EDITOR'S NOTE

A New Race Is On

I've been a loyal fan of the reality series Survivor since it first debuted in 2000. For 20 years and 40 seasons, I've enjoyed watching the survivors outwit, outplay and outlast each other; it's actually a show I've missed the most during our pandemic.

I initially thought Survivor would be one of the easiest shows to pull off during the pandemic, as the survivors and camera crew are already quarantined to a secluded island and each other, but international travel (the show films on the Mamanuca Islands in Fiji) and crews made this and The Amazing Race some of the most complicated to pull off. This month, we've finally got a show to fill that Survivor void with Nat Geo's Race to the Center of the Earth (beginning Monday, March 29). See page 15 for more details.

We've got an interesting mix of new programs to spotlight in this issue. The ever-delightful Kate Winslet is back in another compelling HBO limited series, this time as a cop in Mare of Easttown. Christopher Meloni returns to his role as Detective Elliot Stabler in the spinoff Law & Order: Organized Crime. ABC welcomes Katey Sagal in the Erin Brockovich-inspired drama Rebel. Lifetime shares the story of Mahalia Jackson. And we've got the Oscars! On the lighter side, we find Rebel Wilson in the dog grooming competition series Pooch Perfect; the awkwardly funny Chad; Topher Grace's Home Economics; plus plenty more!

Happy viewing!

On Demand Movie Prices

Why are some On Demand titles priced as high as $19.99 while others are much cheaper? – CJ

Since the pandemic has closed many theaters, things tend to be a bit fluid in the movie world. Instead of being released in theaters, some films premiering On Demand have a higher price than others when they first come out, while other "older" films may have a lower price. As the life cycle of the film progresses, some prices might decrease, but that timeline is flexible, too. When choosing to watch an On Demand movie, our advice is to check the price before you complete your purchase.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH:

What movie do you think should have won a Best Picture Oscar but didn't?

Email us at letters@ntvbmedia.com

Tell Me More About HBO Max

I keep seeing ads for HBO Max, AMC+ and discovery+. Don't I already have these channels? – Phyllis

Great question. These services are all provided by subscription over the internet and typically they offer more content than the "regular" channel you already subscribe to. For example, HBO Max gives you access to all of HBO's streaming content, plus a ton of new stuff from a variety of WarnerMedia brands. AMC+ offers early access to some AMC series, content from BBC America, IFC and SundanceTV plus the complete collections of Shudder, Sundance Now and IFC Films Unlimited. discovery+ features content from networks such as HGTV, TLC, A&E, Food Network and more. For more information about these channels, visit hbomax.com, amcplus.com and discoveryplus.com.

Walker has been renewed for a second season on The CW

Where Is "American Detective"?

I've seen several ads for the new Joe Kenda show American Detective. Is it on ID? Why isn't it listed [in the guide]? – Carol

"American Detective" airs on the streaming service discovery+.

Will CBS Air Season 2 Of "Star Trek: Discovery"?

It was a treat for CBS to release Star Trek: Discovery on its regular network. Do you think there's any chance those of us without CBS All Access will get to see Season 2 on CBS? – Larry

It's unlikely. Because the "Trek" spinoffs (including "Picard" and others) are a major part of the brand identity of Paramount+ (ViacomCBS' streaming service, formerly CBS All Access), airing the show on CBS served as an ideal "commercial" to lure people to the streaming service. If you aren't interested in that, your best bet is to watch for the series to be released on DVD.

The New "Walker" Is No Chuck Norris

Having watched the first few episodes of the new Walker series on The CW, I am so disappointed. In the original series with martial arts expert Chuck Norris, the fight scenes kept you on the edge of your seat. So far, this version has Walker as a man defeated by the death of his wife – so much so that he comes off as not very macho. He has yet to display any fight in him. Can I look forward to this show getting any better when it comes to fighting for right over wrong and good over evil? – Linda

You aren't the only one who has expressed this opinion, Linda. Perhaps it's not surprising that a fan of Chuck Norris and the original show might be a bit disappointed by a character who "leads as much with his emotions as his fists." We can't promise you'll find the rest of the series more to your liking, but it has been doing well for the network so far and has already been renewed for a second season.

Congratulations!

AWARDS SEASON?! BETTER LATE THAN NEVER!

By Jeff Pfeiffer

Awards season for the entertainment industry generally gets underway in full force in January, but the pandemic has delayed many of these ceremonies. Here are the notable events airing in April.

Brown (This Is Us), Cate Blanchett (Mrs. America), Ethan Hawke (The Good Lord Bird), Nicole Kidman (The Undoing), Mark Ruffalo (I Know This Much Is True) and Anya Taylor-Joy (The Queen's Gambit).

56th Academy of Country Music Awards – Sunday, April 18 (live on CBS) The ceremony returns to Nashville and will broadcast live from three iconic venues: the Grand Ole Opry House, the historic Ryman Auditorium and the Bluebird Cafe. Maren Morris and Chris Stapleton lead with six nominations each; Miranda Lambert is close behind with five. For the first time, four Black artists – Jimmie Allen, Kane Brown, Mickey Guyton and John Legend – are nominated for awards in a single year.

2021 Film Independent Spirit Awards – Thursday, April 22 (live on IFC) Saturday Night Live's Melissa Villaseñor hosts this year's ceremony. Among the nominated TV and streaming titles are Little America, Unorthodox, I May Destroy You, Love Fraud and A Teacher.

93rd Academy Awards – Sunday, April 25 (live on ABC) This year, because of the pandemic, the Academy has allowed films first released with password protection on streaming or VOD services to be eligible for nominations if they were originally scheduled to have a theatrical release. In terms of the evening's presentation, the Academy has said this event will be an in-person ceremony broadcast live from multiple locations. The Netflix-produced film Mank leads with 10 nominations. For the first time, two women have been nominated in the Best Director category – Emerald Fennell (Promising Young Woman) and Chloé Zhao (Nomadland). Visit oscars.org for more.

4 Questions With BEAR GRYLLS

By Barb Oates

The famed adventurer returns for his sixth season of Running Wild With Bear Grylls (Nat Geo, Mondays beginning March 29), where he puts celebrity guests to some of the toughest challenges in the history of the show. Their accomplishments and conversations are often awe-inspiring. Here Bear catches up with us again and answers our "4 Questions."

1 What's the process like these days of managing celebrities who want to take the adventure with you, as the show's become somewhat of a celebrity badge of honor. How long is the waitlist?

It's been incredible to look back on the list of so many incredible guests. ... I'm always reminded about how the wild is a great leveler. Ultimately, it's two people on a buddy-buddy journey facing the wild, looking after each other. Talking about stuff that is really in the guest's heart and facing a few difficult times and coming through them empowered, strong by the end. As for the waiting list, it's a privilege to see the sort of people that come and approach us.

2 Tell us a time when you were most scared this past season.

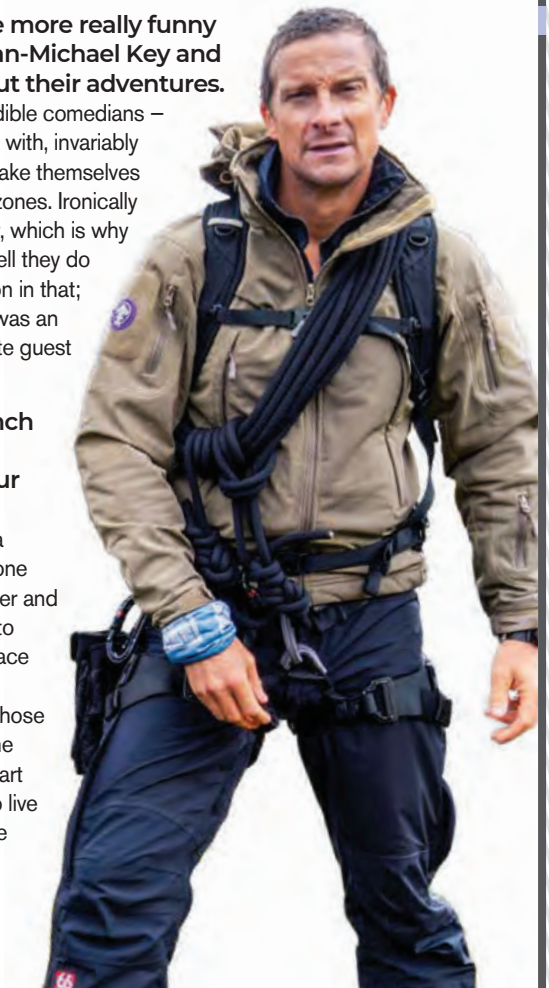

This season we spent a lot of time in desert canyon-type conditions, which are always challenging, just because of the extreme heat. We've reached the end of the season and we are proud that everyone is alive and smiling, and above all, as a team, we work to the mantra we never get complacent, you only get it wrong once in the wild, be on your game.

