EDITOR'S NOTE

Where Did That Season Go?

I feel like some of our favorite series just began, and now they are already wrapping up for the season. CBS delivered a shocker when it announced the cancellation of NCIS: New Orleans. For the youngest series in the NCIS franchise (the flagship series has been around since 2003), this month marks the end of Scott Bakula and the rest of the New Orleans cast and crew's seven-season run. Although deals are still being finalized, there are discussions on another spinoff, NCIS: Hawaii, in the works — we'll update you later as things firm up. Also ending this month after eight seasons is Allison Janney's Mom. Inside, we give you more details on both, as well as a rundown of season finales.

It's good to hear a familiar Friend back in a regular primetime slot. Lisa Kudrow chatted with us on her new animated role as a standard poodle who leads group therapy sessions for her neighborhood's pets and stray animals in FOX's new Housebroken. Analyzing what pets are really thinking — and focusing on their issues — is good, good humor. We also caught up with Catherine Bell, star of Hallmark's Good Witch, which is returning for Season 7, who tells us, "I think it's one of my favorite seasons yet."

Lastly, Happy Viewing and Happy Mother's Day to all you moms!

This month, TV critic Matt Roush (tvinsider.com) helps answer viewer questions.

NCIS: New Orleans

Disappointing to hear of the end of NCIS: New Orleans. It remains my favorite. I suspect too many cast changes did not help. Any chance it will migrate to another network? – Gary

It's unlikely that it would be picked up by another network. CBS has typically canceled its crime dramas after a number of years in order to refresh the lineup, and that looks to be the case here. "New Orleans" is the youngest: seven seasons, compared to the mother ship's 18 and 12 for "L.A."

And (Maybe) "NCIS: Hawaii"

With the rumored new NCIS: Hawaii spinoff, any chance David James Elliott would be cast? – Matt

The Hawaii-based spinoff has not been officially announced. Former "NCIS: New Orleans" showrunner Chris Silber is expected to take that role again for the new series if it would happen; potential cast and crew are supposedly in the works at the network. As for Harm (Elliott) and Mac (Bell), it seems more likely that they'd be tapped for a "JAG" reboot, if that were to happen, but anything is possible!

NCIS: New Orleans may be coming to an end, but an NCIS: Hawaii spinoff may be in the works

Happy News For "CSI" Fans

Could any of CSI ever come back? I'm all for a spinoff. – Sandra

Good news for you! Though rumors originally suggested the network was thinking of a limited-run series, CBS recently announced the debut of "CSI: Vegas," which is being described as a sequel to the original flagship show. William Petersen (Gil), Jorja Fox (Sara) and Wallace Langham (David) will reprise their original roles, and the cast will be rounded out with newcomers Paula Newsome, Matt Lauria, Mel Rodriguez and Mandeep Dhillon.

What's Happening With "American Gods"?

I can't believe Starz has canceled American Gods – it is my favorite show! – Tom

In March, Starz announced that "American Gods" would end after the third season, breaking the hearts of fans devoted to the fantasy series based on Neil Gaiman's novel. However, shortly after that announcement, production company Fremantle announced that "American Gods" was not fully dead and that they were looking at other options that would allow the show to continue. Best bets are that the show will go to a streaming service, likely Amazon or Netflix.

Where's "Evil"?

Any news on when we might see the return of Evil? I can't believe how much I miss this show. I guess it's true what they say: Absence makes the heart grow fonder. – Justin Filming for Season 2 of "Evil" was initially delayed by the pandemic, though it did begin in October 2020. As we went to press, there was no news on a specific return date, but it seems likely that "Evil" will return later this summer.

Congratulations!

Our March Reader Rewards winner of a doggie tote, masks and Grounds & Hounds coffee is Betty K.

HOW WE ARE LIVING LONGER

Four-Part Series Links Past Pandemics To Modern Medicine. By Meredith Ennis

Filmed during the current COVID-19 pandemic, PBS' Extra Life: A Short History of Living Longer (Tuesdays beginning May 11) is a timely series that examines some of the lessons that were learned during previous pandemics (including smallpox, cholera and Spanish flu) that have helped us live longer, healthier lives. The doctors, scientists, activists and others on the front lines of these health crises are the unsung heroes of many of the innovations that are standard practice in modern medicine today.

Over four episodes, bestselling author Steven Johnson and historian and broadcaster David Olusoga examine 300 years of science and innovation that have conquered disease and saved millions of lives. They highlight the scientific breakthroughs and collective efforts of individuals around the world and across varied disciplines that have resulted in extraordinary health outcomes, including a doubling of the human lifespan in less than 100 years – one of the greatest scientific achievements in human history.

5 Questions With JON TAFFER

By Barb Oates

It's thrilling to see Bar Rescue's Jon Taffer back on his crusade in helping struggling owners salvage their businesses. After 51 weeks, Taffer and his crew of over 50 are finally back to work on Season 8 (Sundays beginning May 2) of Paramount Network's hit series. This season is beyond personal for Taffer, as he lends his expertise in his hometown of Las Vegas and will celebrate the series' 200th episode. Here he answers our "5 Questions."

1 Did you have to change the format at all with the show?

Oh, yes. This is the first year that we are allowing people to see how we produce the show. We're going to show them what we're doing. We have three COVID officers on set [monitoring safety protocols and staff]. We're now in our fifth episode, and we're doing great. It's working.

2 I imagine it's more emotional than ever when you show up?

We've done the hurricane episodes and the flood episodes where these aren't owners who caused their own failure – these are owners who were doing well and Mother Nature took the business away. This season is very much like that. These are operators who were successful before COVID. So I can't look at them and say, "You're a failure." I've got to look at them and say, you know, "I've got to help you get out of this." So it's very different. It's very emotional for me, quite candidly. ... These are good people who really got hurt this year. So it's a different kind of show.

