RANDOM RANTS & RAVES

■ Why Does It Have To End?

What's the reason behind NBC ending New Amsterdam in January? — Carol

The series comes back from hiatus on Tuesday, Jan. 3 and bids farewell for good on Jan. 17. Last March, NBC announced that the series would wrap with a 13-episode Season 5, the shortest season ever, even though in 2020 the net had given the medical drama a three-season renewal. Reports indicate that the series was costly to produce and didn't deliver ratings anywhere close to NBC's other powerhouses like Chicago Med. It's been an emotional and fun ride following Dr. Max Goodwin (Ryan Eggold) and the staff at America's oldest public hospital.

■ "Virgin River" Return?

Is there going to be a fifth season of Virgin River? — Igor

Yes! The Netflix series continues to be extremely popular. Although we don't have an exact date yet for the release, we do know that they wrapped up filming the fifth season in November and it is currently in post-production. Expect to see new episodes later this year. You can keep track of renewed and canceled series each month on page 7.

■ World Cup Winner

Just wanted to send out kudos for your World Cup bracket and programming coverage in your magazine. Those pages are faithfully sitting on my coffee table, and I reference them daily. Looking forward to seeing the same format in another four years. Go USA! Thanks! — Matt

Appreciate the feedback, Matt! FIFA World Cup 2026 is heading to North America with host cities being Atlanta, Boston, Dallas, Houston, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Miami, New York/New Jersey, Philadelphia, San Francisco Bay Area and Seattle, as well as Guadalajara, Mexico City, Monterrey, Toronto and Vancouver. While waiting,

I LOVE LUCY: "LUCY GOES TO THE HOSPITAL"

On Jan. 19, 1953, nearly 74% of U.S. televisions were tuned to CBS as Lucy Ricardo (Lucille Ball) brought "Little Ricky" into the world. Hours before this episode, which was filmed in November, Ball actually gave birth to Desi Arnaz Jr.

SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK!

Folks of a certain age might have learned about conjunctions, basic math and science, how a bill becomes a law and other subjects via this interstitial series of animated musical educational shorts that originally aired Saturday mornings on ABC Jan. 6, 1973-Jan. 1, 1984.

■ Network Alert!

EPIX is changing its name to MGM+ effective Jan. 15. MGM+'s president said that the premium and stand-alone streaming service rebranding "is a promise to existing and new viewers that MGM+ is the place to find television that reflects and celebrates the legacy of the iconic MGM brand — cinematic programming with sophisticated storytelling that entertains, delights, surprises and transports. MGM is television for movie lovers."

■ "Paper Girls" Got The Cut
What is up with Prime Video's Paper Girls in terms of future seasons? Anything you can find out would be appreciated. — Justin

Despite some great reviews, Amazon has pulled the plug on this dark sci-fi drama about four paper girls from the 1980s who find themselves face-to-face with their adult selves after accidentally time-traveling to the future. However, word is that the showrunners are trying to find it a new home on a different platform. Fingers crossed!

80th Golden Globe Awards

After the 2022 Golden Globe Awards telecast was canceled — literally and figuratively — the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's (HFPA) celebration of the best in TV and movies returns to NBC for its landmark 80th edition on Tuesday, Jan. 10. The network and various studios are satisfied that the HFPA has cleaned up its act and made sufficient progress in addressing its diversity issues, so the show will go on again at the Beverly Hilton in Beverly Hills, California. The live ceremony takes place on a Tuesday night to avoid conflicting with NFL games and the college football championship. Top nominees include Abbott Elementary, The White Lotus and Only Murders in the Building in TV, and The Banshees of Inisherin, The Fabelmans, Everything Everywhere All at Once, Babylon and Elvis in film. 5 QUESTIONS WITH KAREN GRASSLE OF "LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE"

By Barb Oates

This year marks the 49th anniversary of Little House on the Prairie (1974-83) and the 10th anniversary of the over-the-air network COZI TV, which continues to air the beloved series. For eight years, Karen Grassle portrayed the warmth, patience and strength of frontierswoman Caroline "Ma" Ingalls. "It's just astonishing for me to realize the power that the show still has for people," Grassle shares. "We never could have guessed that 50 years from now, you would be wanting to talk to me about Little House on COZI TV. It's all completely undreamed of." Now, at age 80, Grassle reflects back on the series and shares some insights on her candid memoir Bright Lights, Prairie Dust.

1 What episode(s) remain special to you to this day and why? I love the pilot. I love the simplicity of the story. I love how true it is to the books, and I love it because we were all venturing into a new territory as actors, as cast, as crew, Mike [Michael Landon] as producer/director, and there weren't a lot of other people involved. We were on location. We were kind of out there, you know, and it gave us a chance to really bond and become this little family. I loved that, and I loved being with the girls around the campfire and building those relationships.