3 This season you've got some more really funny guys — Bobby Bones, Keegan-Michael Key and Rainn Wilson. Tease a story about their adventures.

We've been so lucky to take many incredible comedians – they are always fun to have an adventure with, invariably honest, self-deprecating and willing to make themselves vulnerable and step out of their comfort zones. Ironically those are key qualities of a great survivor, which is why they often surprise themselves at how well they do in the wild – I would include Rainn Wilson in that; he arrived really nervous but by the end was an incredibly strong, determined and resolute guest and a privilege to take away.

4 Congratulations on the launch of BecomingX. Who do you credit for giving you some of your real-life learning skills?

I was never one of the people who was a natural high performer at school – everyone else always seemed to do better, go faster and get better grades. But what I learnt was to dig deep and never give up and to embrace failure and never be scared of it. Also, to have the courage to follow my dreams. Those qualities matter more in life than any of the traditional school qualities. That is the heart of BecomingX – to help young people to live empowered lives and be prepared for the realities of life.

The film will examine the "David vs. Goliath" aspects of what happened and its effect on the stock market.

PILOTS IN PLAY

CBS has given a pilot order to an adaptation of the 1994 film ③ True Lies. It comes from Burn Notice creator Matt Nix and prolific producer McG, who will also direct the pilot. COMING UP AT THE CW

Even after renewing almost all of its current shows for next season, The CW is still developing pilots. The network has ordered three new series – Naomi, a superhero drama from ⑤ Ava DuVernay; the previously reported live-action reboot of The Powerpuff Girls; and a currently unnamed nun dramedy executive produced by Jane the Virgin creator Jennie Snyder Urman. Naomi will follow a teen girl after a major supernatural event hits her small Northwestern town and moves her to action. In the new show, 4,400 people who vanished over the last 100 years suddenly reappear without having aged and with no memory of anything that happened to them.

Hope Springs Eternal

Baseball Is Back To The Grind With A Full Season Ahead.

By Ryan A. Berenz

Mookie Betts and the L.A. Dodgers begin their World Series title defense

MLB Opening Day on ESPN April 1

Toronto Blue Jays at N.Y. Yankees
L.A. Dodgers at Colorado Rockies
N.Y. Mets at Washington Nationals
Houston Astros at Oakland A's

Among the countless ways the COVID-19 pandemic disrupted American life in 2020, the baseball season's cadence – by which many fans measure their summer – was thrown out of rhythm. A shortened 60-game sprint without fans in the seats began in late July, and a mere three months later, the L.A. Dodgers had won their first World Series since 1988.

In 2021, baseball might become the yardstick by which we measure a return to "normal." Teams will play a full 162-game marathon schedule. Ballparks will have limited attendance at first, but may allow fans in greater numbers as conditions improve. Perhaps by late October, a full-capacity crowd of the fortunate will witness their team triumph in the Fall Classic.

The first pitch of the regular season is thrown on April 1, and all 30 clubs will start on the same day for the first time since 1968. Notes and highlights for the season include:

- Due to travel restrictions, the Toronto Blue Jays will open their season with TD Ballpark in Dunedin, Florida, serving as their home field.
- MLB observes Jackie Robinson Day on April 15, and all players wear No. 42 in honor of the pioneering baseball great.
- The 2021 MLB All-Star Game at Truist Park in Atlanta is July 13 on FOX.
- The Chicago White Sox and N.Y. Yankees will play in the "MLB at Field of Dreams" game Aug. 12 on FOX. Held on land near where the movie Field of Dreams was filmed, it will be the first MLB game played in Iowa.
- The Cleveland Indians and the L.A. Angels play in the Little League Classic in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, Aug. 22 on ESPN.
- The Yankees and Mets will play at New York's Citi Field Sept. 11 on FOX, marking 20 years since the 9/11 terrorist attacks.
- The last day of the regular season is Oct. 3, with 12 divisional games on the schedule.
- It's the final season with Cleveland's team competing as the Indians. The team will replace its nickname and logo beginning in 2022.

LAW & ORDER: ORGANIZED CRIME

Christopher Meloni Returns As Elliot Stabler In New Spinoff Series. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Law & Order: Organized Crime
NBC, Thursdays
beginning April 1
▸ Stream on Peacock & nbc.com

Last December, Law & Order: Special Victims Unit fans were thrilled when star Mariska Hargitay posted a Zoom meeting photo to her Instagram account with the understated caption, "Well…that happened…" Fans were excited to see a new episode was in the works, but were especially amped up when they noticed one screen name and picture in particular from among the several Zoom participants: "chrismeloni1."

Yes, it was Christopher Meloni, back – at least virtually, in that moment – with his old SVU family and getting ready to reprise his beloved character of Detective Elliot Stabler. Meloni portrayed Stabler during the long-running crime drama's first 12 seasons, from 1999-2011.

Starting this month, Meloni is back to the character full time as he leads the new spinoff series Law & Order: Organized Crime. The series launches with a two-hour event – its premiere episode will be preceded by an SVU crossover episode in which Meloni guest-stars.

"Working with Mariska again was effortless," says Meloni, sounding as excited to be back in the L&O universe as fans are at having him return, "and there was a sense of knowing without having to say anything. We just are, and you can't plan for it, and it's the most important element of chemistry. We've been lucky to keep it over the years."

Of course, in his new series, Meloni will have a new group of regulars to work with, including Dylan McDermott, Tamara Taylor (Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.) and Danielle Moné Truitt (2017's Rebel). The spinoff follows Stabler, who is returning to the NYPD to battle organized crime after a devastating personal loss.