3 What are your three favorite drinks of choice?

My first favorite drink of choice would be a Godfather. The Godfather is in a rocks glass. It's scotch and amaretto. Probably my second favorite drink would be a, I'm going to be very boring here for a moment, probably a Salty Dog, which is vodka, grapefruit juice with a little salt on the rim. My third favorite cocktail in the world, that I've ever had in my life, happens to be one that we created, which is the Resurrection, which is at Spirits on Bourbon, a cocktail made out of coconut water and a number of other ingredients. It's blue, and it's a very famous cocktail. We put it on Bourbon Street, and they sell about 20,000 a month of them. And I'm not saying it because it's mine; it happens to be one of my favorite cocktails.

4 When flipping through your channel lineup, what's a movie you'll always stop to rewatch?

Rocky is one of them. I love the movie Rocky. Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid is another one that I love. The Godfather.

5 What three Jeopardy! categories would you absolutely dominate?

Obviously, bar and beverage I think I would own. I think travel/geography would be a very strong category for me. And American history. I'm a bit of a history buff. I love the history of our nation.

Formula 1 returns to the streets of Monaco after last year's Grand Prix was canceled

Back On Track

The Biggest Month In Motorsports Revs Up For A Return.

By Ryan A. Berenz

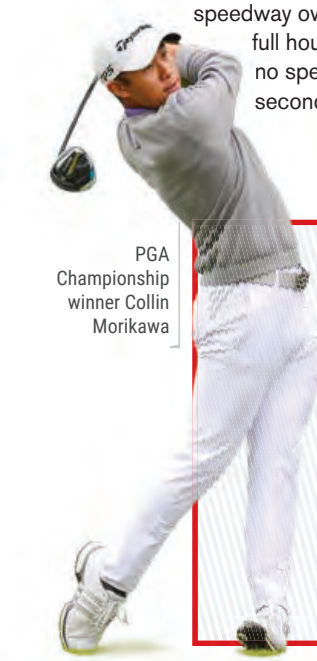

The COVID pandemic stalled so many traditions in 2020, and the Sunday of wall-to-wall Formula 1, IndyCar and NASCAR racing on Memorial Day weekend was one of them. Fortunately, some normalcy returns to the May motorsports calendar, but with some new twists. Here's a preview of this month's action:

NTT IndyCar Series A later start to the season means a compressed schedule and more IndyCar events in May. Things start off with a pair of races at Texas Motor Speedway as Scott Dixon, Josef Newgarden, Colton Herta, Will Power and other contenders race in the Genesys 300 May 1 and the Xpel 375 May 2, both on NBCSN. The Brickyard is the place to be for the rest of the month as drivers battle it out on Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 14-turn road course in the GMR Grand Prix May 15 on NBC. The 105th Indianapolis 500 is run May 30 on NBC, and speedway owner Roger Penske is hopeful to have a nearly full house after the Greatest Spectacle in Racing had no spectators in August to see Takuma Sato win his second career Indy 500.

Formula 1 The F1 series is on the Iberian Peninsula for the Portuguese Grand Prix May 2 and the Spanish Grand Prix May 9, both on ESPN. After being canceled last year, the prestigious Monaco Grand Prix returns to the streets of Monte Carlo, though it won't share a date with the Indy 500. Sebastian Vettel, Max Verstappen and 2019 race winner Lewis Hamilton take to the scenic 19-turn circuit May 23, with ESPN2 airing the race live in the morning and ABC airing an afternoon encore.

NASCAR Cup Series The Cup Series holds five races this month, starting May 2 at Kansas Speedway with the Buschy McBusch Race 400 on FS1. (That's what happens when sponsors let fans name the races.) Then it's on to Darlington Raceway May 9, Dover International Speedway May 16 and the first ever Cup Series race on the road course at Circuit of the Americas in Austin, Texas, May 23, all on FS1. NASCAR's longest race, the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway, is back in its traditional spot on the calendar May 30 on FOX. The All-Star Race, usually held at Charlotte in May, now takes place June 13 at Texas Motor Speedway.

NBA Playoffs

A play-in tournament May 18-21 will determine the eighth seed in each conference. The standard 16-team playoff format begins May 22. ABC, ESPN, TNT and NBA TV air playoff games.

French Open Tennis

Will Rafa's reign continue? Rafael Nadal tries for his fifth straight (and 14th overall) title at Roland Garros. Poland's Iga Swiatek is defending women's singles champion. Tennis Channel and NBC air the tournament May 30-June 13.

Eyes On The Byes

Two Celebrated CBS Stalwarts Sign Off With Series Finales. By Ryan A. Berenz

MOM

Series finale: May 13
Total run: Eight seasons, 170 episodes
How it started: Newly sober single mom Christy (Anna Faris) tries to pull her life together by reuniting with her mother, Bonnie (Allison Janney), in Napa Valley.
Signature episode: "Terrorists and Gingerbread," Season 3, Episode 1: Bonnie and Christy disagree about forgiveness when Bonnie's estranged mom wants to be a part of their lives.
Awards: Primetime Emmy Awards 2014-15, Outstanding Supporting Actress in a Comedy Series (Janney)
Notable guest stars: Yvette Nicole Brown, Ellen Burstyn, Kristin Chenoweth, Beverly D'Angelo, Patti LuPone, Joe Manganiello, Emily Osment, Kevin Pollak, Richard Schiff, Octavia Spencer, June Squibb, French Stewart, Kathleen Turner, Steven Weber, Bradley Whitford, Rainn Wilson
How will it end? Janney wishes Mom had more time for a bigger ramp-up to the finale, but at least the series will go out on its own terms. Bringing Faris back for a guest appearance would give a proper send-off for Christy, but that path might be too worn for a show that has continually shunned expectations.