2 When it came to being a TV mom to the girls, was one more mischievous than the other? They were very well cast. Mike had a genius for casting, and Melissa Sue Anderson, when I first met her at a costume fitting, she and her mom were just finishing and they came out, and I was stunned by this beautiful child. She looked like this little princess, and she was very polite, with good manners, very soft-spoken, and so right for Mary. Then on the first day of shooting, this little redhead with pigtails came up to me and I thought, "Here comes Laura." She said, "Have you got your tears ready?" I was like, "Um, this is going to be different." I had to answer her back really quickly, you know, as if she hadn't thrown me, and I said, "Yes, I have them in my pocket." That was our first exchange. I must say that I really treasured getting to know them.

3 Was there any part of your own mother that you brought to the role? I based the entire character on my mother. There was very little about the real Caroline Ingalls at that time. ... I knew she had been a one-room schoolhouse teacher. I knew she was committed to giving her girls a good education. I knew she was tough, that she'd been poor, that she'd struggled, and my mother had done all of these things.

4 How long did it take you to write your deeply personal memoir Bright Lights, Prairie Dust? Oh, mercy. Well, I say 10 years, because I didn't work every day at the beginning. Then there were times when I went off and did a play or went off and did a movie, or took a long trip. There'd be times when I took a break, but I would say that the process, the whole thing, was 10 years.

5 What keeps you happy today? I like gardening. That makes me feel good. I like walking. I like being with my friends, and I like writing. All of these things.

FINALLY?

Two Star-Crossed Teams Have Their Sights On Super Bowl LVII.

By Ryan A. Berenz

Will Josh Allen be the savior for long-suffering Buffalo Bills fans?

Buffalo Bills and Minnesota Vikings fans have been here before: Regular-season success only resulting in playoff heartbreak.

The famously hexed Bills lost four straight Super Bowls from 1990-93, with the wide-right field goal vs. the New York Giants in Super Bowl XXV the most notorious defeat. They were on the losing end of the "Music City Miracle" wild-card game vs. the Tennessee Titans in 1999. In the past two playoffs, Josh Allen and the Bills offense couldn't keep up with Patrick Mahomes and the Kansas City Chiefs. The Bills remain one of 12 NFL teams without a Lombardi Trophy.

Also on that list are the Vikings, who lost four Super Bowls between 1969-76. They have lost six NFC Championship Games, including gut-wrenching overtime losses to the Atlanta Falcons in the 1998 season and the New Orleans Saints in 2009.

Both the Vikings and Bills should be in the hunt for top seeds in their conferences when the regular season wraps up on Jan. 8. The Chiefs, Titans and Miami Dolphins are also among the AFC's elite, while the Philadelphia Eagles, Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers look like contenders in a weak NFC.

The postseason kicks off Jan. 14, and it all culminates in Super Bowl LVII at State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Arizona, Feb. 12 on FOX. Perhaps the stars will align and it will be Bills vs. Vikings in the big game, though that could cause the football universe to collapse.

WINTER PREVIEW

Dania Ramirez
and Scott Caan

ALERT

FOX Premieres Sunday, Jan. 8; airs Mondays beginning Jan. 9
NEW SERIES!

Speaking with Scott Caan about his new FOX missing-persons drama Alert, the conversation briefly turned to his father, legendary actor James Caan, who passed away last year. He offered that his dad “was the kind of dude that if he did something, he wanted to be the best at it. So whether it be acting or jiu-jitsu or surfing or football or baseball, whatever it was, he was just someone who was good at everything. And that’s sort of what he taught me: If you’re going to play, play to be the best, or don’t play.”

That’s an ethos Caan has certainly put to use over his multitalented career that spans various art forms — in addition to being an actor and writer, he is also an accomplished photographer and was a rapper in the 1990s — as well as in other areas, including becoming a black belt in Brazilian jiu-jitsu.

Having acted in, and written, feature films (including the upcoming crime thriller One Day as a Lion, which costars Frank Grillo, J.K. Simmons and Virginia Madsen), Caan is likely still most familiar to audiences for his TV work, even if he himself admits that “15 years ago, if you told me I was on a television show, I would say, ‘There’s no way.’ Now I feel like television’s kind of the game.”

It’s a game the actor has been successful at, particularly with his Golden Globe-nominated role as “Danno” in the 2010-20 reimagining of Hawaii Five-0. Now, for his next regular series, he headlines Alert alongside Dania Ramirez.

