"Snowpiercer" Looking For A Network

When is TNT's Snowpiercer coming back? I remember it being renewed last year for a final season and usually it comes back every January, but I haven't seen it yet. — Matt

This is an annoying situation. TNT is part of Warner Bros. Discovery, which now owns HBO, Discovery, TLC, ID, OWN, HGTV, Food, TBS, truTV, CNN, Travel and more. The fourth season was canceled following the merger between Discovery and WarnerMedia, TNT's then-parent company, which was rumored to be the result of some content cuts for tax write-offs. The production company behind the series, Tomorrow Studios, is shopping other networks and streamers to find a home for their finished fourth season. We asked for an update, and they told us: "The acquisition deal was just finalized with Turner. Next stop is to hopefully find a new home for Season 4, as well as possible prequels and sequels."

Come On Down!

How do you get on a show like The Price Is Right? — Carol

This one isn't too difficult. Go to priceisright.com and click on "Get Tickets." If you can meet their eligibility requirements (you have to be at least 18, can't be a family member of CBS and its affiliates, can't be a candidate for public office, etc.) and fill out their application, you may be selected.

How Secretive Is "The Masked Singer"?

Who actually knows who the singers are on The Masked Singer? For example, do the other contestants have any clue or any of the judges? — Margie

Judges and contestants are separated at all times, contestants aren't allowed to interact, contestants can't speak out loud, and that show is probably more secretive than any series in TV history, even the final episode of The Sopranos or Game of Thrones.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

Notable TV series, episodes, networks and/or events celebrating anniversaries this month.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

75 YEARS AGO

ABC TELEVISION NETWORK

Founded as a radio network in 1943, the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) expanded into television on April 19, 1948, the third of the "Big Three" broadcasters to do so. ABC's first affiliate was Philadelphia's WFIL-TV (now WPVI-TV).

60 YEARS AGO

GENERAL HOSPITAL

The venerable soap opera debuted April 1, 1963, and still airs weekdays on ABC. Programming surrounding the anniversary includes a special episode honoring the late Sonya Eddy, who played nurse Epiphany Johnson, on March 29; and the return, after three years, of the Nurses Ball, the week of April 3.

NFL On Prime Video Next Year?

Please tell me Amazon, or whatever they call their service these days, is not doing NFL football games next year. The commentary is horrendous, almost unwatchable. It's so much easier to just turn on your darn TV and watch the game. — Jim

Amazon, now known as Prime Video, not only will continue being the exclusive carrier of Thursday Night Football, but will also stream the first Black Friday game the day after Thanksgiving. The streamer will have a total of 16 games for the 2023 season. Their deal with the NFL goes through the 2033 season. Maybe turn down the volume and follow along on a radio station instead. In other NFL news, if you are interested in NFL Sunday Ticket, it will finally be available on other outlets besides DirecTV and online. The National Football League announced late last year a multiyear agreement with Google granting YouTube TV and YouTube Primetime Channels the right to exclusively distribute NFL Sunday Ticket to consumers in the United States starting with the 2023 NFL season. "We're excited to bring NFL Sunday Ticket to YouTube TV and YouTube Primetime Channels and usher in a new era of how fans across the United States watch and follow the NFL," NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell said. "For a number of years, we have been focused on increased digital distribution of our games, and this partnership is yet another example of us looking towards the future and building the next generation of NFL fans."

Congratulations!

45 YEARS AGO

THE AMAZING SPIDER-MAN

Following a pilot movie on CBS in September 1977, this first live-action incarnation of Marvel's wall-crawling hero ran as a series from April 5, 1978-July 6, 1979. Nicholas Hammond played Peter Parker and his arachnid-enhanced alter ego, with Robert F. Simon as J. Jonah Jameson.

CARD SHARKS

The original incarnation of this classic game show format, which has since had four subsequent versions, aired April 24, 1978-Oct. 23, 1981, on NBC, during a time when broadcast nets aired such programs during daytime. Jim Perry hosted, with frequent game show vocal presence Gene Wood on hand as announcer.

DALLAS

There wasn't much expected from this primetime soap following the oil-rich Ewing family in Texas when it ran as a five-part miniseries on CBS Sundays April 2-30, 1978. But it did well enough to continue as a series beginning that September and really took off when the ever-scheming J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman) became a fan favorite, airing until May 3, 1991.

35 YEARS AGO

CHINA BEACH

Praised by critics but overlooked by many viewers, this ABC drama set at an evac hospital during the Vietnam War did run four seasons, from April 27, 1988-July 22, 1991. Among its many Emmy nominations, it won five, including two for Dana Delany as Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama Series, and one for Marg Helgenberger as Supporting Actress.