NCIS: NEW ORLEANS

Series finale: May 23
Total run: Seven seasons, 155 episodes
How it started: Special Agent Dwayne Pride (Scott Bakula) heads up the NCIS field office investigating criminal cases involving military personnel in New Orleans.
Signature episode: "Matthew 5:9," Season 6, Episode 6: Special Agent Christopher LaSalle (original cast member and fan favorite Lucas Black) meets his fate while searching for the drug ring responsible for his brother's murder.
Notable guest stars: Tom Arnold, LeVar Burton, Mark Harmon, Kelly Hu, Mario Lopez, Wendie Malick, Pauley Perrette, Annie Potts, Wilmer Valderrama, Steven Weber
How will it end? The end of one NCIS might mark the beginning of another. NCIS: Hawaii is in the works, and it would be shocking if the door wasn't left open for NOLA characters to make future trips to the Aloha State.

SUMMER FOODIE Road Trip

By Barb Oates

For 18 seasons we've been salivating over the culinary creations of Bravo's Top Chefs. While the series has introduced us to terms like amuse-bouche (a complimentary hors d'oeuvre) and sabayon (a foamy egg sauce), and dishes like Hong Kong Milk Tea Tiramisu and roasted foie gras with roasted peaches, it's the masterminds behind these plates that have captured our attention and piqued our palates. As Season 18 of Top Chef continues this summer (Thursdays on Bravo), we decided to map out a cross-country road trip highlighting some of this season's revolving judges and their latest establishments.

1 MELISSA KING

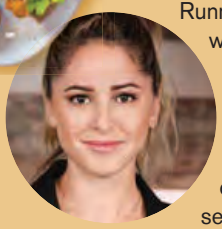

San Francisco, California

The All-Stars: Los Angeles winner and fan favorite who set the bar for winning the most challenges ever has made her mark on the San Francisco area. King has been recognized as "one of the best female chefs in San Francisco" and was named on the "40 Under 40: Rising Stars" list. While she's helmed several Michelin-starred kitchens in San Francisco, she's currently growing partnerships and is owner of King Sauce, a small-batched sauce and spice line available in her online shop.

2 BROOKE WILLIAMSON

Los Angeles, California

Runner-up for Season 10, winner of Season 14 and winner of 2020's Tournament of Champions, the Los Angeles native has quickly made her mark on the West Coast. While serving as executive chef at the Brentwood eatery Zax, she met her husband and business partner, Nick Roberts. In 2014, the couple opened a unique four-in-one restaurant concept, Playa Provisions, which features the grab-and-go marketplace King Beach; an artisanal ice cream shop, Small Batch; a seafood dining spot, Dockside; and an intimate whiskey bar, Grain.

3 AMAR SANTANA

Orange County, California

Born in the Dominican Republic, Season 13 runner-up Amar Santana has established new roots in California, where he cooks from the heart as executive chef/partner at Broadway by Amar Santana in Laguna Beach, and Vaca Restaurant in Costa Mesa. At Broadway you'll most likely see the chef in action and can try out a long list of dishes like his Miso Marinated Chilean Seabass or his Slow Braised Wagyu Beef Cheek Mole.

4 CARRIE BAIRD

Boulder, Colorado

The Top Chef Season 15 finalist professes that "great food comes from cooking from your heart." Following her work as executive chef of Bar Dough in Denver, Baird moved on to open her own restaurant, Rose's Classic Americana in Boulder, where the menu boasts her Top Chef fancy toast, Bobby Flay-bustin' huevos rancheros and all things Americana.

5 TIFFANY DERRY

Austin & Plano, Texas

The Season 7 (Washington, D.C.) and All-Star Season 8 competitor is owner of Roots Chicken Shak, with two locations in Plano and Austin, Texas. The popular eatery is home to Derry's famous Duck-Fat Fried Chicken. One look at her original chicken sandwich, The Big Bird, and you know immediately why this Shak is the place to eat.

6 KRISTEN KISH

Austin, Texas

Winner of Season 10, Kish launched her first restaurant, Arlo Grey, in 2017. Inside the luxurious LINE Austin hotel, the restaurant includes a menu that reflects her culinary style that melds "precise training and technique rooted in French and Italian traditions with a nostalgia for dishes from her upbringing, her world travels and her exploration of the bountiful ingredients of Central Texas."

7 NINA COMPTON

New Orleans, Louisiana

The Season 11 runner-up helms New Orleans' Compère Lapin (French for "brother rabbit") where "meals aren't about trends, shock value or opulence" and instead are about "moments, memories and those who surround you at your table." Compton mixes the rich culinary heritage of New Orleans with her Caribbean roots and tops it off with her love of French and Italian cuisine. Anyone up for her Buttermilk Biscuits with Honey and Bacon Butter for a starter?

8 RICHARD BLAIS

Atlanta, Southern California

Winner of All-Stars Season 8, Richard Blais has also appeared on Iron Chef America and Chopped All-Stars, as well as serving as a judge for numerous food-related shows. He currently owns and operates Trail Blais, a culinary consulting company that helped design and operate popular restaurants, including Flip Burger Boutique in Atlanta, and the quickly expanding fried chicken restaurant called The Crack Shack (I'll take that Double Clucker for lunch and a BAE for breakfast!), which are located in Los Angeles, Las Vegas and multiple spots around Southern California.

9 EDWARD LEE

Louisville, Kentucky

The Season 9 competitor and host of PBS' Emmy-winning series The Mind of a Chef is all over the map as chef/owner of multiple Louisville establishments including 610 Magnolia; his whiskey and burger bar, Whiskey Dry; and his Cincinnati-based Khora. Check out his five-course tasting menu for 610 and you'll be heading there in no time.

10 KWAME ONWUACHI

Middleburg, Virginia

The Bronx native and Season 13 contestant opened five restaurants before turning 30, including the groundbreaking Afro-Caribbean restaurant Kith/Kin on D.C.'s Southwest Waterfront. Since leaving his executive chef position in 2020, Onwuachi has been busy. This summer he will spend nine days in residence at the Salamander Resort & Spa in Middleburg, Virginia, as part of the hotel's multi-day event, The Family Reunion, which celebrates diversity in the hospitality community through cooking classes and demonstrations, wine tastings, exclusive dinners and more.