Coming from executive producers Jamie Foxx and John Eisendrath (The Blacklist), Alert follows members of the Philadelphia Police Department’s Missing Persons Unit. Each episode features a life-or-death search for a missing person that runs alongside police officers Jason Grant (Caan) and his ex-wife Nikki Batista’s (Ramirez) series-long quest to find the truth about their own long-lost son.

After a decade on Five-0, it would have been understandable if Caan had not wanted to do a police drama right away, and he agrees that if this series had been just another procedural,

"I probably would've held out and looked for something else. ... To me, if you're going to do a cop show or a procedural — whether you've done one for 10 years before or not — you've got to figure out a way to make it better than the other ones, or make it special."

Upon reading Alert, Caan found that it did offer something special, and "a chance to do something I had never done before, although the lane is the same."

Caan had plenty more insights on Alert.

Can you elaborate on what you found unique and exciting about Alert?

Scott Caan: From the second I read this, I saw that [Jason and Nikki] were flawed characters, and I saw that their personal life was so important to the show working. I think a lot of the times on procedural shows, or cop shows in general, that's sort of left to the side. I had a conversation with [executive producer] John Eisendrath, and the things that were important to him are the same things that were important to me, and the things that I wanted to explore with these characters are the same things he wanted to explore. So just from reading this show, it had something special about it that was different than the others.

Does the series primarily focus on solving current missing-persons cases, with flashbacks to Jason and Nikki's son disappearing?

There's not a ton of flashbacks. The opening scene takes place six years before the actual show starts; you'll see us six years ago, [when] our son goes missing. Then, in the beginning of the first scene [in] the present day, we find our son ... or who we think is our son. And really, the struggle for [our] characters is trying to figure out what really happened, and who is this boy? Is he our son? ... So the drive of the personal part of the show is really us trying to figure out what happened with our son, because there are a lot of twists and turns. One minute, we think he's our son; [another] minute, we think he's not our son. And that takes us through the 10 episodes of this first season.

Not all real-life missing-persons cases end happily. Do stories on Alert ever veer into this darker territory, or are the cases generally solved in a satisfying manner?

I mean, I think you know the answer to that question. There's a type of show where people want to see the happy ending. So when it comes to the procedural element of the show, we usually get a bad guy. But in our personal relationship — again, which is what makes the show different than the other procedural shows — our personal life does not get resolved.

Sometimes I think there's a reason that procedural shows aren't heavily serialized, and it's because I think that a lot of the people that watch [them] kind of want to just feel great at the end and not have anything left over. And that's totally fair. Sometimes you go home, and you want to watch a show that rips your heart out. And sometimes you want to watch a show that you're going to feel good at the end, and go to sleep and have good dreams. So we're kind of doing both.

You had a pretty physical role on Hawaii Five-0. Is this similar, in that you chase down bad guys and maybe put some of your black-belt skills to use? Or is it more detective work?

It's a bit of both. But honestly, man, I've had so many injuries that I'm ... I don't want to say "slowing down," but what I'm willing to risk my body for is getting ... I don't know. I look at Tom Cruise, and I'm like, "How's this dude still doing all that @#$$%?" So, yeah, I think there's definitely a bit of both, but I'm not as quick to go, "Hey, I want to do that stunt." — Jeff Pfeiffer

Alexandra Daddario

ANNE RICE'S MAYFAIR WITCHES

AMC & AMC+

Sundays beginning Jan. 8
NEW SERIES!

Vampires and witches make for some good TV (and reading). Author Anne Rice dedicated over 40 years to penning spellbinding stories around the dark and mystifying genre. In AMC's eight-episode first season of Mayfair Witches, viewers will meet the beautiful and brilliant Rowan (The White Lotus' Alexandra Daddario), an intuitive neurosurgeon who has special powers but is unaware that she comes from a dynasty of witches with a very unusual past. "The first season was deeply, deeply inspired by the first book, The Witching Hour," tells showrunner Esta Spalding. "It starts where the book starts, in that mood of New Orleans and the sort of ghost story of this house. We meet really quickly Rowan, who's the main character of the first book and throughout the series. ... The book is kind of an embarrassment of riches. It's very, very long and full of lots of amazing stuff. The middle section is about 300 or 400 pages of 13 generations of witches going all the way back to Scotland. So we used a piece of that and we're going to save some of that great story and saga of all the different generations for later seasons, should we be so lucky."

WILL TRENT

ABC Tuesdays beginning Jan. 3
NEW SERIES!

Based on Karin Slaughter's 10-book Will Trent series, about an Atlanta-based special agent with a highly successful clearance rate but a challenging personality, ABC's highly anticipated Will Trent procedural stars Ramón Rodríguez as its titular character. Rodríguez was happy to share some details about his upcoming role as the complicated special agent.

How are we first introduced to Will Trent in the opening episode?

