooms, no toilet paper, no showers, homes in disrepair, empty pantries and so much more). Armed with just a wagon of supplies and basic shelter, they will spend a summer in the wilderness farming the land, feeding their families and working together to survive. In the eight-episode series, they tackle historical challenges and learn the skills that frontier families needed to survive a long winter. In the end, will they have what it takes to learn from the past and put in the hard work to survive? And will what they learn help shape their future?

10 JIM THORPE: LIT BY LIGHTNING

Monday, July 7 on HISTORY

One of sport's greatest? Unfortunately, not many people even know his name. Executive producers LeBron James and Maverick Carter set out to change that with this two-hour documentary on the life and legacy of the legendary Olympian. Jim Thorpe (1887-1953) grew up in Indian Territory in Oklahoma, was schooled in Pennsylvania and was considered one of the greatest all-around athletes of all time — playing professional football (with multiple teams) and professional baseball (with the New York Giants), and winning two gold medals at the 1912 Olympic Games in Stockholm. Thorpe was stripped of his decathlon and pentathlon gold medals in 1913, after the International Olympic Committee (IOC) deemed him not to be an amateur athlete (he earned extra money in college playing minor league baseball). He later went on to have a career in acting, appearing in several Westerns. Nearly 70 years after his death, on July 15, 2022, the IOC reinstated Thorpe as the sole winner of his 1912 gold medals. Now we learn his full story.

Eric Bana and Lily Santiago

11 UNTAMED

Thursday, July 17 on NETFLIX

NEW SERIES!

Eric Bana leads this six-episode, limited-series mystery thriller as Kyle Turner, an Investigative Services Branch agent of the National Park Service who works to enforce human law in nature's vast wilderness. Turner is on the hunt for a killer following a brutal murder in Yosemite National Park, a suspect who knows the terrain as well as Turner does. The hunt puts the agent on a collision course with the dark secrets within the park — and in his own past.

"Everyone thinks of Yosemite as this beautiful place with all the vistas and all the scenery, but we were trying to touch on the dangers that are just beyond that," says cocreator (with Elle Smith) Mark L. Smith (American Primeval). "I love stripping all the cheats away, stripping all the more modern tools that people can use. It really gets down to the character and what they can find within themselves."

Aiding Turner in his investigation is Naya Vasquez (Lily Santiago), a rookie park ranger more accustomed to city life than the wilds of Yosemite.

"Because Vasquez is new to the park, we get to see [it] through her eyes," says Elle Smith. "We get to understand what this job is and see the beauty of the park, but also the dangers."

Untamed also features Sam Neill as Turner's friend Paul Souter, who has been the chief park ranger in Yosemite for half his life, and Rosemarie DeWitt as Jill Bodwin, Turner's ex-wife, with whom he maintains a strong bond held together by events from their past.

12 BILLIONAIRE BOYS CLUB

Sundays beginning July 13 on CNN

NEW SERIES!

It's a true-crime tale of ambition, greed, fraud and murder that would make American Psycho's Patrick Bateman blush. In 1980s Los Angeles, charismatic USC dropout Joe Hunt formed a social and investment club with several young men from Southern California's wealthy families. Hunt and the so-called Billionaire Boys Club orchestrated a Ponzi scheme and lived the high life off of duped investors. Eventually, the money ran out and the scammers turned against each other, leaving one person dead, one presumably dead and others imprisoned. Filmmaker Star Price (United Shades of America) presents this documentary series looking back at the real story that was a media sensation, and inspired a 1987 TV miniseries starring Judd Nelson and a 2018 feature film.

13 THE FURRY DETECTIVES: UNMASKING A MONSTER

Thursdays beginning July 17 on SUNDANCETV

NEW SERIES!

Following the pack of dedicated amateur sleuths who teamed up to bring down the monsters behind the masks, this riveting true-crime docuseries unpacks the 2018 "Furry Zoosadist Leaks," which exposed a horrifying conspiracy of animal abuse among the furry fandom community.

Joining in on the fun in the premiere episode is beloved TV personality Al Roker.