ICONIC AMERICA

Learn The Surprising History Behind Famous Places. By Maxine Bass

You may think you know the history behind many iconic symbols in America.

You will be surprised to find out you don't.

David Rubenstein — author, philanthropist, producer and host of the eight-part documentary series Iconic America: Our Symbols and Stories With David Rubenstein (Wednesdays beginning April 26 on PBS) — has long challenged us to tackle our history and to become informed citizens. This series builds on that, taking a close examination of iconic national symbols: places from the Hollywood Sign, Fenway Park and American cowboys to the Gadsden flag (the "Don't Tread on Me" flag), the American bald eagle, the Statue of Liberty, Stone Mountain and the Golden Gate Bridge.

"I've long been struck by the strength of American symbols while saddened by how little we know about them," says Rubenstein. "Our goal with this series was to explore the history and meaning of these iconic symbols and to better understand the bigger issues and societal currents they reveal."

For example, you may think that the Hollywood Sign was built to honor Hollywood — it wasn't. The original sign read Hollywoodland. It was designed to sell homes but instead became a beacon for fame, fortune and the American dream.

Another surprise was learning the background of the Statue of Liberty. We think that France gave the Statue of Liberty to the United States to welcome our arriving immigrants. Nope. The Statue of Liberty was designed to be a symbol of Franco-American friendship, to thank the Americans for getting rid of slavery. Each of these eight stories will open our eyes to our history.

Trade rumors will swirl around superstar Shohei Ohtani if the L.A. Angels aren't in contention

CHANGE-UP

The National Pastime Picks Up The Pace.

By Ryan A. Berenz

ESPN Sunday Night Baseball

April 2 — Philadelphia at Texas
April 9 — San Diego at Atlanta
April 16 — Texas at Houston
April 23 — N.Y. Mets at San Francisco
April 30 — Philadelphia at Houston

Baseball, steeped in history and tradition, has notoriously been slow to evolve. The 2023 Major League Baseball season, however, introduces new rules intended to increase scoring and speed up games, including a pitch timer, limits on pickoff attempts by pitchers and timeouts for batters, restrictions on fielder shifts, and bigger bases. How will they affect the product on the field? We can't wait to find out.

Mets All In It's World Series or bust for the N.Y. Mets, who cooked up a feast in the Hot Stove League. Even with the deal for prized free-agent infielder Carlos Correa falling through, the team paid big to retain and acquire players, most notably three-time Cy Young-winning pitcher Justin Verlander.

Judge Presides N.Y. Yankees outfielder Aaron Judge bashed into the history books in '22 by setting the new American League single-season home run mark with 62. It's silly to expect Judge to post a similar total this year, but it will be fun to watch him try.

Angels Get Wings The L.A. Angels have two once-in-a-generation talents in outfielder Mike Trout and pitcher/DH Shohei Ohtani, but they haven't finished above third in the AL West since 2017. Maybe everyone will be healthy, the Halos will be in contention and Ohtani won't be traded this summer.

Phillies Stay Afloat The reigning National League champs will be without star right-fielder Bryce Harper for the season's first half while he recovers from Tommy John surgery. Adding shortstop Trea Turner to a batting order that features NL home run king Kyle Schwarber will keep opposing pitchers sweating.

Underdog Dodgers The San Diego Padres will be a popular pick to unseat the L.A. Dodgers in the NL West, especially now that the Friars have shortstop Xander Bogaerts. The Dodgers won 111 games last year, but the Padres dashed their hopes in the division series. This rivalry might be the fiercest in baseball.

Problems for Houston? The Astros have reached the AL Championship Series for six straight seasons and won two World Series in that span. The rotation is solid even without Verlander, and adding first baseman and 2020 AL MVP José Abreu brings more pop to an already potent lineup. But as their AL foes improve, can the 'Stros maintain their altitude?

1 A CENTURY OF WARNER BROS.

Monthlong TCM Event Celebrates The Legendary Studio's 100th Anniversary.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

On April 4, 1923, brothers Harry, Albert, Sam and Jack Warner founded Warner Bros., one of Hollywood's most iconic studios. Among the cool events taking place for this anniversary is a concert series called Candlelight: 100 Years of Warner Bros. Touring various venues across the world beginning this month and running through December, Candlelight features music from some of Warner Bros.' most iconic movie and TV productions. Details on this and more can be found at wb100.com.