Ramón Rodríguez: We meet him when he is bringing in a dog that was tied up outside to a shelter. Unfortunately, he learns that they won't be able to keep the dog, and so he ends up actually adopting this Chihuahua named Betty. He has no idea how to handle the dog. He has no clue. He's never had a dog. This is somebody that is very rigid. A large part of Will is really based on routine and control.

We know Will comes with a complicated past — tell us a little bit about that.

He's an orphan and was raised in a group home in Atlanta, and it was a pretty tough childhood. Slowly throughout the season, we get a sense of what actually happened to him. A lot of it has shaped him and has made him who he is. And he really enjoys solving things, particularly cases. He's got a really high solve rate. I think even in the book it's sort of attributed to what he's been through. He's got a lot of secrets. I don't want to spoil them all, but they do come out in the pilot. Very quickly, you learn one major one.

Does this difficult background hinder his personal relationships?

He's very much a loner. There is a character, Angie, in the book and in the series, from his childhood, who works in the Atlanta Police Department. He works in the Georgia Bureau of Investigation. They have a complicated relationship. It's sort of an on-again, off-again type of relationship that has gone way back. There's a different side to him when he is with Angie.

Have you read any of the Will Trent books by Karin Slaughter in preparation?

I read most. And then after a while, we had to start shooting the pilot. But I had a lot of conversations with the writers about what's in the books and what they're incorporating into the series. Karin Slaughter came to set, and I can only imagine how she must have felt. She seemed to be really excited. I was really excited to meet her, obviously, because I just thought she created a really compelling character in Will Trent. I think he's a fascinating guy, and I wanted to thank her for that, for writing someone who I am really drawn to. I really feel for everything he's been through, and how he's overcome a lot of things in life. He's been able to take some of this trauma and turn it into a way to help him at work.

Was there anything specific the author asked you to do when playing her popular character?

No, it was very hands-off. I think she really loved everything she saw. And the reality is, her books are really dark, and we can only go so far on network television. People who read the books and are fans of the books, I think they're going to be happy. Obviously, we want to honor that, yet also make our own choices with the series and make sure that it's its own thing. — Zhanna Slor

ACCUSED

NEW SERIES!

When he sat down to write Accused, executive producer Howard Gordon (Homeland, 24) thought of the loneliest moments in a person's life. One was death, the other standing trial. "Your life, or the balance of it, or however much you have left of it, is now really on the line," Gordon says. "You're in the box, and your life is going to change from this moment on forever."

Accused is a 15-part anthology series featuring a different cast and a different story each week. Every episode opens in a courtroom with a defendant, and the story of how they got there unfolds from their perspective. "We are really experiencing the accumulating events that conspired against them to bring them to this moment, or the choices they made that got worse and led them to this," Gordon says.

An all-star roster of actors and directors brings these stories to life. Michael Chiklis plays a brain surgeon who learns that his son may be planning a violent attack at school. Marlee Matlin makes her directorial debut in the tale of a deaf surrogate (Stephanie Noguera) who is forced to take protective action. Billy Porter directs the story of a drag queen's (J. Harrison Ghee) affair that has devastating consequences.

Accused is rooted in the reality and moral quandaries of our time. "It's about this revolutionary moment that we all find ourselves in," Gordon says. "These are very, very human stories that could never have been told even five years ago. They're all very human-scale, very personal stories about very specific characters. But the material for the stories are along some of the fault lines of race, of power, of identity, of truth itself."

And expect each episode to provoke thought and evoke emotion. "I do want the show, at the end of it, to leave people silent and thinking differently about what they thought than when they started the series," Gordon says. — Ryan A. Berenz

THE LAST OF US

How An Emotional
Action-Adventure
Video Game Turned Into One Of The Biggest Premieres Of
The Winter. By Barb Oates

HBO Sundays beginning Jan. 15
NEW SERIES!

The world was warned in 1968. Scientists predicted that bacteria and viruses weren't the world's biggest threat, but rather a fungus that would inhabit any living life-form and, in humans, act like a puppeteer taking control of their bodies and poisoning their minds.

But no one believed that ever would be possible.

That is, until Sept. 26, somewhere around 2013, when we first meet single father Joel Miller, played by Pedro Pascal (The Mandalorian), whose world comes crashing down on his 36th birthday after the fungus reaches the United States in HBO's The Last of Us.

From that fateful day, the series jumps 20 years ahead to a world where modern civilization has been destroyed. Joel is now a hardened survivor who's tasked with smuggling a 14-year-old girl named Ellie (Game of Thrones' Bella Ramsey) out of an oppressive quarantine zone. The series is an emotional, brutal and heartbreaking journey of survival — all based around a popular video game of the same name.