11 DALE TALDE

Tarrytown, New York

Chicago native and Seasons 4, 8 and Duels competitor Dale Talde is no stranger to TV's food circuit. He's competed on Chopped, Iron Chef America and Knife Fight, and has served as judge for multiple shows. In 2019, Talde opened Goosefeather at the Tarrytown House Estate on the Hudson, where he has taken traditional Cantonese cuisine to another level.

HOUSEBROKEN

Lisa Kudrow On Her Sweet Role As Honey In FOX's New Animated Sitcom.

By Ryan A. Berenz

The Group

Meet The Animals In Honey's Therapy Circle:

Bubbles (Greta Lee) A snarky teenage goldfish.

Diablo (Tony Hale) A high-strung terrier with OCD.

Chico (Sam Richardson) A rotund, codependent orange cat.

Max (Hale) George Clooney's egocentric pet pig.

Elsa (Clea DuVall) An aggressively Type A corgi who works as a fake service dog.

The Gray One (Jason Mantzoukas) A streetwise, one-eyed alley cat.

Nibbles (Bresha Webb) A psychopathic hamster whose mate died under suspicious circumstances.

Shel (Will Forte) A sex-positive tortoise with intimacy issues.

It's like The Secret Life of Pets if all the pets were neurotic.

Housebroken, the latest addition to FOX's stable of animated comedies, comes from writers/executive producers Clea DuVall, Jennifer Crittenden and Gabrielle Allan, and features Lisa Kudrow, Nat Faxon, Tony Hale and Will Forte leading an all-star ensemble voice cast.

Honey (Kudrow) is a standard poodle who leads group therapy sessions for the neighborhood's pets and stray animals to work out their issues with their owners and each other. Meanwhile, Honey's arranged marriage to a big, fun-loving, oafish Saint Bernard named Chief (Faxon) often leaves her feeling unfilled.

Kudrow let us in on what it's like playing canine counselor to a crew of complicated companion animals:

What was it like working with the cast and recording the voices during the pandemic?

Lisa Kudrow: We started I think before COVID, and then we were doing table reads and scratch recordings virtually during lockdown. And when it was safe, I'd go into a studio. I got to record a lot with Nat Faxon. That was so great. He is so funny. Well, no kidding – that's not exactly like big breaking news. It was just so funny, his laughing as Chief. I don't know how many things I ruined just because I was laughing. It was hard not to. It was so funny at the table reads just to hear everyone. It's really fun. Clea, Jen and Gabby, who created the show, are so great. One or all were there every session. They're just so open to, "Oh, yeah, let's try that. Let's try that." You're allowed to pitch things. And they really also just helped me find Honey.

DuVall's relationship with her cat was the springboard for Housebroken. Do you have any pets of your own?

Yeah, I have a little dog. She loves me. What more does a pet owner want out of their animal? I'm loved. She's a Maltese mix. She's really great. We just sort of attribute human behaviors and thoughts to our animals and read into every expression as if it's our own. It all makes sense the way they depict these animals. And then there are little misinterpretations of their humans' behavior, which was really funny to me.

Honey and Chief have an arranged marriage, and they're kind of a mismatch. What's their relationship like?

They're just total opposites. Chief is just full of energy, everything is just for fun and he has a coarse sense of humor. Honey is obviously analytical and she thinks of herself as a therapist because her human is a therapist. Honey really just wants to talk, and Chief is really not interested. But he's so sweet. Of course she has to like him. What's not to like? He's just so lovable. I think because she's so analytical, she thinks, "I don't know if this is the right match." And you don't have to think too much about things. So it almost feels like that's Honey's journey in all of this.

Doesn't Honey also have eyes on someone else in the neighborhood?

There's a coyote. I think she has this attraction to the wild side. But guess what, Honey: He's also the opposite of you. And he's sexy. Chief is not sexy. He's just fun and lovable.

Since they're both therapists, do Honey and Jill (Maria Bamford) overanalyze each other?

Jill is the human, and it doesn't feel like she's analyzing them too much. It feels like she just loves them with all her heart, which is so nice.

How would you compare Honey's therapeutic philosophy to that of your Fiona character from Web Therapy?

Fiona is like the opposite of offering anything therapeutic. Honey's really ... she's really, really trying. I think underneath it all, she can't help but sort of feel a little superior to everyone in group, which she thinks she masks really well. And it's also her tragic attempt every time to be fun-sy. She's not. That stuff makes me laugh, I have to say.

BREAKING BOBBY BONES

The Radio/TV Personality Gets Out Of His Comfort Zone To Share Touching Underdog Stories. By Barb Oates

Breaking Bobby Bones Nat Geo, Premieres Monday, May 31, airs Sundays beginning June 6

Fight. Grind. Repeat. That's the mantra of Bobby Bones.

A man who has carried many titles over his career – comedian, nationally syndicated radio show host (The Bobby Bones Show), American Idol mentor, Dancing With the Stars winner, bestselling author and, now, adventurist.

In Nat Geo's new 16-part series, Breaking Bobby Bones, the spirited Bones travels the country spotlighting everyday heroes who have extraordinary jobs, hobbies and abilities. These individuals give him a crash course in their specialized skills, and Bones attempts to live a day in their lives by learning their trade and story. Almost always, Bones is pushed past his own comfort zone (dangling over the Grand Canyon 4,000 feet above the Colorado River turned into quite a day), but, ultimately, he connects with these individuals to share their life.

"It's taken me screwing up a lot and learning, but also having a real empathy," Bones says, when speaking of his own life. "I think the best thing that I have in my career, in my tool belt, is empathy. And this kind of rooted how the show started. I always felt alone in how I grew up; meaning, I grew up with a mom who was an addict, an alcoholic, who died in her 40s. I never had a dad. He left when I was young. … I'd gone through all the stuff and I always felt like, why me? I was resentful of that until I got older and started to realize this is why me. Like, this is the reason I'm doing this is to be able to go out and share my story. As I started to not feel alone, I thought there have got to be other people out there who have been through a bunch, come out the other side and want to help others as well. And that was the root of this idea."