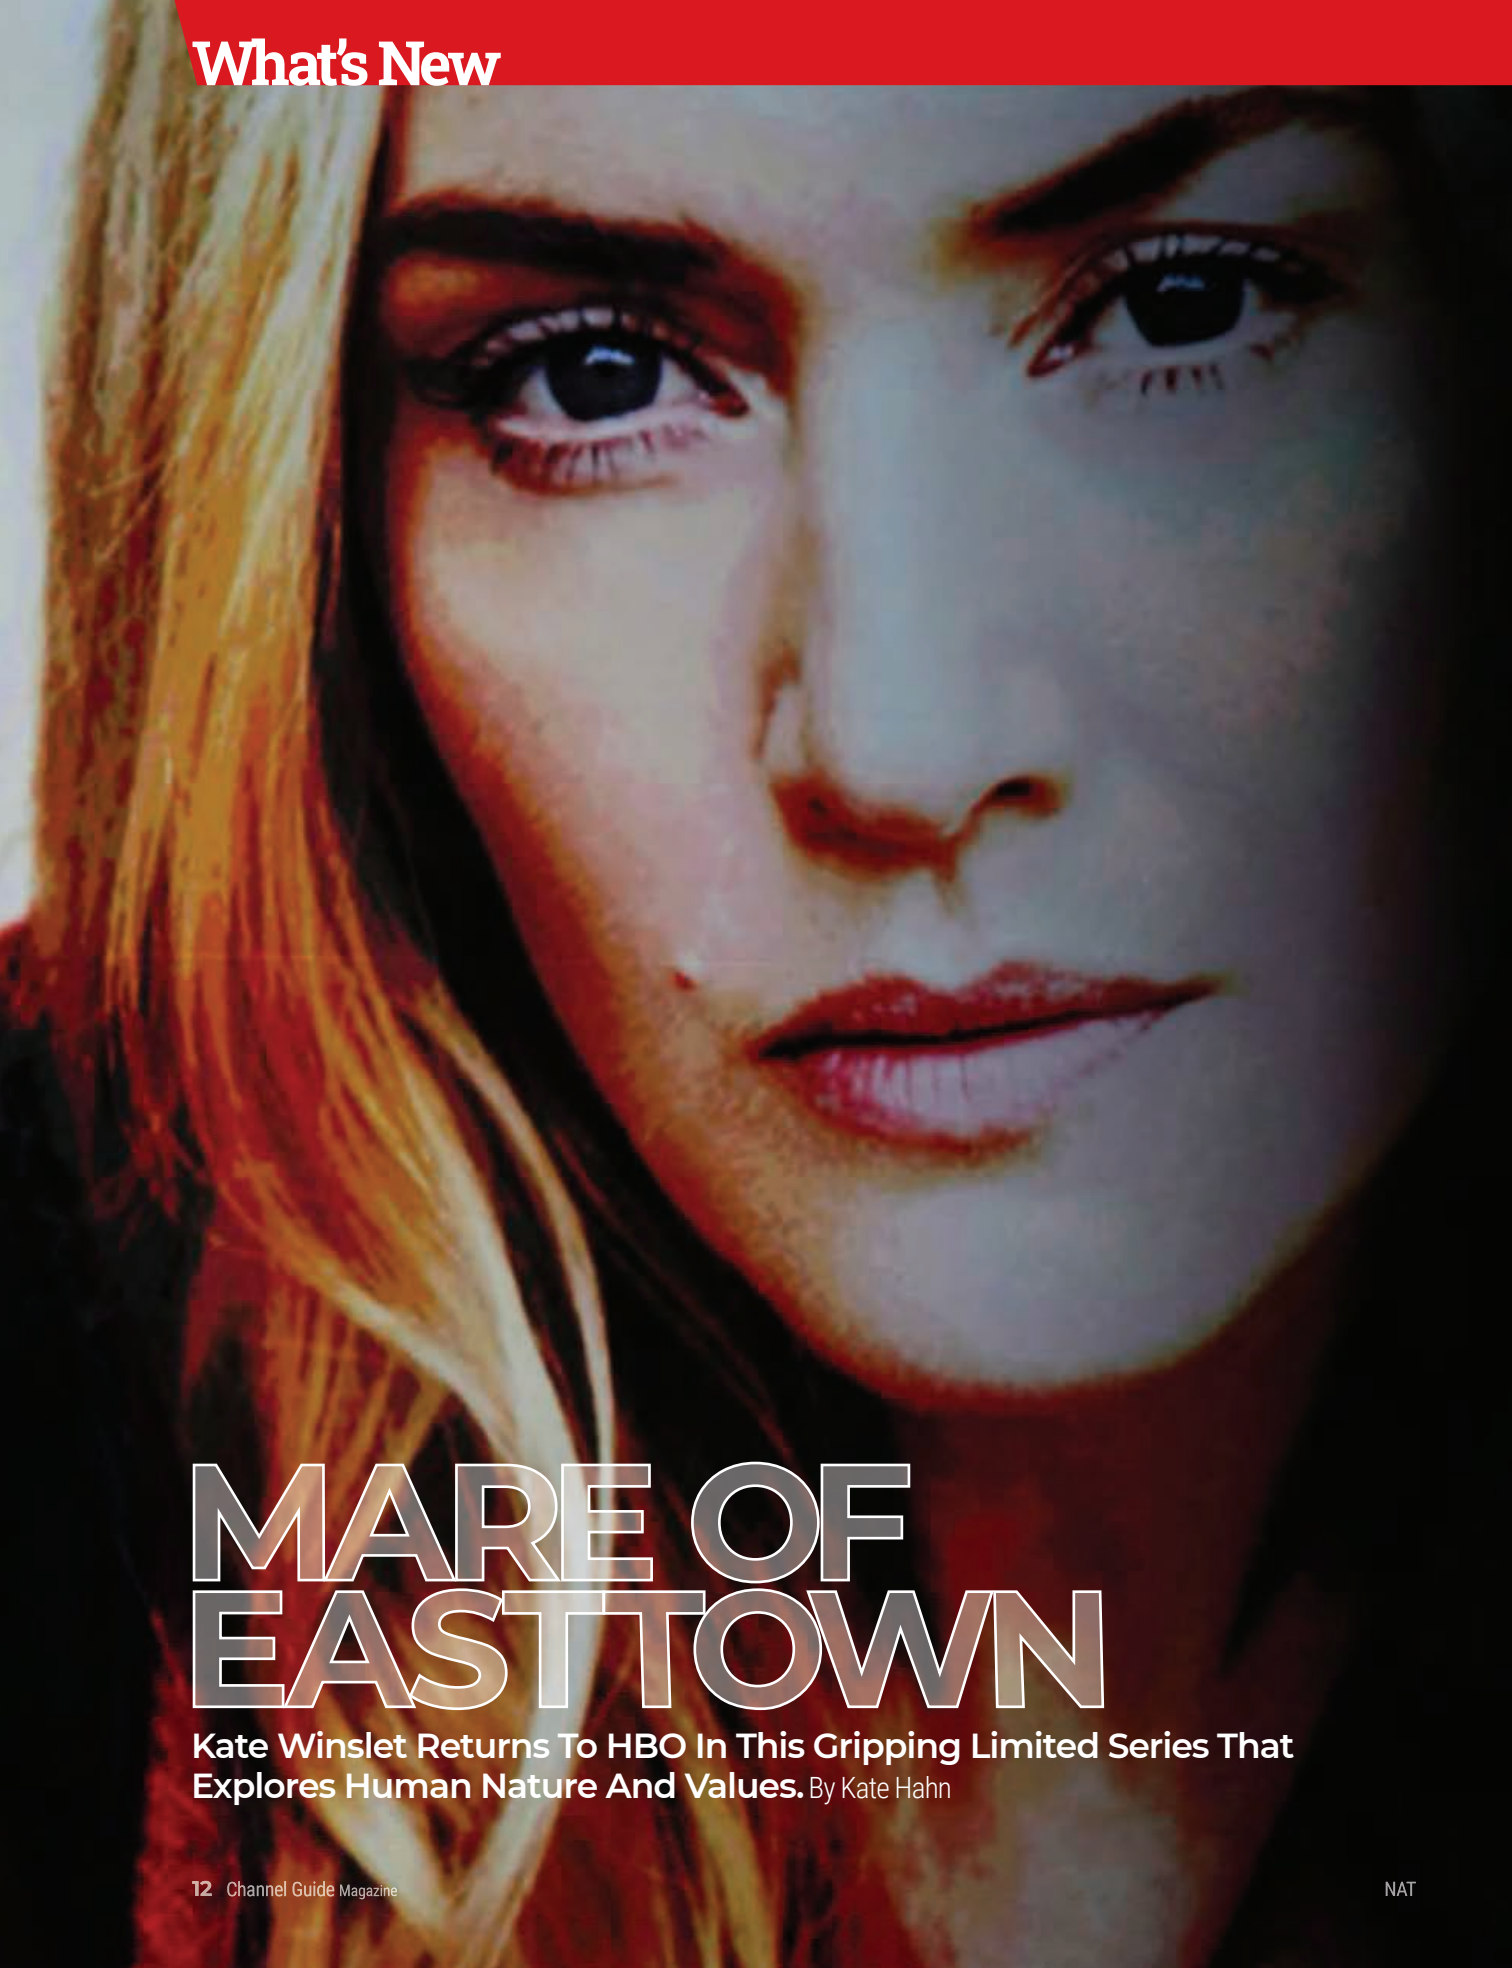

Meloni admits that he "can't say much" about the series. "But Elliot has been finding his purpose. He took time to work on himself and focus on his family. What brings him back is a mix of business and pleasure, but both have been sidelined when we first see him."

Executive producer Ilene Chaiken tells us that the series will follow one major case over the course of the season, but the episodes will each feature a self-contained, close-ended story that resolves within the hour and relates to the larger case.