The nine-episode first season comes from the Emmy Award-winning creator of Chernobyl, Craig Mazin, and the creator of the acclaimed video game, Neil Druckmann. We caught up with these two geniuses as they shared some exclusive insights on what's to come.

When developing the video game, did you have a TV series in mind from the get-go?

Neil Druckmann: No, not at all. When we made the game, we were already quite in the thick of it with trying to adapt Uncharted [the 2022 Tom Holland/Mark Wahlberg action movie], another franchise we created with Naughty Dog. And that took years and years and years to get off the ground, so that when we made this game, we were like, maybe we don't need to do these adaptations. We could just make video games. That's our bread and butter, that's fine. But then, because of Uncharted, even before we finished [The Last of Us], there were already production companies interested in seeing it and potentially optioning it. ... We gave it a few good attempts, but never felt confident enough to go any further than the script stage. That is, until I got to meet the wonderful Craig Mazin, of Chernobyl fame, and we chatted about how this could be adapted as a TV show. Once we had a handshake agreement, we were off to the races, and before I knew it, we were standing on the set of Joel's house, filming his adventure.

Craig, what got you excited about entering this world, and did you play the game before?

Craig Mazin: I played it when it came out for PlayStation 3. I played it again when it came out in a remastered version for PlayStation 4. And then I played it again when it came out as a remake for PlayStation 5. And each time I played it twice through, so I'm on six playthroughs. Which in the world of Last of Us fandom is minor. But I just loved it, obviously. What got me interested was playing the game when it first came out. I stayed interested and couldn't believe the way fate lined up to put me in a room with Neil to say, "Hey, here's how I think it should be done." There was no question in my mind about how it should be done. Sometimes I am racked with uncertainty, but not this time. It wasn't a question of did I pick the right thing to do? Did I pick the right way to do it? Did I pick the right person to do it with? Did I pick the right place to do it? No question. Yes, [adapt] this game, do it like this, do it with Neil, do it at HBO.

The first episode looked epic in scope, and the visuals were amazing. Could you speak to how large of a production this actually was?

Mazin: Very large. I took to calling it an aircraft carrier. It was the largest production I've ever been involved with, and I've been involved with some big ones. We shot for 200 days, which was twice as long as we shot for Chernobyl. Seemingly an endless amount of time, but calendar-wise, it was about a year of shooting.

Druckmann: The challenging/exciting thing about this show is that the characters are in a totally different place each episode. So, that's why it's exciting for fans or viewers, because every episode is very different in its cast and location and what's happening. The through line is always Joel and Ellie. But that's what made this production so challenging — we didn't have sets that we could repeat and go back to like a lot of other TV shows. Every episode is completely different.

The emotional connection is a big part of the game. How did you make sure that was maintained in the TV series?

Druckmann: The emotional connection between Joel and Ellie was everything for the game. When we were making the game, we would say, if that connection doesn't work, the game falls apart. Everything is built around that connection, and the evolution of that connection from where these characters first meet and they don't like each other, to how they learn to care more and more for each other over the course of this adventure and make greater and greater sacrifices for each other. So, that was a thing that we first had to get right with the outline of the season, then the scripts. That had to be on the page.

What can you tell us about the music behind the series and the '80s references?

Mazin: Neil and Naughty Dog did a very interesting job of portraying what the world looks like after the apocalypse. They were very smart to ask simple questions, like "What happens to culture when the world stops?" And the answer is: It's not forgotten. People always love to look backwards, and particularly if there's nothing else coming now or forwards, what do they connect to? And there is something so weird about the '80s. I was a teenager in the '80s. Music was both terrible and amazing at the same time. ... In the '80s, you just had so much garbage, but then so much beautiful stuff amidst the garbage. And I love how the show, like the game, sort of picks out some of the beautiful things that came out of this forgotten past. There's a song that you'll see at the end of this first episode, which you'll hear again in a much, much different way. Things get recontextualized.

Andie
MacDowell

THE WAY HOME

HALLMARK CHANNEL

Sundays beginning Jan. 15

NEW SERIES!

Andie MacDowell stars in this fresh multigenerational family drama about single mother Kat Landry (Chyler Leigh), who, after some personal troubles, decides to return home to the small Canadian farm town of Port Haven with her 15-year-old daughter, Alice (Sadie Laflamme-Snow). Alice has never met her grandmother, Del (MacDowell), due to a long estrangement, and immediately goes about trying to understand what happened to leave her family so fractured. Luckily for her, and viewers, she is aided in her quest by some time travel back to 1999.

The former Groundhog Day and Cedar Cove star was excited to return to the network for a different approach to feel-good storytelling. "It's different for Hallmark. I think it's going to be something that surprises people in a really good way," MacDowell says. "I was blown away by it. There are aspects of romance in it, but it's more about relationships and family and how we carry the pain that we all carry and how we pass it on to each other.