On television, Turner Classic Movies (which, like Warner Bros. Pictures itself, recently came under the umbrella of the newly formed Warner Bros. Discovery) is celebrating the studio's centennial, and tracing its history, all April long. Every title on TCM's schedule is a WB production, from a range spanning the silent/early talkie era to the '80s. Additionally, there will be several documentaries and special nights devoted to movies from legendary Warner Bros. stars like Humphrey Bogart (April 19) and Bette Davis (April 11).

It's an impressive mix of titles and themes running across the month. Just a few notable highlights are The Brothers Warner (2007), a documentary made by Cass Warner, Harry's granddaughter, that tells the inside story of the studio's creation (April 1); Casablanca (1942), perhaps Warner's most iconic production from Hollywood's golden age (April 8); and new restorations of Howard Hawks' 1959 Western Rio Bravo (which leads a Hawks double feature, followed by 1946's The Big Sleep, on April 17) and Elia Kazan's drama East of Eden (1955), starring James Dean, which kicks off an evening devoted to the actor on April 26 that also includes Rebel Without a Cause (1955) and Giant (1956).

2 Carol Burnett: 90 Years Of Laughter + Love

Wednesday, April 26 on NBC By Barb Oates

Funny is funny, and comedy icon Carol Burnett knows that like no other. She's been making people laugh since she took the stage in 1959 on The Garry Moore Show, who she credits for being her best mentor. Now the cherished, ear-tugging phenomenon humbly takes a seat in the audience (and also takes the stage), this time at the Avalon Hollywood in Los Angeles, where stars pay tribute to her work and celebrate her 90th birthday in NBC's two-hour special Carol Burnett: 90 Years of Laughter + Love.

This once-in-a-lifetime party has a guest list like no other that includes Vicki Lawrence, Julie Andrews, Bob Mackie, Lily Tomlin, Susan Lucci, Amy Poehler, Bill Hader, Cher, Ellen DeGeneres, Kristen Wiig, Sofia Vergara, Steve Carell and so many others. Some of the musical tributes include "Old Friends" dedicated to Carol's 60-year friendship with Julie Andrews, highlights from Annie and "I'm So Glad We Had This Time Together."

Just a week after filming the special, Carol talked to us about turning 90 ("It's hard to wrap my head around it, but considering the alternative, I am feeling great"), some of the more tear-jerker moments in the special (a grown-up Aileen Quinn singing "Tomorrow" from Annie) and what's next for the legend.

The show took a pass on cake and candles and delivered an unbelievable variety show. Carol shares what moved her: The whole evening moved me. It wasn't a birthday party. There were no balloons and cakes and confetti or any of that. I didn't want it. It was a roast. It was a variety show with live entertainment. We had a 19-piece orchestra. We had entertainment from Bernadette Peters, Kristin Chenoweth, Billy Porter, Jane Lynch, Katy Perry, Darren Criss, Sutton Foster. I mean, unbelievable.

Gobsmacked by friends and performances.

There were friends there who got up and spoke. Bob Odenkirk and Rhea Seehorn and Vince Gilligan, all the Better Call Saul folks were there. And my chum Julie Andrews flew out and she sat with me for the whole evening. And Steve Carell came out and opened the show. It was a show, a variety show. And it was very, very funny and entertaining and a little teary-eyed, too, especially when they did a tribute to the movie Annie and then Aileen Quinn was there, who was the original little Annie. She belted out "Tomorrow" and there wasn't a dry eye in the house. It was so sweet. So I was pretty gobsmacked by the whole thing, and it'll live with me forever.

Annie: © Columbia Pictures/courtesy Everett Collection. Better Call Saul: © AMC/courtesy Everett Collection. Credit: Greg Lewis/AMC.

Making new friends and reuniting with old.

[I looked forward to seeing] all of them! Especially my chum Julie Andrews. And Bernadette Peters — she was the first person we ever asked to be on The Carol Burnett Show. … And then to make a new friend with Billy Porter. Oh my God, he blew it out [of the water]. He was so good. He did "Easy Street" from Annie. There was just so many. And Marisa Tomei comes out dressed as Mrs. Wiggins in the Bob Mackie segment. Bob and Vicki were there, of course. We pay homage to Harvey Korman and Tim Conway and Lyle Waggoner; and Vicki and Bob.

Celebrating her 90th on April 26th.

We're going to go out to dinner with some friends and then come back and watch the show, because some of them weren't in the audience when we did it. It'll be kind of toned down, certainly nothing like what we did last week.

Making so many people happy over the years, but also finding happiness for herself.