Stabler certainly saw some of the worst of the worst types of criminals working in the SVU, but dealing with organized crime seems like it could present new kinds of challenges to him, and Meloni agrees.

"This is a modern Mafia," he says. "They have their hands in all the dark crevices like cryptocurrency and the dark web. It's more high-tech, more sophisticated, and that's just not where Stabler lives."

MARE OF EASTTOWN

Kate Winslet Returns To HBO In This Gripping Limited Series That Explores Human Nature And Values. By Kate Hahn

Kate Winslet had never even held a gun before taking on the role of Mare Sheehan, a small-town Pennsylvania detective trying to solve the murder of a young woman while coping with a devastating personal tragedy. But in the premiere of the HBO limited series Mare of Easttown, from creator and writer Brad Ingelsby, the actress pulls off a foot chase and perp takedown like an academy graduate. The determination to transform herself for roles has won Winslet multiple awards, including an Oscar and Emmy. (She even learned to free-dive for her current project, Avatar 2, which reunites her with James Cameron, director of Titanic.) Winslet talked to us via Zoom from the kitchen of her home on the south coast of England, for details on the gripping new mystery, playing Mare and quarantining with costar (and Winslet's one-time teen crush) Guy Pearce.

How has your family been holding up in the time of COVID?

Kate Winslet: We're juggling everything, like everyone. Today my greatest challenge was trying to make sourdough bread whilst doing online math with [7-year-old son] Bear and realizing that actually I should definitely not be doing both of those things. I was failing at both. Sometimes I feel like I should have "multitasking goddess" tattooed on my forearm.

Did you relate to Mare's busy life: working while living with her opinionated mother, Helen (Jean Smart), and raising a rebellious teen daughter, Siobhan (Angourie Rice)?

A parallel between [Mare and me] is that, in the chaos of her everyday life, the people she loves come first. When she feels she's failing in that, it hurts and troubles her deeply. But I can't imagine having the skill set or stomach for her job, actually.

What prep did you do to play a small-town cop?

First, credit to writer Brad Ingelsby who grew up [locally] so he knows that world – those people really leap off the page. I went to the Easttown Police Department [in Pennsylvania], a real place. I had a wingwoman who was my go-to detective sergeant, an incredible lady, Christine Bleiler. I worked with her on how to make it look like I could put handcuffs on and off with my eyes closed, how to handle and fire a gun. We drove around with blacked-out windows in opioid districts in the middle of the night. It was quite scary – or as my friend Josh Brolin would say, "gnarly @#$%."

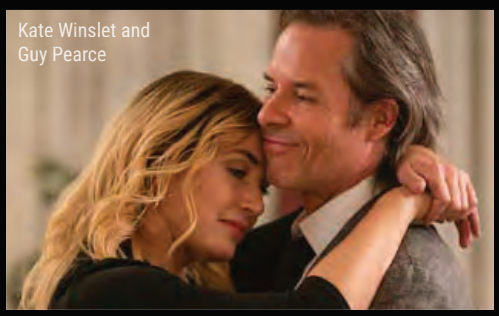

Do things get "gnarly" for Mare as she digs deeper into this mystery?

As the murder story starts to unfold, it becomes abundantly clear that [the killer] is someone within the town; that creates a real sense of darkness. The biggest complication for Mare is that she knows everyone [and] clearly a lot of people keep secrets – and have stuff they haven't dealt with.

Including Mare?

She's haunted terribly by something quite traumatic that happened within the family two years previously. She can't deal with her anguish because she feels she has to be so much for this town: they put her on this pedestal because she made a winning shot in a basketball game. She is so quickly judged, scrutinized and watched – by everyone.

All eyes may be on her, but she's refreshingly imperfect in her looks and style.

Kate Winslet and Guy Pearce

Because of what happened, she's stopped caring. She's kind of a slob. She's eating all the time. It became hilarious, like, how many more bad things [can we get] Kate to eat? She has three and a half inches of regrowth in her hair, almost no makeup. I was like, "Guys, just so you know, I'm not even wearing a @#$%ing bra under this T-shirt, so if you get that on camera, so be it."

Still, Mare gets romantically involved with a writer, played by Guy Pearce, who starred opposite you in your Emmy-winning turn in the 2011 HBO limited series Mildred Pierce.

Richard and Mare are middle-aged with complicated pasts and presents – the story doesn't try and gloss over that. Trying to find their way to each other, there's a lot stacked against them.

Are you and Guy close?

Guy was my schoolgirl crush when I saw him on a TV show, Neighbours – I've kept it no secret. Since I was about 13 years old, I've known, from a teen fan-zine, that we share the same birthday [Oct. 5]. This year, we actually woke up in the same house on our birthday! We were quarantining together and sharing this funny old house while filming, along with Angourie Rice and her mother. We'd take turns to cook, bake. I had this moment of: What you put into the universe sometimes comes back at you! [Laughs]

It's not a crush for Mare when her boss sends in a county detective to help her out.