In the series we meet Lonnie, a man blinded from a gunshot to the face, who kayaks through whitewater rapids (Bones says he almost died on the river). We meet Mike, who was in jail and has turned his life around, who takes Bones up into turbines and dangling over the Grand Canyon. We watch Bones play para sled hockey in Denver with a veteran who lost his legs while on deployment.

"I love connecting with real, hardworking Americans to hear their stories of dedication, survival and how they turn their challenges into extraordinary opportunities," says Bones. "I've hated doing a lot of these actual missions, but there was never a second that I was not going to do them. I believe you don't grow unless you're uncomfortable. I've grown about 10 feet tall after this season."

Offensive. Bombastic. Satirical.

ZIWE

A New Voice Brings Laughs And Thoughtful Commentary. By Taylor Neumann

Showtime's newest series introduces a new voice on the scene – Ziwe, a writer and performer who you may have seen on another one of the network's shows, Desus & Mero. She's funny, intelligent and tuned in to society, and now she has her own show to show the world what she's capable of.

Ziwe is different from other sketch comedy shows in that it leans more toward what you would call a "variety show" – every episode features musical performances from Ziwe herself, as well as interviews with actors, comedians and political figures. She brings her own unique comedic talents to each minute of the show, which promises to be timely, thought-provoking and unafraid to cover a wide variety of topics.

Ziwe, from Lawrence, Massachusetts, is the daughter of immigrant parents who fled a civil war in Nigeria and came to the United States in the 1980s. "Growing up as Nigerian American has allowed me to really see different aspects of American living," explained Ziwe. "I've just been able to move through different spaces and come up with a comprehensive understanding of what I believe to be my experience, and how I can relay that in my art is always a privilege."

She was also a big hit on social media – spending most of 2020 doing Instagram Live shows – before landing her Showtime series, something she credits with furthering her career. "The secret to breaking out on social media is having a specific voice that you cultivate all to your own. You can never copy someone because it's just not as good as the original," said Ziwe. "I found that with social media I was able to break through glass ceilings. … It's helped me in ways I cannot begin to calculate for sure."

When asked to sum up what viewers can expect from the series, Ziwe had this to say: "Offensive, bombastic, satirical. That's my brand of comedy." For audiences looking for topical, fresh humor from a strong voice who isn't afraid to roast everyone from civil rights leaders to celebrities, Ziwe is a great option.

DEATH & NIGHTINGALES

Three-Part Limited Series

Matthew Rhys, Ann Skelly And Jamie Dornan Lead This Intense Drama Set In 19th Century Ireland. By Barb Oates

Based on Eugene McCabe's 1992 acclaimed novel of the same name, this three-part melodrama originally aired on BBC in 2018 but finally finds its home for American audiences on Starz this month.

Set in the lavish Irish countryside in 1885, the miniseries introduces us to a beautiful young woman, Beth Winters (Ann Skelly), whose identity and innocence is compromised by the men in her life. Through flashbacks and lean dialogue, we learn that Beth's Protestant stepfather, Billy (Matthew Rhys, The Americans), was duped by her Catholic mother and Beth was not his kin.

When Beth was 12, her father showed her his safe filled with 100-year-old gold, gold that he said had been passed and stolen among varying families for decades. Gold that if she could "mind her step, bide her time and play her part" could all be hers. But what part, she battled, would that be – dairymaid, housekeeper, wife – in her toxic environment?

Disgusted by her father's drunken advances and violent outbursts, Beth confides in and falls for the charming and handsome Liam Ward (Jamie Dornan, 50 Shades of Grey). Together they construct their happily-ever-after plan.

Mixed in these complex love stories are the political (Irish vs. the Crown) and religious (Protestant vs. Catholic) tensions of the time, where loyalty and trust are quick to be questioned. In the end, this is a slow-burn story of love, betrayal, deception and revenge.

Keeping A Promise

CHER & THE LONELIEST ELEPHANT

How One Celebrity's Compassion And Star Power Helped Save An Elephant. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Cher

This emotional and dramatic documentary chronicles the efforts of music superstar Cher, and a team of wildlife veterinarians, animal aid groups and sanctuary owners, to free a long-suffering captive elephant and move him to a wildlife sanctuary more than 2,000 miles away – in the middle of a global pandemic. The actions seen in this special speak to what people can accomplish when they come together on a shared mission.

In Pakistan, a 4-ton, malnourished elephant named Kaavan spent nearly 20 years in chains, living in a tiny, dilapidated shed under the scorching sun. Kaavan became the poster elephant for the plight of captive animals, igniting a social media uproar that caught Cher's attention.

"I saw all the people being affected by it all over the world," says Cher. "People don't want to see animals suffer. And I know people are suffering too, but this is a story that can brighten their lives."

Cher began using the power of her celebrity to initiate change. She cofounded Free the Wild to boost the movement, and recorded a song, "Walls," to give further voice to the rising calls for Kaavan's release.

These efforts paid off in May 2020, when the Pakistani high court ordered Kaavan be freed. Working with an international rescue organization, the team identified a potential new home for him in a Cambodian wildlife sanctuary.

The stage had been set for an amazing rescue operation, but as logistical challenges piled up, there were serious doubts whether the team could actually pull it off. In November 2020, Cher flew halfway around the world to help ensure that Kaavan would be saved.

"I was frightened, but then I thought, 'You made a promise, and you have to go,'" she recalls. "I have a saying on my Twitter: 'Stand and be counted or sit and be nothing.' And I wasn't going to sit and be nothing."