What makes me happy? Just being alive and being healthy and still having so many friends. I get fan mail and I answer everything when I get it. And I'm getting fan mail from 10-year-olds and teenagers and young adults. That makes me happy, too. That our show, after all these years, still makes people laugh and that they're watching it on YouTube, Shout and MeTV and box sets and all of that. There's a saying that I like: "People will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but they'll never forget how you made them feel."

Singing in the shower — and with Katy Perry?

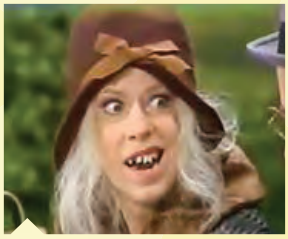

Well, I sing in the shower. Yeah. And on the show I do sing the last few bars of "I'm So Glad We Had This Time Together." Katy Perry does the whole song at the end of the evening, and then she sits next to me and just hands me the mic and I just do the last "Comes the time we have to say so long." And I have to say I choked up a bit.

What's next, and how will we celebrate Carol's 100th?

Oh, I doubt that that'll happen, but no, just to keep on working as long as I have all my parts. I still have my hips and my knees. So far I'm OK. And I do my crossword puzzles and I just finished doing a series for Apple TV+ called Palm Royale with Kristin Wiig, Allison Janney, Laura Dern and Ricky Martin. And they're talking about a second season. And if they ask, I would certainly do that. But just keep working. I'm Energizer Bunny. I want to be like Rita Moreno. She's a spitfire. And she's a year older than I am.

Stella Toddler
A 94-year-old famous acting teacher who takes a regular beating on a television show hosted by an unctuous emcee (Korman). "Poor old Stella wound up being put in harm's way in several sketches … and all the time just wanting to go home."

The Pigeon Lady
The crazy old lady who loved to feed pigeons and would interrupt a wheelchair-restricted Mr. Purdy's (Conway) time in the park. "This was a sketch where I did all the talking, becoming crazier and crazier."

Miss Starlett O'Hara
A spoof of Gone With the Wind with Carol as Starlett, Korman as Rat Butler, Lawrence as the dippy Sissy, Conway as Brashley and Dinah Shore as Melody.

Annie (1982)
In an iconic role, Carol's talent was on full display as the orphanage's manager Miss Agatha Hannigan.

Better Call Saul (2022)
Last year, Carol had a four-episode run on the acclaimed series as Marion, an elderly woman who befriends and ultimately recognizes who Saul Goodman is.

3 SECRETS OF THE ELEPHANTS

Friday, April 21 & Saturday, April 22 on NAT GEO

NEW SERIES!

Last Earth Day, Nat Geo and filmmaker James Cameron debuted the first series in their outstanding Secrets of natural history programming franchise, Secrets of the Whales. The franchise continues this Earth Day weekend with the next installment, the equally impressive Secrets of the Elephants.

Describing the Secrets of films at a recent press conference, Cameron related this real-life programming to his fictional Avatar blockbusters.

"On the Avatar films," Cameron said, "we're creating a fantasy view of nature, but, thematically, underneath all that is this idea of the interconnectedness not only of nature itself but of us with nature, as inhabitants of nature. In the Secrets series we try to forge an even more intimate and emotional connection with nature — to illuminate how these amazing creatures think, how they feel, how they communicate, how they function as complex societies and cultures."

In Secrets of the Elephants, all of that is on incredible display over four episodes (two airing each night) that follow these pachyderms — often a herd of families — as they work to survive in savannahs, a forest and even a desert in Africa, and urban Asian landscapes. Narrated by Natalie Portman, the series features breathtaking cinematography as it grips viewers and brings them into the elephants' world. It will likely teach you things (we did not know that a rare group of elephants somehow manages to live in Africa's inhospitable Namib Desert, for example, and they have learned to "surf" down sandy cliffs to get to the infrequent waterhole) and shows some previously unfilmed behavior, such as a mother elephant "showering" with the afterbirth following her delivery of a daughter.

There is also compelling drama that makes a viewer invested in these creatures' constant drive for survival, as various emotional and suspenseful moments play out in scenes like: a matriarch ultimately communicating her decision to lead the herd, including a few calves, down a treacherous mountain path toward a life-sustaining waterhole; or when cameras follow a newborn calf among the desert-dwelling elephants to see if she will become the first in eight years to survive her first six months of life in that harsh terrain, with the other females in the small herd also pitching in to protect the youngster.

Secrets of the Elephants continues a great Earth Day tradition, one that will continue for years to come. Earth Day 2024 will see Secrets of the Octopus, and subsequent installments that will focus on bees and penguins have also been ordered.

HAPPY EARTH DAY!

4 CHASING THE RAINS

Saturdays beginning April 22
on BBC AMERICA
NEW SERIES!