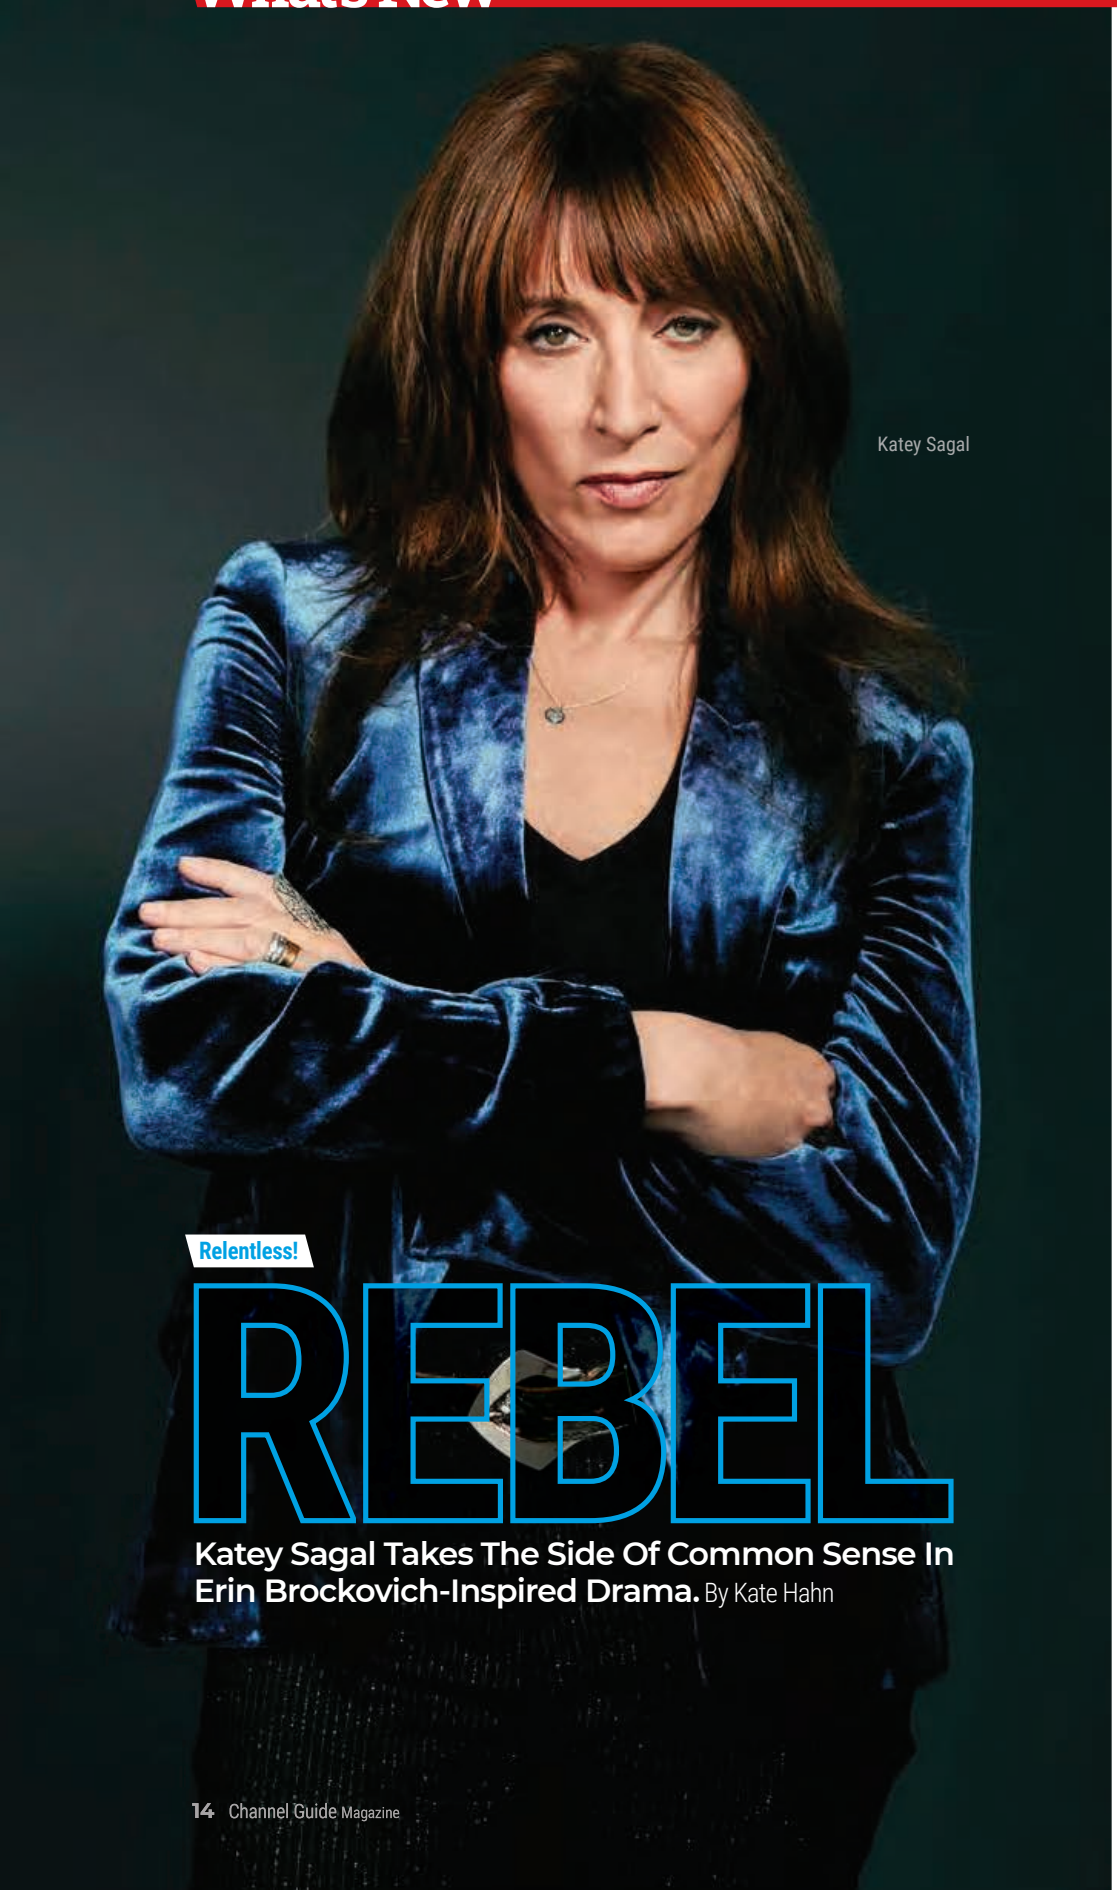

Mare sees it as a judgment on her ability. She's absolutely decided that whoever it is, she's not going to like them because they're taking her glory, her control. In spite of herself, she forms a really significant relationship with Detective Colin Zabel [Evan Peters] that changes Mare and her ability to crack things.

What sets this apart from other murder mysteries?

It's not just a whodunit. It's about community, history, friendship, trust, showing mercy on others and being able to have that sense of mercy for oneself. It's about human nature and values, telling the truth, and having someone's back, at whatever cost.

REBEL

Katey Sagal Takes The Side Of Common Sense In Erin Brockovich-Inspired Drama. By Kate Hahn

Katey Sagal brings her badass energy to the new ABC drama Rebel as fiery consumer advocate Annie "Rebel" Bello. The hard-charging story, spiked with sharp humor, is inspired by the current life of Erin Brockovich, whose early career was chronicled in a hit 2000 film. Age hasn't dimmed her intensity – or Rebel's. "She's angry a lot. She'll get in your face. She calls it how she sees it. She's passionate," Sagal says of the character, created by her longtime friend, Grey's Anatomy showrunner Krista Vernoff. The actress got to know Brockovich, who executive produces, over lunch and phone calls. She shares more.

You've recently guest-starred on comedies Shameless and The Conners. Why was this the series that made you want to dive back into a heavy drama?
Katey Sagal: The Erin Brockovich of it, for sure. Everybody knows what it means to "Erin Brockovich" something. It's a verb. Playing a consumer advocate was really interesting to me, particularly given the time we're in. She gives voice to people who are voiceless. She's on the side of common sense and what's right. At this time in my life, I like being involved with things that help.

She's helping victims hurt by a medical device. What research did you do?
To understand what [Rebel] is fighting I did research into the unregulated part of big pharma and medical devices, and watched a documentary called The Bleeding Edge. I was shocked. There's other advocacy [on the show], too. Rebel is, like Erin, a famous person who gets emails constantly from people coming up against big companies; being harassed by their landlord; about to lose a job for unjust reasons.

> "She's angry a lot. She'll get in your face. She calls it how she sees it. She's passionate."
> – Katey Sagal

Just how fun is it to shoot the scenes where she tells people off?
In my life, I wouldn't call me timid, by any means, but I let a lot of things roll. You know how sometimes you'll have some fiery stuff going on inside? This is a great outlet to let it fly. Rebel says things you're thinking but don't say. She can be offensive. But she's not wrong.

Is she like you at all?
Rebel's got three kids, and she's juggling a career, two ex-husbands, and one current husband. I related. I have three kids, have always been a working mom, hopefully juggled things as best I could, and am on my third husband. But with Rebel's husband [John Corbett] there's conflict ahead. He admires what she does but she's married to it. He's feeling neglected. Something has to give.

They're so passionate.
Rebel keeps it sexy. Women my age can be hot and vital and vibrant and smart. I've always thought this country treats age in such a disrespectful way. Anywhere else in the world, you're respected for getting older.

Were you surprised that an American TV series would be built around an older woman?
It's groundbreaking, the fact that I'm in my 60s. Men of a certain age have always been in leading roles, but you don't find that many women. I have to honor Krista and ABC for breaking that horrible trope of ageism. It's a misconception that as we get older, we get invisible.

Rebel definitely gets noticed. What does her style say about her?
Somebody asks if she's a lawyer, and she says, "What? Do I look like a lawyer?" She's the antithesis of corporate, and wears that proudly. She comes off as large and in charge, a badass in leather pants and T-shirts. Rebel is kind of rock 'n' roll, cool, tough. She's regular people.

How dangerous is she?
She's not an outlaw. She doesn't carry, but she's not unfamiliar with a gun. When she gets it in her mind that something is unfair and has to stop, she's relentless.

$1 Million Payout

RACE TO THE CENTER OF THE EARTH

One Of The Biggest Global Races In History Is Underway On Nat Geo. By Barb Oates

If you find yourself missing The Amazing Race or Survivor, you will be thrilled with National Geographic's first ever global competition series that pits four teams of three against one another in a nonstop sprint across the globe for $1 million.

The seven-episode series, Race to the Center of the Earth, follows the four teams as they literally race to the center of the Earth – a buoy with the life-changing payout. It's a brutal 15-day marathon filled with extraordinary challenges and grueling terrains. Each team starts from a different point around the world and must travel a daily course within a set time frame to earn points. Navigating dangerous and foreign terrains is a challenge all of its own, but teams must rely on a GPS device that has earmarked their route. The points they accumulate come into play in the final stage of the race, as the team with the most points gets a starting pole advantage for the final head-to-head race to the buoy.