Long-Buried History Comes To Light

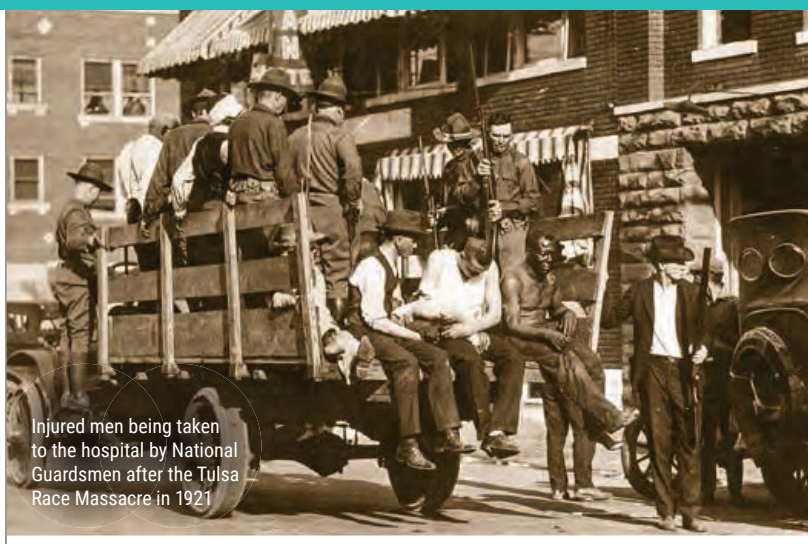

TULSA: THE FIRE AND THE FORGOTTEN

Shedding More Light On A Shameful Chapter In American History. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Among the unforgettable elements that the exceptional 2019 miniseries Watchmen offered was raising awareness of the previously little-talked-about – and, likely, to most people, completely unknown – 1921 Tulsa Race Massacre, one of the worst incidents of racial violence in American history. Since that real-life event was incorporated into the popular dramatic series, people have become more interested in learning about it.

A great place to discover more this month is in the new PBS documentary Tulsa: The Fire and the Forgotten, airing to coincide with the 100th anniversary of that event, which took place May 31-June 1, 1921, in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Over those days, mobs of white residents set fire to Black-owned businesses and homes in the Greenwood District – known familiarly as "Black Wall Street." An estimated 100-300 Black residents were killed, an estimated 10,000 Black residents were left homeless, and the once thriving area never recovered.

Produced and reported by The Washington Post's DeNeen L. Brown, who interviews descendants of Greenwood residents along with today's community activists, The Fire and the Forgotten examines how this explosion of racial terror was compounded by the ensuing silence. No one was punished for the crimes, and history textbooks often made no reference to them, so many Americans have remained unaware of this history, perhaps until seeing Watchmen.

Injured men being taken to the hospital by National Guardsmen after the Tulsa Race Massacre in 1921

"[Even] many students who went to school in Oklahoma were not taught about this massacre that occurred in their hometown," says Brown. "After the massacre occurred, many of the leaders in Tulsa deliberately set out to cover up the massacre. … Many of the white people would not talk about it because their grandparents were perpetrators. Many of the Black people often whispered about it because some had a fear that it might reoccur."

That attitude may finally be changing. The film chronicles how the city decided in 2018 to search for mass graves from 1921, and how last year, one such grave was discovered.

"This spring," Brown says, "the city of Tulsa plans to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the massacre, as descendants of survivors demand reparations for what was lost and protest against current oppression and racism."

"Without truth, you can't have justice," adds producer/director Jonathan Silvers. "And I think without truth, you can't have a better society, a more perfect society, which I think is our goal."

Three-Night Miniseries

THE TITANS THAT BUILT AMERICA

New Miniseries From The People Behind "The Men Who Built America." By Jeff Pfeiffer

History recently announced that it is expanding its That Built franchise of documentary programming. In the planning stages are the upcoming docuseries The Toys That Built America, The Machines That Built America and The Engineering That Built the World.

Already finished and ready to debut this month is The Titans That Built America. This three-night miniseries is a follow-up to the 2012 miniseries The Men Who Built America, and comes from the people behind that program, who are joined by executive producer Leonardo DiCaprio.

The first series chronicled how late 19th/early 20th century industrialists like Vanderbilt and Rockefeller revolutionized modern society with their industrial innovations and business empires even as their ruthlessness and greed earned them reputations as infamous "robber barons."

The Titans That Built America takes a similar approach as it moves further along into the 20th century. The three episodes chronicle the incredible rise and fierce rivalries of industrial heavy-hitters Henry Ford, William Boeing, Walter Chrysler, J.P. Morgan Jr. and Pierre du Pont. The ruthless, innovative and cunning titans battled each other – and FDR – to create entirely new industries (automobiles, airplanes, arms and skyscrapers) at a time when the country was in absolute peril. Out of that rubble, a new age of robber barons emerged who not only resurrected our nation in a time of need, but ultimately banded together to help defeat our country's greatest enemy in World War II.

Alex Gibney

Two-Part Documentary

THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY

Exposing The Corruption That Led To America's Deadly Opioid Epidemic.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

"We, for years, have defined the opioid epidemic and an opioid crisis as if it's just something that happened, like a wildfire," says acclaimed documentary filmmaker Alex Gibney (Going Clear: Scientology and the Prison of Belief), introducing his latest film. "And to me, what was so revealing as I got into this … was to understand that actually it wasn't a crisis at all, it was a crime, and that the body count was extremely high."

Gibney's understanding will also become the viewers' understanding when they see the compelling evidence he has revealed in The Crime of the Century, an HBO documentary airing over two evenings this month. The result of over two years of investigation, the film is a searing indictment of Big Pharma and the political operatives and government regulations that enable overproduction, reckless distribution and abuse of synthetic opiates.

Exploring the origins, extent and fallout of one of the most devastating public health tragedies of our time – with half a million deaths from overdoses this century alone – Gibney's film reveals that America's opioid epidemic is not a public health crisis that came out of nowhere. As it has previously done in films about Enron and Scientology, Gibney's lens also puts a sweltering spotlight on much of the, at best, dubious – if not outright criminal – behavior among many across the business, medical, marketing and political spectrums who escalated this deadly situation under the guise of trying to ease people's pain.

"One really major difference between Big Tobacco and Big Opioid is that tobacco never pretended that they were selling medicine that would actually make you better," says Dr. Anna Lembke, an addiction specialist featured in the film. "Whereas, the opioid industry, that was their winning ticket: 'This is medicine. We're healers. We would never hurt you.' And that's why their campaign to misrepresent opioids was so insidious, so destructive and really, in many ways, very evil."