Water is life. In northern Kenya, where rainfall is scarce, life takes full advantage of every drop of moisture. Bridgerton's Adjoa Andoh narrates this four-part series taking viewers on a journey to one of Africa's rarely filmed regions north of Mount Kenya, where plants and wildlife endure long periods of drought broken by dramatic rainfalls that reinvigorate the ecosystem. Chasing the Rains begins at a time when river valleys flow with water and the land is lush with new life, bringing elephants, wildebeest, zebras, gazelles and other herbivores to eat, drink and bathe. Carnivores like lions, cheetahs, spotted hyenas and African wild dogs have prey aplenty. But the feast is short-lived, as the sun bakes the parched earth and the animals must once again fight for survival in the harsh, dry climate. The series also looks at how climate change has prolonged these periods of drought, making an already challenging struggle all the more difficult. — Ryan A. Berenz

Stephanie Mills

6 PRIDE: A SEVEN DEADLY SINS STORY

Saturday, April 8 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

When Stephanie Mills was just 11 years old, she walked onto the stage for amateur night at Harlem's legendary Apollo Theater and never looked back — she won amateur night for six straight weeks and then hit the road with the Isley Brothers. That was the start of what would become an amazing, five-decade-long career. When we caught up with the Grammy-winning Mills, who's beloved for iconic hits like "Never Knew Love Like This Before" and "Home," she was literally heading "home" to Charlotte after performing in Los Angeles. Mills, who just turned 66, was happy to carve out time to talk about her latest project, Lifetime's Pride: A Seven Deadly Sins Story (it's the fifth movie in the network's successful Seven Deadly Sins anthology film franchise).

"I haven't acted in a long time," Mills shares. "I loved playing Birdie. She's strong, she loves her family, but she has a lot of pride that complicated a lot of relationships with her family. Ultimately love wins out, and that was wonderful."

Inspired by a true story, Pride tells the tale of reality TV star Birdie Moore, whose carefully constructed world starts to crumble when her family secrets are brought to light. To salvage her legacy, Birdie must let go of the pride that distanced her from her son (Thomas Miles) and learn to reconnect in ways she wasn't previously capable.

"The film hit home for me," Mills says. "I've had people in my family who have passed away from cancer, so I can relate to that. Family is everything to me; it was everything to my mom and my dad, too. My mother never let anything get in between her children. For my mother, her children were everything, so I couldn't relate to Birdie in that sense, but I knew the essence of her. I knew she was a strong Black woman who wanted the best for her children."

The film also includes a touching segment that allows two Grammy-winning actresses — Erica Campbell also stars as a pastor in the film — to exercise their vocal range. "I think people are going to be pleasantly surprised," Mills shares. "We sing together just a little bit, but it's very nice. It's in a scene when I'm in the hospital and I'm being tested for my cancer. And [Campbell] comes in as my pastor and I ask her to sing one of my favorite hymns."

As for what makes Mills prideful and happy these days? "What makes me happy and makes me prideful is the fact that audiences still come out to see me. We just played [in Los Angeles], me and El DeBarge, and we sold out. And for me not to have any new music out, and for people to still come and pay their hard-earned money to see me is just amazing. ... For me to still be in the game at this age and still doing well is a blessing, and that I'm proud of."

She assures us, "I'm living my best life." — Barb Oates

Ally Sheedy and Sofia Black-D'Elia

7 SINGLE DRUNK FEMALE

Wednesdays beginning
April 12 on FREEFORM
SEASON PREMIERE!

This lighthearted, original comedy about 20-something writer and recovering alcoholic Sam (Sofia Black-D'Elia), who is forced to sober up and move in with her overbearing mother, Carol (Ally Sheedy), returns for its second season, with Sam celebrating her 29th birthday and a year and a half of sobriety, as well as a new job. Challenges still arise, however, and Sam must learn to navigate them with all the natural discomfort they bring and none of the booze. "It's a comedy still, but I think it does a really smart job of looking at how other people in a family are involved in the alcoholic's alcoholism and how living with an alcoholic that closely changes those relationships in extremely toxic ways. So, Carol has a big reckoning this season about her own behavior," Sheedy told us, about where the show was heading. "There is a whole world of things that have not been dealt with between Samantha and Carol that really do have to be addressed, and that stuff starts coming up in Season 2."