"My storyline is about healing and empowerment and learning to open my heart," MacDowell continues. "There's a great loss in the pilot, and my daughter and I are estranged because of it. We don't really have a relationship until a lot of things go wrong with her personal life, and she comes home out of desperation and brings my granddaughter. To me, that was huge, because I imagined what it would feel like to be a grandmother who never really got to know her granddaughter. I love that part of my storyline. It's juicy."

As a mother of three, playing this role came very naturally to MacDowell, as did donning her stunning, natural shade of gray. "This is something that I feel like I've earned," MacDowell says. "I'm really proud of where I am in my life. Also, I want to help promote the idea that we are beautiful at every age, that we should be comfortable where we are. That we don't need to be ashamed of where we are. We're valuable. There's a huge value to grandparents. My grandmother was a huge influence on my life. My memories of her are so strong and so vivid and powerful. I love being able to play that kind of character because I think we need to see more of those types of characters, where a grandmother is a grandmother, and she's solid and comfortable in her skin being a role model as a grandmother. And that's one thing that I really love about Del."

Asked to rate the emotional side of the series with how many boxes of Kleenex viewers should bring, MacDowell says, "Oh, I think you're going to need a lot of Kleenex."

THE WATCHFUL EYE

FREEFORM Mondays beginning Jan. 30
NEW SERIES!

Nothing is as it seems when Elena (Mariel Molino), a determined young woman with a sordid history, moves into an upscale Manhattan apartment building to work as a live-in nanny for Matthew (Warren Christie), a wealthy widower, in The Watchful Eye, a new supernatural thriller premiering on Freeform. For one thing, the place seems haunted. For another, Elena has her own reasons for taking this position, and it's not to improve her resumé. Problems arise from the start, when Matthew's sister-in-law Tory (Amy Acker) intrudes on their job interview and attempts to keep Matthew from hiring Elena to watch her nephew. From then on, the two are at odds, both guarding their own secrets and moving forward with separate agendas. At times appearing cold and patronizing to the point of antagonistic, at others seeming like a woman who is barely keeping herself together after the death of her sister, Tory is one of many mysterious family members living in this ill-fated residence.

Acker shares with us that there's more to her character than meets the eye. "She's very misunderstood, I would say," Acker says of Tory. "She's kind of her own worst enemy a lot of the time. She feels like she's doing the right thing; she's keeping everybody in line and helping make everything perfect. But it just pushes people away so badly." Asked if she sees Tory as the villain she is made out to be, Acker says no. "I think she really does love the people she's with and wants what's best for them. What was fun about her was really getting to figure out what was under those walls. Because when it starts, all you know is this lady is not someone you want to be friends with," she says.

Acker, who has played many multifaceted characters — most famously, perhaps, the reserved scientist Winifred on the Buffy the Vampire Slayer spinoff show Angel (she is #TeamAngel, by the way) — says she enjoys the dichotomy of an ambivalent, even potentially unlikable character.

"That's a really fun part about acting for me," she says. "Finding the monster in the nice person and the human in the monster." Many of Acker's previous roles have been in the magical sphere, a space she definitely is drawn to. "I like doing supernatural stuff. It allows you to be a girl in a potato sack who turns into a demon goddess. That doesn't always happen on a procedural show. It lets you have so much range. Even in Watchful Eye, we have the horror element and the thriller element and the soapy element. Anything can happen, which I really like."

Also starring Gilmore Girls' Kelly Bishop as the audacious but mysterious Mrs. Ivey (Acker says she's her No. 1 reason to watch the show), The Watchful Eye is definitely one to keep an eye on. — Zhanna Slor

NIGHT COURT

NBC Tuesdays beginning Jan. 17
NEW SERIES!

This follow-up to NBC's 1984-92 sitcom Night Court stars former The Big Bang Theory costar Melissa Rauch (who is also an executive producer here) as eternally optimistic Judge Abby Stone. Following in the footsteps of her revered late father, Judge Harry Stone (played in the original series by Harry Anderson, who passed away in 2018), Abby takes on the challenge of overseeing the night shift of a Manhattan arraignment court.

A very notable and welcome link to that first series is costar John Larroquette, who reprises his multiple Emmy-winning role of Dan Fielding. While Fielding was originally a prosecutor, Abby — as part of her quest to bring order and dignity to the court, and rein in its colorful crew of oddballs — enlists him to serve as the public defender. As he adjusts to his new boss and new job of defending the downtrodden, one thing about Fielding remains the same: his exceeding self-confidence. Newcomers to the franchise, along with Rauch, include India de Beaufort as Olivia, the court's officious assistant district attorney; Kapil Talwalkar as neurotic court clerk Neil; and Loretta as Donna "Gurgs" Gurganous, the latest of Night Court's fiercely protective bailiffs. The series kicks off with back-to-back episodes on its premiere night.