Insightful commentary from experts like Lembke is coupled with examples of some of those disingenuous campaigns she references; heart-wrenching chronicles of just a few of those who have lost their lives to opioid overdoses and those who have experienced the human devastation firsthand; and enraging evidence – much of it not seen before, and including correspondence like internal company emails – that shows who knew what and when about how highly addictive these money-making drugs really are.

"I think you're going to see a tremendous amount of evidence in this film that's never really been seen before," says Gibney, "and never really been put together in this way, to give you a sense of a kind of conspiracy so immense that it deserves the title 'the Crime of the Century.'"

A Modern-Day "Sex And The City"

RUN THE WORLD

Fashion Is At The Forefront In This New Girlfriend Series. By Barb Oates

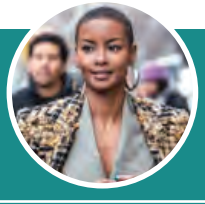

Remember the days when you were 21 and could party all night, hydrate in the morning and be able to shake it off? For a group of fiercely loyal best friends living in Harlem, they think those days may be long gone, as they reinvent their careers and begin to settle down. Starz's new eight-episode, half-hour series is a modern-day version of Sex and the City, as it follows the love lives, careers and friendships of this unapologetic foursome – Ella (Andrea Bordeaux, NCIS: Los Angeles), Whitney (Amber Stevens West, The Carmichael Show), Sondi (Corbin Reid, Valor) and Renee (Bresha Webb, Marlon).

Ella's a bit Carrie Bradshaw-like, a writer who failed to impress critics with her first book, so she's forced to take a job beneath her at a tabloid website. She's got a "Big" (Chris Noth reference from Sex and the City) love interest, as well.

Renee is the tell-it-as-it-is friend, quick to dole out advice – "try to be more likable, like one of those nice colored girls in Georgia we went to school with" – and who's not afraid to have a good time. Sondi's the intellect, an expert contrarian and Ph.D. advisee to her esteemed boyfriend (she's also helping raise his 6-year-old daughter). Whitney's planning her upscale wedding and has (ahem!) real problems like whether branzino, "a glorified tilapia" to her, is the dish of choice, but may also start second-guessing her choice in men.

All of these ladies share an undeniable fashion sense. And, just as Sex and the City introduced us to Manolo Blahniks, these women will inspire as well. We caught up with Run the World's costume designer, Tracy L. Cox (Sex and the City, The Devil Wears Prada), who gave us some insights on the show's fashions.

GOOD WITCH

Catherine Bell On Playing Cassie For Over A Decade And The Exciting Season Coming Up. By Taylor Neumann

Hallmark's popular show Good Witch is back for Season 7, and it marks 13 years of Catherine Bell playing the title character, Cassie Nightingale, in both the Hallmark original films and the series itself. But Bell is excited by what's to come.

"I got to say, I think it's one of my favorite seasons yet," teased Bell about the upcoming episodes. "We had some changes last season where we had the cousin come in, the Merriwick witchy cousin. We really continue with that this year. There's a lot of fun with the three of us where you find out more about our powers – whatever you want to call them – our witchy abilities. There's a mystery that kind of goes through the entire season. We start to lose our magic; something's happening as part of the mystery we're trying to figure out.

"It goes way back to our roots and some messages that our ancestors planted along the way that we have to uncover and try to figure out. It carries through the whole season and gets more and more exciting, and builds toward the end. I really loved that; I loved the magic. There was a lot more intensity. With that going on in Cassie's life, it affects her in a lot of ways – it affects her and Sam [played by James Denton]. It just kind of rocks her world a little bit, so that was just fun to play with as an actor."

Bell has been around since Day 1, and has watched the show evolve as the years have gone by and beloved characters – like her daughter on the show, Grace, played by Bailee Madison – have left. But she started with those original films – seven in all, which aired from 2008 to 2014 before the show began in 2015. Bell remembers the conversations that took place when trying to expand the universe from those movies into a full-blown series. "We all thought, 'Hey, if we're going to do this as a weekly thing, Cassie can't always know everything, and everything's always perfect, because that just won't be fun to watch week after week. … I mean, God, when I did that first movie, I had no idea we would do a second one even, let alone what it's turned into."

And now, after Madison's departure, the show has taken on a decidedly more adult tone – while still remaining the family-friendly kind of series viewers can watch with their kids. "The show is still a very positive show, and it's something that you're going to feel good watching," explained Bell. "I think we have that appeal, but it's nice to have a little bit of like, 'What's going to happen with that?' Cassie doesn't know what to do, she's a little troubled, or her and Sam might have a little something going on at one point in the season – again, it's not awful. You won't be crying over it or anything, but there's a little bit of drama, and a bit of ups and downs of life. It's become more mature, and we're growing up a little, within the same sweet, lovely, fun and whimsical frame that we've always been in."

Has playing Cassie changed for Bell over the years? To the actress, not really. "I think at the core, Cassie's still the same – she's still positive, sees the best in everyone, trusts that people will do the right thing. … I love that, because I do think that when we look for the best in people, you do get the best from them, you know what I mean? I think she's still the same person; she was just growing up and evolving as well."

Fans can be assured that even with the restrictions in place this year because of the coronavirus, the season will still be the usual 10 episodes long. Bell, who normally splits her time between filming the series in Toronto and being home with her family in Los Angeles, had to commit to being in Toronto for several months. But she says her wonderful cast and crew more than made up for the unusual circumstances. "We banded together so much; it was such a beautiful sense of camaraderie and closeness. I think probably because we're all so grateful to be out again, and working again, despite masks and face shields and lots of testing."

Playing Cassie for so many years also means Bell has heard from her fair share of fans who adore the character. "A lot of people say they wish Cassie was their best friend – she just makes people feel good; [she's] positive and uplifting. … It's just so lovely when people come up to me and just thank me. … This show has such a positive effect, and it's nice to be a part of that."