So would it be better to start in the rugged mountains of South America, heat-drenched Southeast Asia, frozen Siberia or the vast wilderness of North America? What you initially believe to be an advantage quickly proves otherwise (the course creators logged countless hours in prep work and have rigorously vetted each for fairness). As for the teams, Team Russia is made up of three cops from Anchorage, Alaska. Team South America hails from San Diego, where they met through the climbing community. Southeast Asia is a team of outdoor ed teachers from Seattle. And Team North America consists of three coworkers from a technology/staffing service company in Denver.

Throughout the race, the landscapes are beautiful, the challenges are beyond adrenaline-charged, and the teams are pushed to their absolute limits both physically and mentally. It's an amazing journey!

GANGS OF LONDON

AMC Presents A Crime Drama With A Stiff Upper Lip. By Ryan A. Berenz

AMC's crime drama Gangs of London borrows from a diverse, global library of gangster film conventions more than just The Godfather with tea and crumpets.

"I think the challenge we had was to try to take the things that we love about the genre, but make them unique and make them different, and present something, especially for British television, that we feel hasn't been done before," says creator, director and executive producer Gareth Evans.

"Most of my influences have come mainly from sort of like Asian cinema," Evans says. "So I've been very influenced by triad movies and yakuza movies. So a lot of Japanese cinema, a lot of Hong Kong cinema has been a major influence on the stuff that I've written, and the stuff that I've made. But for sure, we're all fans of The Sopranos, we're all fans of Peaky Blinders, we're all fans of the workspace of Scorsese or Coppola."

In Gangs of London, crime syndicate boss Finn Wallace (Colm Meaney) controls access to a port through which his international customers smuggle contraband into the U.K. When an unknown kingpin has Wallace whacked, the family's delicate web of business dealings starts to unravel. Finn's headstrong son, Sean (Joe Cole), takes control and puts the screws to their customers by closing the docks until someone ferrets out the person who called for the hit on his father.

Tensions run high as family, friends and foes come to pay their respects at Finn's funeral. The powder keg goes off in a massive pub brawl between rival gang foot soldiers, and low-level Wallace family enforcer Elliot Finch (Sope Dirisu) turns into a one-man army in one of the more entertainingly over-the-top fight sequences on TV.

"We wanted to make sure the first action sequence in the show was gonna be something that would be like fun and dynamic, and you know, more of a knockabout and have a little bit of humor to it, and feel like a roller-coaster ride," Evans says. "From the moment [Elliot] bursts into that pub, it's almost like a shark just going straight forward."

The first season consists of 10 hours, with a second season ordered and expected to debut in 2022.

HEMINGWAY 3-Night Event

Ken Burns And Lynn Novick's Documentary Goes Beyond The Myth For An Intimate Look At The Iconic Author. By Jeff Pfeiffer

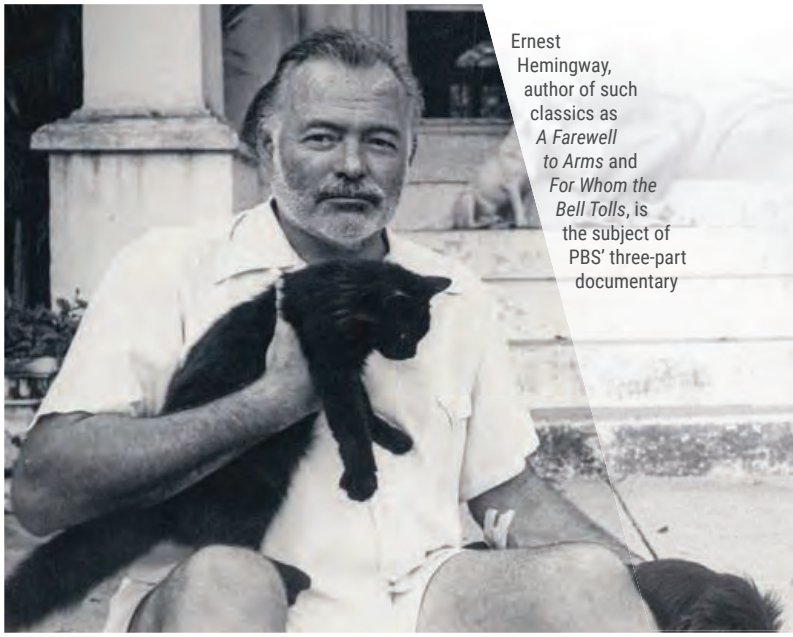

"There's such a brevity and a simplicity that it just boils down to him telling you the truth, and there's no adornment," says actor Jeff Daniels about legendary writer Ernest Hemingway, the subject of Hemingway. It is the latest documentary from Ken Burns and Lynn Novick, and airs over three nights this month on PBS.

That famous conciseness in Hemingway's writing greatly influenced the art of fiction. So it's fitting that Burns and Novick's film is similarly trimmed down compared to some of their previous longer projects as it seeks the unadorned truth behind a writer around whom a mythology remains – many of those myths propagated by the man himself throughout his often-troubled life, which tragically ended with his suicide in 1961.

"I think we were drawn to trying to get at a real Hemingway," says Burns, "and I think the persona of the wild man, the drunk, the big-game hunter, the big-sea fisherman is sort of what we inherit. But almost immediately, we began to see … the full range of how much he was struggling every day to maintain that discipline to touch those moments common to us all, but also wrestling with a whole set of problems that begin to betray the mask of the he-man that he built for himself."

In getting behind that mask, Hemingway masterfully interweaves biographic events from the author's life with excerpts from his works. It also uses Daniels' voice to great effect – the actor lends an emotional immediacy to the words from Hemingway's writing and letters. Meryl Streep, Keri Russell, Mary-Louise Parker and Patricia Clarkson also contribute voice-overs as Hemingway's four wives, which lend similar insights into the women who were drawn to a man who could be cruel to those who loved and helped him.

"[Hemingway was] not the first artist to battle demons," says Daniels, "but he really had a lot going on inside of him. And for that once-in-a-lifetime art to come out of him from underneath or through or around all of that [is] the battle that he fought. Because he easily could have just quit or just stopped writing and been a drunk and killed himself – but he didn't. He didn't. That I find interesting."

Biopic ROBIN ROBERTS PRESENTS: MAHALIA

A Historic Woman Finally Gets The Treatment She Deserves. By Taylor Neumann

When thinking of great Black female role models across history, one who stands out is Mahalia Jackson. She may not be well known outside of the musical sphere, but Mahalia was an important figure in the civil rights movement. Now she's finally getting the (television) treatment she deserves in Robin Roberts Presents: Mahalia, a biopic looking at Mahalia's gospel career and the effect her music had on history.

Mahalia is played by Danielle Brooks, formerly of Orange Is the New Black. The actress is Juilliard trained, and in this project she gets to show off her phenomenal voice (Brooks won a Grammy for her role in The Color Purple). She decided to take the role of Mahalia after doing some soul-searching and trusting her instincts. "You know, I know for a fact that Mahalia stood firm on her faith with God and I've also had to do the same thing through my journey," explained Brooks. "I think that's why I was so connected to who she was because I also grew up in the church, and I also had to lean on God when I felt like I couldn't do things. And this was definitely one of those moments."

POOCH PERFECT

Rebel Wilson Hosts This Colorful Competition Series Between ... Dog Groomers? By Taylor Neumann

If there's one good thing to come out of quarantine over the past year, it's been the extra time we spent with our animals. And the animals – especially dogs – have been equally excited for the extra time with us. We love them, take care of them, snuggle them and even occasionally take them to the groomer – but has your dog ever gone to an extreme groomer? And what even is that? ABC's new eight-episode series Pooch Perfect answers that question as 10 of the country's most accomplished groomers and their assistants take on challenges every week to prove themselves the best in all the land and win a giant cash prize.

The series is based off of an original series in Australia, and the host is the same – actress Rebel Wilson, who surprisingly is actually the perfect choice for this show. "What a lot of people don't know about me is that I am a fourth-generation dog show-er. My great-grandmother started the Beagle Club of Australia, and every weekend of my childhood until I was old enough to stay home by myself I was going to dog shows," explains Wilson. "And my family's business was a little yellow caravan that we traveled all around Australia in to different dog shows, and we'd sell dog grooming products mainly to all of the dog show-ers. So dogs have just been such a huge part of my life."