HOW TO MURDER YOUR HUSBAND

LIFETIME

Saturday, Jan. 14
ORIGINAL FILM!

Steve Guttenberg

Sometimes you stop dead in your tracks when a headline comes across the news, as it's so hard to believe something like this actually happened. Lifetime knows that all too well and continues to deliver ripped-from-the-headlines original movies with some serious star power. Cybill Shepherd and Steve Guttenberg headline the latest about Portland-based romance-thriller novelist Nancy Crampton-Brophy (Shepherd), who has a knack for writing about murder and women fantasizing about killing their own husbands ... and then she ends up killing her own husband (Guttenberg). Here's what the stars had to share on this one.

When you got the script, what was your first reaction, knowing it was based on a true story?

Cybill Shepherd: I was terrified to play her, because it was a true story. It was both a sense of horror and fascination — [fascination in] that she could love someone so deeply and then allegedly murder them.

Steve Guttenberg: It was a head scratcher. Why would Nancy do this? And truth is stranger than fiction.

Being married to a woman who just wrote an essay on how to kill her husband, you can't help but think how that didn't raise some flags.

Guttenberg: Your wife is an expert at murdering husbands. Hello! This guy had to be in some deep love to miss that little firecracker of a clue.

You both have had iconic careers. What role do fans still ask you most about?

Shepherd: Taxi Driver. True story, Scorsese called my agent and said he'd like a Cybill Shepherd type and my agent responded, "How about the real thing?" Scorsese never considered me for the role because there was no dialogue for this character. My agent told me, "Just show up for the casting, say nothing and you'll probably get it." After I was hired, Scorsese put me and Robert De Niro in a room together ad-libbing, which became the dialogue for the movie.

Guttenberg: Fans ask about Police Academy, Short Circuit, Three Men and a Baby, The Bedroom Window, Cocoon, Home for the Holidays and It Takes Two. — Barb Oates

YOUR HONOR

What's Next, After Losing Everything? Bryan Cranston Returns To His Heartbreaking Role In "Your Honor."

By Barb Oates

Showtime Sundays beginning Jan. 15
(streaming premiere is Jan. 13)

SEASON PREMIERE!

"I like to have as normal of a life as possible," Bryan Cranston tells us. "Borderline boring."

Hard to imagine from a man who has mesmerized TV, movie and Broadway audiences for decades now with his award-winning performances. And, hardly reality when he's been whirlwinding the world in Spain filming Wes Anderson's Asteroid City, London filming Argylle, as well as producing and writing and running his Dos Hombres mezcal business with Breaking Bad pal Aaron Paul.

When we caught up with Cranston, he was back in Los Angeles returning to his role as Judge Michael Desiato in Showtime's tense drama Your Honor. The multi-Emmy and Tony winner originally wrapped the limited series believing Michael's story ended in "a lovely, tragic way" that was "very appropriate." When he was approached with a second season premise, he was intrigued.

"You realize if the first season was about a man who compromises his principles, then the second season is about redemption," Cranston tells. "Can a person who lost everything find a way back to some kind of life? And that's what got me excited about it."

Here Cranston helps answer some of our burning questions on the new season.

Michael has lied and betrayed so many of his friends, yet we still want him to come out of this OK. Why is that?

Bryan Cranston: I think because the original sin was understandable. I think it's more apparent to a parent. When I ask the question, "What would you do to save your child's life?," I have not met a parent, not yet, who doesn't say, "I would do anything." And that's the feeling you have. You would do anything if you truly felt your child's life was being threatened. That's your job. And that's where your heart is. And so when that initial question was proposed, the audience got a dose of that, in saying he was just trying to protect his son. That's all he was doing, and I get it.

But, that being said, there is a penalty, the repercussions of those decisions, and that is the spiral effect that happened in our storytelling. ... He had to make that immediate decision and it changed his life forever, and his son's life. The ripple effect of that, we'll see more in the second season. We'll see how deeply it goes. When there's a loss, it doesn't just stay within the first realm of people connected to that person directly. There's an indirect ripple effect that happens, and that's what we're going to show. But I wanted to really explore redemption and the power of forgiveness and the authenticity of grief, allowing ourselves to be in it.

When we pick up in Season 2, Michael is almost unrecognizable. First, is that beard real? Can you talk about this transformation?

It's a real beard, real hair, real thinness. It was a transition that I wanted to make and to look different because it is different. His whole point of view, as you'll see, is different. He is not the same man. And I wanted to allow the audience to see how despair and grief changes a person, and your priorities change, your outlook on life changes.