Molly Ringwald

The new season will also reunite Sheedy with her Breakfast Club costar Molly Ringwald, who will guest-star as her sister-in-law, Alice. "Carol's had a long relationship with this character. She comes in, and there's a flashback to the shiva when [her husband] died. I loved that. First of all, I love working with Molly. She's one of my favorite people in the world. But I love that scene because the history between these two women was so easy for us to play." — Zhanna Slor

Leah Brotherhead, Taj Atwal and Sinead Matthews

8 HULLRAISERS

Wednesdays beginning April 5 on IFC
NEW SERIES!

This British sitcom, adapted from an Israeli series, is set in the English city of Hull and follows three middle-aged women dealing with the unglamorous realities of working-class adulthood. Toni (Leah Brotherhead) is a wife, mother and self-described actress who does very little acting outside of the house. Her older sister, Paula (Sinead Matthews), has to deal with a teenage daughter (Natalie Davies) who's taking pole dancing lessons. Rana (Taj Atwal), Toni's best friend and Paula's sister-in-law, is a policewoman who has neither a husband nor kids getting in the way of her good times. Actress/comedian/writer Lucy Beaumont adapted the series as a love letter to her Hull hometown and a comic exploration of her parenting struggles. In one episode, Toni has a near-meltdown after her daughter decides she's terrified of flamingos a half-hour before her flamingo-themed birthday party begins.

RACE TO SURVIVE ALASKA

Mondays beginning April 3 on USA NETWORK

NEW SERIES!

Fans of Survivor, The Amazing Race and survival shows like Alone often do a self-litmus test of sorts questioning if they would be up for the challenge or would have a shot at winning. No chance on this one for a lot of us, as this is the most grueling, punishing, desperate fight for survival ever explored on television.

USA Network's Race to Survive Alaska follows eight teams as they race across more than 100 miles of inhospitable terrain for a shot at winning $500,000. The competition is over six weeks and includes six legs, where adventure racers and survival experts not only race but also need to source their own food and water while trying to navigate previously unexplored Alaskan terrain. In each leg of the race, the last team to reach the finish line is eliminated.

"The thing that sort of sparked the idea for me and my team was about how do we make it urgent? How do we get it moving? And we're like, let's make it a race," tells Brian Lovett, executive producer and one of the race's creators. "It's two races in one. You have this incredible adventure race, through really challenging terrain. But then when you get through the race part … now they need to live off the land for three, four days [before they start the next leg]."

Quickly you can see that while some may have an advantage being the fastest racers, you're going to be in trouble if you don't know how to make a fire, forage for food, build a shelter, navigate using a compass, and deal with injuries and all the other unpredictability that comes with being in the wild.

"Some lost 10, 20 pounds," Lovett adds. "I mean, they lost a lot of weight and it was brutal. It really was tough. We had some really interesting outcomes for some of the teams." — Barb Oates

11 DEAR MAMA

Fridays beginning April 21 on FX

NEW SERIES!

A 1988 interview with then 17-year-old Tamalpais High School senior Tupac Shakur reveals a young man with exceptional charisma and eloquence. He has wisdom beyond his years, and the courage to speak truth to power. "We're not being taught to deal with the world as it is," he says. "We're being taught to deal with this fairyland, which we're not even living in anymore. That's why my mother taught me to analyze society and not be quiet. If there's something in my mind, speak it."

Tupac's mother, Afeni Shakur, was a political activist and member of the Black Panther Party. She and 20 other members were arrested in New York City in 1969 on trumped-up charges of conspiracy to bomb police stations and other public buildings. After her acquittal in 1971, Afeni's life as a single mother was difficult, and she struggled with drug addiction through the 1980s. In 1996, she mourned Tupac's murder in a drive-by shooting, a crime that remains unsolved.

FX's five-part documentary series Dear Mama is a deep dive into Tupac and Afeni's relationship, and how Afeni's revolutionary mind influenced her son as an artist, poet, rapper, actor, activist and icon. In addition to interviews with Afeni before her death in 2016, the series also includes interviews with Mike Tyson, Dr. Dre, Snoop Dogg and Eminem, and recollections from Afeni and Tupac's close friends and family.

There are also moments when Dear Mama director Allen Hughes has to turn the camera on himself. Hughes and his brother, Albert, directed two of Tupac's music videos in the early 1990s. Tupac and members of his crew assaulted the Hughes brothers after they fired him from the film Menace II Society. Tupac served 15 days in jail for the offense.