THE GIRLFRIEND EXPERIENCE

The Anthology Series Returns With An Intriguing, Tech-Themed Season 3.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

Julia Goldani Telles

Starz's anthology series The Girlfriend Experience – a reimagining of executive producer Steven Soderbergh's acclaimed 2009 movie of the same name – chronicles the relationships between exclusive escorts and their clients, for whom they provide far more than just sex.

If the show's title and description have you thinking it's something of a purely titillating nature, you should reconsider. Starz promotes the series as part of its "commitment to spotlighting premium stories and narratives by, about and for women and underrepresented audiences," and any viewing of the series so far has made that clear; while at times erotic, it is no late-night "Skinamax" title, but a compelling study of human nature and connections.

Season 3, premiering this month, is no exception. It, in fact, may be the most cinematic and artfully presented season to date, written and stylishly directed by filmmaker Anja Marquardt (She's Lost Control), who brilliantly uses sight and sound in an almost hypnotic manner to give the technology-themed season an air of feeling sort of like something out of Blade Runner or Black Mirror.

Julia Goldani Telles (The Affair), who leads the cast this season, explains what makes the series not what people might expect.

"The problem with TV and films for forever," she explains, "is it's been from the male gaze. And so, of course, [some people] assumed that The Girlfriend Experience is something titillating for people to objectify a woman and get off on. … [But] it's more about the experience, and it's more about the empowering, choice-driven woman who has the privilege of being able to be compensated quite nicely to provide a service, and also has an entire life and story and motivation behind her, beyond providing service for these men. And [she is] actually gaining more from these men in their games, in the long run."

Telles plays Iris, an American neuroscience major who takes a hiatus from school to work at a London tech firm by day, and for an escort service known as The V at night. As she begins to explore the transactional world of the Girlfriend Experience, Iris quickly learns that her client sessions provide her with a compelling edge in the relationship-based AI tech her firm is working on, and vice versa. She then begins to question whether her actions are driven by free will and heads down a deep path of exploration.

"[Iris is] a very complicated character," Telles says. "She is extremely intellectual and she intellectualizes her emotions. … She's very methodical and really trying to observe people and plan her next step. She loves information. She wants to collect data. … I think that what motivates technology, in part, is our fears and our desires, and our fears and our desires can help create these things that we crave. [And Iris is] really interested in how human wants, needs and desires intersect with technology.

"Along with that, she wants control. She wants power. … I think that the great thing about this show is that people can draw their own conclusions about where [Iris] stands."

Mythic Quest

Season 2 Episodes Available Fridays Beginning May 7

The hit workplace comedy set at a video game studio, cocreated by star Rob McElhenney, Charlie Day and Megan Ganz, returns for its sophomore season.

With the quarantine finally over, Season 2 finds almost everyone back in the office, attempting to build upon the success of Raven's Banquet by launching a new expansion, but Ian (McElhenney) and newly promoted co-creative director Poppy (Charlotte Nicdao) struggle with the game's direction. Meanwhile, C.W. (F. Murray Abraham) reconciles unresolved issues from his past, the testers (Ashly Burch and Imani Hakim) test the bounds of an office romance and David (David Hornsby) loses yet another woman in his life as Jo (Jessie Ennis) leaves him to assist Brad (Danny Pudi).

According to Ganz, who is also an executive producer, the creative team talked with Ubisoft, the real-life video game company that helps produce this series, for insights into how a workplace such as the one depicted here would respond to the pandemic and quarantines.

"We talked to Ubisoft a lot at the beginning of quarantine," Ganz says, "asking them how they were getting along because, obviously, the video game industry was in a unique position to have to switch to remote working like we all did, but also having a crazy uptick in the amount of work that they needed to do, because, obviously, a lot of people were home and playing video games.

"The stories that kept coming out ... were just very universal stories that everyone experienced in their workplace, like figuring out Zoom and all of those things, [like] being on 'mute' when you think you're not, and vice versa."

Helped by their eccentric social worker Penny (Imelda Staunton), they are determined to do everything they can. When Nikki meets a little girl called Princess at an adoption event, she knows instantly that this is the child for them. But there are obstacles to Nikki's plan that may prove insurmountable.

Eight-Episode Series Available May 6

Sara Bareilles, Renée Elise Goldsberry, Paula Pell and Busy Philipps headline this comedy from creator/executive producer Meredith Scardino, which also boasts Tina Fey as an EP.

When a one-hit wonder girl group from the '90s gets sampled by a young rapper, its members reunite to give their pop-star dreams one more shot. They may now be grown women balancing spouses, kids, jobs, debt, aging parents and shoulder pain, but can't they also be Girls5eva?

Viewers can expect to hear plenty of original songs with a '90s-era flair, as Scardino explains.

"[Executive producer] Jeff [Richmond] was amazing with doing all of our songs. We would hand him the weirdest, stupidest lyrics, and it would come back these fully formed fun songs that felt very appropriate to [the '90s]. ... And we were lucky enough to have Sara write an original song for the show, which we're also excited about."

Doug to the Rescue

Available May TBA

Nothing is easy in the aftermath of a natural disaster. There's often no power, no cellphones and few public services. People are displaced, often separated from their loved ones with no easy way to make contact. When resources are scarce and too many people are in need, what happens to the animals, both wild and domestic, that are stranded or left behind? That's where drone pilot Doug Thron comes in.

From hurricanes to wildfires, Doug travels to the hardest hit areas – relying only on the supplies he can carry, including next-gen drone technology outfitted specifically for his unique mission. In this series, follow along with Doug every emotional step of the way, from the often-dangerous searches and dramatic rescues to the successful reunions with grateful owners, or a return to an animal's natural habitat.

"I think you all will be blown away by what this technology can do," Thron promises viewers. "I've been somewhat on a crusade, not only to rescue the animals from natural disasters that just keep getting bigger and bigger, but also to get this incredible technology known by the world. … I was able to rescue countless more animals and find animals that might never have been found if it wasn't for this infrared technology."