How does he even begin to start making amends with some of the people he loved and betrayed, like Lee (Carmen Ejogo)?

Each person that he comes in contact with, there is a trepidation from both sides about how this is handled. How do we go on from here? How is that possible? With Lee, it was an unfortunate and disturbing kind of ending with so many lies and so much misdirection, and the manipulation pushed her into a place where she just couldn't take it anymore. She, too, has got to deal with the ramifications of that. He was not only a mentor to her, but now a lover, and it's like she was starting to devote her personal life toward him, and it devastated her. So we'll see how she handles that in Season 2. I wanted to explore these darker tones, but we're going to do it in a way that doesn't allow the audience to just sit in the macabre.

Both Michael and Jimmy Baxter (Michael Stuhlbarg) now share similar grief over the loss of a son. How would you describe their level of interactions this season? Can both of these men really remain in the same city still?

They're odd and strange bedfellows now. And we will find out that they have even more in common than the loss of a child. They have a direct interaction throughout the season, and not necessarily in a good way. But it kind of fluctuates. There's an odd understanding that the two characters have.

Rosie Perez is joining the cast this season. Is she a friend or a foe to you?

She is coming in and she is a thorn in my side, I can tell you that. She is a dynamo and a very powerful person, both in personality and the character, and in position. Her position professionally is very dynamic and has a direct impact on Michael's life. They are at odds most of the time, almost all. But Rosie is just such a great performer and a contender. For her physical release, Rosie loves boxing and she actually boxes. So I feel like our scenes together are in the ring together, and we're just trading punches.

So where else does the series take us?

So there's intrigue, there's still plotlines and we get to a resolution of also how my wife died. That comes to the surface, that big question mark. And of course, being originally Your Honor — a courtroom drama — we are going to end with another really significant courtroom scene.

STREAMING

THAT '90S SHOW

NETFLIX Available Thursday, Jan. 19
NEW SERIES!

It may be hard to believe, but enough time has now passed for the arrival of That '90s Show, a direct spinoff of the hit comedy That '70s Show, which featured breakout roles for Topher Grace, Laura Prepon, Ashton Kutcher, Mila Kunis, Wilmer Valderrama and Danny Masterson as 1970s teens in the fictional Point Place, Wisconsin. That series debuted in 1998, 22 years removed from its initial 1976 setting and only three years past when That '90s Show now takes place: 1995.

While the similarly titled and themed sitcom That '80s Show aired in 2002, and featured some of That '70s Show's creative talent, it only lasted 13 episodes. One factor for its failure may have been the lack of any beloved characters from the first series. That will not be an issue here: Debra Jo Rupp and Kurtwood Smith are back as Kitty and Red Forman in regular roles, while Grace, Prepon, Kunis, Kutcher and Valderrama will return for special guest appearances (Masterson will not likely appear, given his criminal trial).

The cast of youngsters here — as it was with That '70s Show — is made up of newcomers for whom this is their first major project, and it will be interesting to see if they break out in the same way their '70s predecessors did.

Callie Haverda plays Leia Forman, daughter of Eric and Donna (Grace and Prepon), who is visiting grandparents Kitty and Red in the summer of '95. She bonds with a new generation of Point Place kids — Gwen (Ashley Aufderheide), Jay (Mace Coronel), Nate (Maxwell Acee Donovan), Ozzie (Reyn Doi) and Nikki (Sam Morelos) — all under the watchful eye of Kitty and the stern glare of Red (who we bet will call someone a "dumbass" at least once).

EXCLUSIVE DOCUMENTARY

January 6th Available Jan. 5

Award-winning filmmaking brothers Gédéon and Jules Naudet directed this documentary billed as the definitive account of the attack on the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021. The film had a festival run late last year before its streaming debut this month on discovery+.

January 6th examines the event from the perspective of the heroes, first responders and survivors of the attack. It's an apolitical story of resilience and bravery that features Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi, D.C. Police Chief Robert J. Contee III, Congresswoman Liz Cheney and over 50 senators, representatives, staffers from both sides of the aisle and police officers as they reveal their firsthand experience of that day. This is the only documentary for which the Capitol and Metropolitan police departments granted full access to their officers.

In a statement, the Naudets explained that January 6th "is the complete story of the attack on the Capitol told by those who witnessed the chaos firsthand. From the beginning, we knew we wanted to tell the story of this unprecedented moment in history as a human event and without political bias. We believe that in moments where the worst of humanity is on display, there will always be heroes who step up as shining examples of courage and selflessness in the face of tragedy. Our hope is that people come away from this film with a deep appreciation for the countless acts of bravery on display that day, both big and small."