"That's pretty surreal to do a narrative that you were a part of, and then to have it be so personal," Allen Hughes says. "I didn't want to do it at first. And then I realized, @#$%, I never processed the trauma, but we have to take ownership of all of our collective journey. This is part of us. So how do we decant this?" — Ryan A. Berenz

Eldest son Austin (Marcus Rosner) is a rodeo champion wed to former trick rider Missy (Riverdale's Tiera Skovbye); middle heartbreaker Cash (Beau Mirchoff of Good Trouble) has been off serving in the military; and the youngest, Tuff (Hallmark movie vet Jake Foy), is a rider and country singer whose interest in men doesn't make him any less of a cowboy. Keeping them in check is Isabel, played by Nancy Travis. The tenacious matriarch "has seen a lot of tragedy and is passionate about supporting her family," the Last Man Standing alum offers. — Damian Holbrook

The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel

Available April 14 (First 3 Episodes); New Episodes Fridays

The beloved and acclaimed comedy/drama comes to an end with a seven-week series send-off. Season 4 saw Midge (Emmy winner Rachel Brosnahan) rebuilding her career and reputation, even after burning bridges and being cut from tour. The final moments of the season culminated with her leaving Carnegie Hall reinvigorated and ready to fight for her ascent to stardom.

"Since the pilot," Brosnahan says, "Midge's ambition to be a successful stand-up has been unwavering." Despite pushback from disapproving parents, mid 20th century sexism and missteps that left her as an emcee in a strip joint, in this fifth and final season, the actress declares, "Midge's star [will] rise."

Brosnahan offers more on what's to come:

Midge Follows Her Sign After the illegal club she performs in was raided and mentor Lenny Bruce (Emmy winner Luke Kirby) delivered a "tough love" lecture, Midge looked up at the sky and saw the words "Go Forward." Focusing, she saw it was actually an ad for The Gordon Ford Show. Lightbulb! In a pivot this season, it seems Midge will charm Ford booker Mike Carr (Jason Ralph, Brosnahan's husband) and the host (Reid Scott), both new show regulars, into giving her a gig. "We see her coming into her own as a woman in this world," says Brosnahan.

Midge's Men Return A night of passion led to Bruce's heartbreaking plea for Midge to stop sabotaging her career, but he is still there for her. And for better or worse, her unexpectedly married hookup, known as "The Handsome Man" (Milo Ventimiglia), is back! We'll learn his name and more when they reconnect.

Maisel Family Decisions Midge's prudish folks Rose (Marin Hinkle) and Abe (Tony Shalhoub) have to decide whether to support their daughter's career. Plus, the baby that Midge's ex-husband Joel (Michael Zegen) and his girlfriend Mei (Stephanie Hsu) are expecting "could affect the delicate balance [the former couple] has struck," Brosnahan reveals. "The relationship will grow to a beautiful place," but in the meantime — "it's messy." We wouldn't have it any other way. — Ileane Rudolph

Dead Ringers

Available April 21

Starring Rachel Weisz and based on the 1988 David Cronenberg film of the same name, this dark psychological thriller series is about identical twin gynecologists who share everything with each other: workplace, home, even lovers. Their close relationship is put to the test when one twin falls for a patient. "I think it feels like it's a grandchild of the film, maybe," Alice Birch, showrunner and creator of Dead Ringers, says of the adaptation. "Both Rachel [Weisz] and I were big fans of the Cronenberg; it's such an iconic, fascinating film that's really not like anything else. But I think this definitely departs from it and goes to different places that the film doesn't. Just having six hours to play with, and the fact that they're women and also more engaged with obstetrics felt like an expansion for us. These are very codependent twin sisters locked in this unsustainable but very intertwined relationship. There was just so much space and so much potential to really dig into what that could be. And then, also, against the backdrop of women's health."

Citadel

Available April 28 (First 2 Episodes); New Episodes Fridays

They've remained hidden ever since, building new lives under new identities and unaware of their pasts. Mason seeks out his former partner, Nadia, and the two spies embark on a mission that takes them around the world.

SEASON PREMIERE

The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel

Available April 14 (First 3 Episodes); New Episodes Fridays

The beloved and acclaimed comedy/drama comes to an end with a seven-week series send-off. Season 4 saw Midge (Emmy winner Rachel Brosnahan) rebuilding her career and reputation, even after burning bridges and being cut from tour. The final moments of the season culminated with her leaving Carnegie Hall reinvigorated and ready to fight for her ascent to stardom.

"Since the pilot," Brosnahan says, "Midge's ambition to be a successful stand-up has been unwavering." Despite pushback from disapproving parents, mid 20th century sexism and missteps that left her as an emcee in a strip joint, in this fifth and final season, the actress declares, "Midge's star [will] rise."