The judges' panel is just as stacked with dog lovers. There's Dr. Callie Harris, a licensed veterinarian; reality star Lisa Vanderpump, known for her work with rescue animals; and Jorge Bendersky, a celebrity dog groomer himself. The trio are boisterous and increase the energy of the show tenfold, along with Wilson and her comedy antics.

Expect to see some crazy grooming, from colorful dyes to sculptural haircuts. To ensure the dogs are well-behaved and proud to show off their new looks, the producers sourced animals from homes where the dogs bask in the limelight. But as Bendersky says, you have to find those perfect dogs. "Every parent thinks their kids are perfect, right? But not every kid wants to go to a beauty pageant. Those that are chosen to become creative partners, they are dogs that love the attention. If you have a dog that is very shy, you probably won't want them to have pink hair and walk on the street and have people taking pictures."

Mostly the show serves to blow the lid off of a profession that isn't widely understood. It may seem simple, trimming a dog's hair, but the reality of what some groomers can do can be conceived as art. If these contestants can blow away the judges on the "dogwalk," they might have a chance to not only show off the limits of what their profession can do, but also possibly set some new trends.

HYSTERICAL

New Documentary Puts The Spotlight On Boundary-Breaking Women Of Comedy.

By Ryan A. Berenz

"Hysterical" has come to mean something that causes fits of uncontrollable laughter. The word is derived from "hysteria," which in old-timey days was a psychological disorder specific to women. Basically, women who displayed strong emotions or opinions were seen as mentally ill.

The stories shared by female comedians in the new FX documentary special Hysterical reveal that society hasn't completely shed these outmoded ideas. The male-dominated world of stand-up comedy is cutthroat, and it's especially unforgiving for female comics who face double standards in how they're valued by the industry and how their material is received by audiences.

Director Andrea Nevins (Tiny Shoulders: Rethinking Barbie) followed several female comics backstage at clubs and conducted interviews with many of comedy's biggest names to discuss how difficult it is to smash stand-up's glass ceiling. What they reveal is often funny, sometimes heartbreaking and always eye-opening:

Judy Gold: "Way too often, I would hear, 'Oh, we had a woman here three months ago. She didn't do well, so we're not booking women at this time.'"

Marina Franklin: "There's the dream, there's the fantasy and then there's the reality check. I had never understood sexism until I got into the comedy scene."

Sherri Shepherd: "It was never an even playing field. It was so hard to get stage time. As a Black woman, I had to fight. I really, really had to fight for my spots. And I really, really had to prove to the other comics that I was funny."

Rachel Feinstein: "It's tricky, because when somebody asks you to go on the road, you don't always know why. Does this guy really respect my act or is he going to be just strange and gross and lascivious all weekend?"

Kathy Griffin: "For anyone out there – including the women – that are saying, 'Oh, couldn't she have been more ladylike? Couldn't she have said it in a softer tone?' I go, 'Omigosh, we're still hearing that stuff!'"

Iliza Shlesinger: "I still have Facebook messages from, like, 2010. Like, 'Women aren't funny, but I think you are.' And I'm like, 'Thanks, Mom.'"

CHAD

"SNL's" Nasim Pedrad Introduces Us To Her Jarringly Awkward 14-Year-Old.

By Barb Oates

No, Chad isn't Nasim Pedrad's son. But he is her baby, as she's the creator, writer, showrunner, executive producer and star of this cringey, funny comedy. Pedrad, who gave us many memorable parodies as Kim Kardashian and Arianna Huffington during her five-year run on Saturday Night Live, spent the past five years developing the character of Chad.

"Well, it's been quite a journey," Pedrad tells us. "I do feel somewhat like I've been pregnant for five years, and the birth is finally around the corner. … I thought it would be really cool to tell a coming-of-age story centered around a teenager, where the teenager was played by an adult who's in on the joke."

Of course, the adult is Pedrad, who disappears into her character Chad, a 14-year-old pubescent Persian boy who is awkwardly, and horribly, navigating his first year of high school.

"At this point, it's been so many years of my life, it feels quite like second nature. I mean, Chad feels at times at the core of my human spirit, even more than I do," she laughs. "I'm comfortable playing Chad. Maybe it's because I've done it for so many months now, but it's really fun. My happiest moments are just being on set, dicking around and improvising in character and trying to make my costars laugh."

Chad's got a lot of issues as he tries desperately to fit in, one being his delusional sense of confidence and another his cultural identity as an Iranian American.

"This show is so personal to me. It's very much inspired by my own adolescence and the paralyzing fear I had of being different," Pedrad shares. "In writing the show, I certainly drew from my own insecurities at that age, my own experiences. And now, of course, I love embracing that side of my upbringing, the fact that I speak another language and was born in another country and had this beautiful culture that is also such a part of my identity."

HOME ECONOMICS

Three Siblings With Three Different Incomes Find Strength In Family.

By Taylor Neumann

Sibling relationships can be complicated – even more so when money is involved. ABC's new series Home Economics examines how being in a different class than your brothers and sisters can affect your relationship with them – and also how much it maybe doesn't matter after all.

Home Economics stars Topher Grace as Tom, the oldest child of three, a middle-class writer working on a novel about his siblings – but they don't know yet. Jimmy Tatro plays the youngest child, Connor, living in the 1% but struggling with other problems despite his high net worth. Finally, there's Sarah, the middle child, played by Caitlin McGee, who is barely hanging on in terms of money and lives in a tiny home, but has a loving family around her even though she's losing her job.

Jimmy Tatro, Karla Souza, Topher Grace, Caitlin McGee and Sasheer Zamata

Home Economics: © 2020 American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. All rights reserved. Credit: Sami Drasin

The series comes from the mind of cocreator Michael Colton, who brought the show to life alongside John Aboud. It's based on Colton's real-life family dynamics. "I have a twin brother who sold a company for about $7 million," explained Colton. "And then I have a sister who works in social work and has never made money. And it was just all of these feelings of anxiety mixed with pride, mixed with jealousy and insecurity, and we realized this has the makings of a show."

Another factor to the show is Tom's narration, which serves to add depth to the story as Tom writes his book. "It's very organic compared to your typical voice-over because he's actually telling this story. … So he can go off onto sort of a tangent," said Aboud. "We can talk about their childhood friend. They are going to go to his wedding. And why is that loaded for Tom? What kind of relationship did he have with that guy growing up?"

The cast is confident they have a winner on their hands with the show, based simply on the chemistry all of the actors have together. "This is, like, a dream team," said Grace. "You either have that chemistry or you don't. And I've certainly been part of it when it hasn't worked out. But I would say almost every scene, we have trouble finishing the scene because we're all laughing so hard, and then that feeling bleeds into the show. The reason I'm so confident in the show is because of all these guys."

Talking about money can be a fraught subject, but Home Economics promises to handle the topic with grace and humor. "I think that it's super important to talk very honestly about this stuff," McGee noted. "The country is going through a very interesting time right now. People within their own families are struggling, and helping each other out. And I think that, at the core of our show, and in many families, is that – this sounds so cheesy – but love and support of family members is what gets you through job loss. … I think having it in this context, in a comedy, is accessible, but also [that it] can make people laugh is super important in this moment."

Take Storage Wars, Pawn Stars or anything to do with memorabilia, mix in some WWE flair and you will get the premise of WWE's Most Wanted Treasures. From the search for Ric Flair's butterfly robe to Andy Kaufman's neck brace, prepare for the ultimate road trip as some amazing WWE Legends head out across the country to find some of the most elusive WWE collectibles.

"There are certain things that just resonate with [people], and going back is like stepping into a time machine," WWE EVP of Strategy and Talent Development Paul "Triple H" Levesque tells us (pictured above in front with Stephanie McMahon). "There's a Maya Angelou quote that states, 'People won't remember what you said or did; they will remember how you made them feel.' And I truly believe that. It's especially in our business because WWE sort of makes you feel something, these characters make you feel something, they take you back to a time in your life where you felt a certain way … and there's nothing like that."