15 LIVE AID: WHEN ROCK 'N' ROLL TOOK ON THE WORLD

Sundays beginning July 13 on CNN

NEW SERIES!

On July 13, 1985, a massive benefit concert to raise relief funds for the early 1980s Ethiopian famine was held simultaneously in two venues — London's Wembley Stadium and Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium. Organized by singer-songwriters Bob Geldof and Midge Ure, the event, called Live Aid, was broadcast internationally to audiences who could watch performances from top artists of the day and contribute to the cause.

Ultimately, Live Aid was one of the largest global music events in history, raising tens of millions of dollars and inspiring a remarkable social movement. The four-part series Live Aid: When Rock 'n' Roll Took on the World, premiering 40 years to the day when Live Aid was held, looks to tell the definitive story of the event.

Featuring interviews with figures associated with planning and/or performing Live Aid — including Geldof, Bono, Sting, Patti LaBelle, Phil Collins and Lionel Richie — along with global leaders such as George W. Bush, Condoleezza Rice and Tony Blair, the series also includes rare archival footage of performances and backstage happenings with Paula Yates, Boy George, Status Quo and George Michael.

16 ZOMBIES 4: DAWN OF THE VAMPIRES

Thursday, July 10 on DISNEY CHANNEL

ORIGINAL FILM!

In the first three ZOMBIES movies, Zed (Milo Manheim) and Addison (Meg Donnelly) brought human- and monster-kind together in their hometown of Seabrook. Now, a new adventure begins for the duo when their summer road trip takes an unexpected detour, landing them in the middle of yet another monster rivalry, this time between daywalkers and vampires. Tensions arise when Zed and Addison find themselves acting as camp counselors between the two opposing supernatural factions. With the help of Eliza (Kylee Russell) and Willa (Chandler Kinney), they must convince sworn enemies to try to unite before an even greater threat endangers them all.

My Mom Jayne

Available Friday, June 27

While promoting her directorial feature debut — a documentary that spotlights her late mother, Jayne Mansfield, one of the 1950s' and '60s' "blond bombshells" — Emmy-winning actress Mariska Hargitay shared a shocking secret she'd held close for 30 years. Her biological father was not Mickey Hargitay, the caring Hungarian immigrant who raised her. Instead, it was Mansfield's onetime paramour, Brazilian-Italian singer Nelson Sardelli.

That's just one of the powerful moments shown through the lens of memory as the longtime Law & Order: SVU star reclaims the narrative to tell a more comprehensive story about Mansfield, who died at 34 in a car crash that injured 3-year-old Mariska and her two older brothers in 1967. (The actress had five children with three husbands and Sardelli.)

"I don't have any memories of my [mother]," Hargitay admits in the film, which includes never-before-seen home movies and photos. "But I experienced a sense of shame seeing my mother as a sex symbol." Throughout emotional scenes, she interviews her siblings as well as a tearful Sardelli, who all recall Mansfield as "loving, smart and funny." Hargitay also brings viewers along for the ride as she unearths a long-forgotten storage unit filled with her mother's personal letters and her 1957 Golden Globe. "I want to understand her now as my mom," explains Hargitay. "It's a part of my life that I always felt locked away. She feels so alive now to me." — Ileane Rudolph

Dexter: Resurrection

First Two Episodes Available July 11; New Episodes Fridays

The newest iteration of the Dexter franchise, which picks up not too long after Dexter (Michael C. Hall) was shot by his own son at the end of Dexter: New Blood, takes Dexter — who is, somehow, miraculously, once again alive — all the way to New York City and to an entirely new cast of friends and foes (including new costars Uma Thurman, Krysten Ritter and Neil Patrick Harris). Can father and son reconnect — and not kill each other, perhaps?

"He's impulsively drawn to go check in on his son and make sure he is OK," says Hall of his character in the sequel series. "But he has serious misgivings about appearing to him and letting him know he's still alive. I think he's worried that he might break his son's brain if he does that. And underneath that, he's worried he'll be rejected, that his son won't feel that he needs him in his life. He'll wish he'd stayed dead. Ultimately, they will meet. But it's a complicated relationship to navigate and I think it is a situation that requires both Dexter and his son to grow up to some degree."