Brosnahan offers more on what's to come:

Midge Follows Her Sign After the illegal club she performs in was raided and mentor Lenny Bruce (Emmy winner Luke Kirby) delivered a "tough love" lecture, Midge looked up at the sky and saw the words "Go Forward." Focusing, she saw it was actually an ad for The Gordon Ford Show. Lightbulb! In a pivot this season, it seems Midge will charm Ford booker Mike Carr (Jason Ralph, Brosnahan's husband) and the host (Reid Scott), both new show regulars, into giving her a gig. "We see her coming into her own as a woman in this world," says Brosnahan.

Midge's Men Return A night of passion led to Bruce's heartbreaking plea for Midge to stop sabotaging her career, but he is still there for her. And for better or worse, her unexpectedly married hookup, known as "The Handsome Man" (Milo Ventimiglia), is back! We'll learn his name and more when they reconnect.

Maisel Family Decisions Midge's prudish folks Rose (Marin Hinkle) and Abe (Tony Shalhoub) have to decide whether to support their daughter's career. Plus, the baby that Midge's ex-husband Joel (Michael Zegen) and his girlfriend Mei (Stephanie Hsu) are expecting "could affect the delicate balance [the former couple] has struck," Brosnahan reveals. "The relationship will grow to a beautiful place," but in the meantime — "it's messy." We wouldn't have it any other way. — Ileane Rudolph

Available April 21

Starring Rachel Weisz and based on the 1988 David Cronenberg film of the same name, this dark psychological thriller series is about identical twin gynecologists who share everything with each other: workplace, home, even lovers. Their close relationship is put to the test when one twin falls for a patient. "I think it feels like it's a grandchild of the film, maybe," Alice Birch, showrunner and creator of Dead Ringers, says of the adaptation. "Both Rachel [Weisz] and I were big fans of the Cronenberg; it's such an iconic, fascinating film that's really not like anything else. But I think this definitely departs from it and goes to different places that the film doesn't. Just having six hours to play with, and the fact that they're women and also more engaged with obstetrics felt like an expansion for us. These are very codependent twin sisters locked in this unsustainable but very intertwined relationship. There was just so much space and so much potential to really dig into what that could be. And then, also, against the backdrop of women's health."

Citadel

Available April 28 (First 2 Episodes); New Episodes Fridays

Mason seeks out his former partner, Nadia, and the two spies embark on a mission that takes them around the world.

Warner Bros. 100th Anniversary: Great Directors at Warner Bros.

TCM, beginning at 7/6pm [CATCH A CLASSIC!]

Turner Classic Movies' monthlong celebration of Warner Bros.' centennial continues with another Thursday evening of titles from legendary directors who helmed films for Warner, and there are two biggies tonight. First are two Westerns from the master of that genre, John Ford: The Searchers (1956), one of Ford's famed collaborations with star John Wayne, and Sergeant Rutledge (1960), influential as one of the first mainstream American films to deal frankly with racism and to cast a Black actor (Woody Strode) in a starring role. Preceding these films is the 1951 Merrie Melodies animated short Drip-Along Daffy, a Western parody directed by Chuck Jones and starring Daffy Duck and Porky Pig. Concluding the evening are two of the last features from director Elia Kazan: the Best Picture Oscar-nominated drama America, America (1963), which earned Kazan Oscar nods for his direction and the screenplay he adapted from his own book, and The Arrangement (1969), a drama led by Kirk Douglas and Faye Dunaway that Kazan also adapted from his novel of the same name.

Warner Bros. 100th Anniversary: The Superhero Era Begins [CATCH A CLASSIC!]

TCM, beginning at 7/6pm

Marvel may rule the big-screen superhero game nowadays, but in the late 1970s and '80s, when the modern form of the comic book feature film was being introduced, it was DC Comics — which is under the Warner umbrella — that dominated the box office. That came largely through the two Warner Bros. blockbusters, starring DC's two most popular characters, that are airing tonight as part of Turner Classic Movies' monthlong celebration of the studio's centennial. Up first, though, there is a cartoon: director Chuck Jones' classic 1953 Merry Melodies animated short Duck Dodgers in the 24 1/2th Century, starring Daffy Duck, Porky Pig and Marvin the Martian. Then, the evening's comic book-themed double feature takes off with Superman (1978), in which Christopher Reeve cemented himself as the quintessential big-screen Man of Steel. Following that is Tim Burton's 1989 blockbuster Batman (pictured). Just as Superman has forever linked Reeve with his screen character in the minds of many, so, too, did this film make Michael Keaton the favorite big-screen Batman/Bruce Wayne to a lot of people, as unlikely as that might have seemed before the film was released. Likewise, Jack Nicholson's brilliantly crazed and iconic performance as Jack Napier/Joker has cast a long shadow over other actors who have since portrayed that legendary supervillain.