The series captures great behind-the-scenes looks at the significance of these relics, where the items were found and who owned them. "Meeting the network of fans and the collectors … it really shows you the depth of how much WWE Superstars touch fans' lives and how much they really mean to them," Levesque adds.

In addition to Treasures, WWE Studios and A&E will present eight original installments of the famed Biography series, which will include profiles on WWE Legends like "Stone Cold" Steve Austin, "Rowdy" Roddy Piper, "Macho Man" Randy Savage, Booker T, Ultimate Warrior, Mick Foley, Bret "Hitman" Hart and Shawn Michaels (one of Triple H's best friends in the business).

"A&E sort of started the grand acceptance of biographies … nobody better for us to partner with," Levesque shares. While some of these stories have been told in some manner before, they've never been told this deeply.

The biographies are "ways for you to engage in sort of what it takes, not only as an athlete, as a performer, but just the human story of what it takes, what it entails, and how you come to something and somebody's passion for it," he explains. "You don't have to understand WWE to understand these stories, but once you do see their stories and the passion they put into it, it engages you in WWE in a different way."

Going beyond the mat and outside of the ring, these A&E programs are ready to engage, enlighten and entertain viewers of all ages.

MANIFEST

NBC's Supernatural Drama Returns.

Over a year has now passed since the miraculous homecoming of Flight 828 and the discovery of others who mysteriously returned after being presumed dead for over five years. While the Stone family endeavors to keep their friends safe and make their enemies believe the unbelievable, new challenges will test their trust of the "callings" and each other. Manifest's Season 2 finale aired almost exactly a year ago. In that episode, Zeke (Matt Long) jumped into a frozen lake and saved Cal (Jack Messina), but died in the process – only to come back to life minutes later, appearing free from hypothermia and the death date. Ben (Josh Dallas, pictured) concluded that the only way to beat the death date is to follow the callings. – Jeff Pfeiffer

Season 2 again follows Dr. Orna Guralnik as she counsels three new couples struggling with their relationships. "It somehow felt even more important knowing that we are all going through this." And we couldn't agree more. – Barb Oates

THE MOODYS

Spring Brings More Moody Family Meltdowns.

FOX debuted The Moodys as a holiday limited series in December 2019. People dug it, and Chicago's Moody family is back for another round of misadventures and failed family bonding. Parents Sean Sr. (Denis Leary) and Ann (Elizabeth Perkins), and their three grown kids – Dan (Francois Arnaud), overachiever Bridget (Chelsea Frei) and underachiever Sean Jr. (Baruchel) – are all back under one roof. Sean Sr. contemplates a retirement road trip, but Ann has no plans of leaving her new psychology practice. Bridget is in the process of getting a divorce and moves back with her folks. Dan moves back to Chicago to live with his girlfriend, Cora (Maria Gabriela de Faria), but realizes he's in too deep in their relationship. RETURNING ORIGINAL SERIES

The Handmaid's Tale

Season 4 Premieres April 28

After nearly two long years, Season 4 has finally arrived! Praise be. If you're new to The Handmaid's Tale, it's an Emmy Award-winning Hulu original series based on Margaret Atwood's 1985 novel. In a dystopian future, June (Elisabeth Moss) – a wife and mother – is forced to live as a handmaid (a concubine) under the theocratic dictatorship of Gilead. Season 4 quickly picks up where it left off with June battling for her life, and her relentless fight for freedom against Gilead. June's risk-taking, however, brings unexpected and dangerous new challenges, and her desire for justice and revenge threatens to consume her and destroy her most cherished relationships.

Much of this season is about who holds the power in June's fight for justice: June or Aunt Lydia (Ann Dowd), overseer of the handmaids. "One of the things we deal with this season is power and what real power means and who has it," says Moss. "Power can be dangerous. It can be something that is destructive. … They are both seeking power on their own journeys but perhaps in very different ways and with different objectives."

The first three episodes drop April 28 and new episodes are available Wednesdays. – Dave Lange

The Mosquito Coast

First Two Episodes Available April 30;
Subsequent Episodes Available Fridays

Justin Theroux, Melissa George, Logan Polish and Gabriel Bateman lead this drama based on the bestselling novel, which celebrates its 40th anniversary this year. Created and executive produced by award-winning novelist Neil Cross, the series is a gripping adventure and layered character drama that follows the dangerous journey of radical idealist and brilliant inventor Allie Fox (Theroux), who uproots his family for Mexico when they suddenly find themselves on the run from the U.S. government.

Theroux is actually the nephew of Paul Theroux, who wrote the novel, which has also been adapted into a 1986 film starring Harrison Ford. So, in prepping to portray the main character, the actor naturally reached out to the person who would have the best insights.

"I absolutely called my Uncle Paul," Theroux says, "you know, because it would be foolish not to sort of dip my cup into the well of the source material and the man who wrote it.

"I also, sort of anecdotally, have an intimate knowledge of certain aspects of Allie Fox, because it's our suspicion – or my suspicion, and it's been corroborated – that it's based loosely on certain members of our family, my grandfather, who had a certain thriftiness to him. So, yeah, I had several long conversations with Paul once I got the script, and I started preparing the character."

Calls

Available Now

Based on the buzzy French series of the same name created by Timothée Hochet, Calls is an "auditory mystery series." The groundbreaking, immersive television experience masterfully uses audio and minimal abstract visuals to tell nine bone-chilling, short-form stories. Directed by Fede Álvarez (Don't Breathe), each episode follows a darkly dramatic mystery that unfolds through a series of seemingly average, unconnected phone calls that quickly become surreal as the characters face growingly unsettling experiences.

The all-star cast is led by Nicholas Braun, Clancy Brown, Lily Collins, Rosario Dawson, Mark Duplass, Karen Gillan, Judy Greer, Nick Jonas, Riley Keough, Joey King, Stephen Lang, Pedro Pascal, Aubrey Plaza, Danny Pudi, Aaron Taylor-Johnson and Jennifer Tilly.

New Episodes Available Fridays Beginning April 16

John Stamos, Jessalyn Gilsig and Yvette Nicole Brown lead the cast of this 10-episode series from cocreator David E. Kelley. Stamos plays hotheaded men's basketball coach Marvyn Korn, who, after getting ousted from his job in the NCAA for throwing a chair at a referee, must take a job at Westbrook School for Girls, a private all-girls high school, in an effort to redeem what's left of his career and reputation.

By discovering how to connect with his players and by cultivating more empathy and vulnerability, Coach Korn starts to grow into the man he's always secretly hoped to be – and the father he never had. Meanwhile, the girls learn to take themselves more seriously, rising to Korn's standards of excellence and finding their footing both on and off the court.

"[This is] one of my favorite jobs I've ever had," Stamos raves about this role. On top of that, the actor admits, "I was dying to be on Disney+, because, as you all know out there, I'm a Disney freak."

But Stamos is not really a sports freak, so taking on a role in a sports-themed drama did give him some initial pause.

"I've never been much of a sports guy," Stamos explains, "and I sort of panicked when I heard [this project] was about basketball. … My heart sunk because I'm so bad at sports … but I dug into that part of it as much as I could. I went to a rehearsal with [NBA legend] Jerry West. I guess they call it a 'practice,' but I called it a 'rehearsal,' and he didn't."

Catch A CLASSIC!

The Ten Commandments

ABC, 6pm

Nearly every year since 1973, with a few exceptions, ABC has re-aired this gigantic 1956 Best Picture Oscar-nominated religious epic on or around Easter — even though it relates more to the Passover holiday, given that its story comes from the Old Testament book of Exodus about Moses' (Charlton Heston) deliverance of the Israelites from slavery at the hands of Egyptian pharaoh Rameses II (Yul Brynner). That tradition continues this year, as the network airs director Cecil B. DeMille's thrilling achievement the night before Easter. Already a very lengthy film in its original format, the TV broadcast somehow seems to keep getting longer each year thanks to commercials, so if you're recording the movie this year, be aware that your DVR will get quite a workout — ABC has it scheduled in a four-hour-and-44-minute time slot!
