RANDOM RANTS, RAVES & THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

Behind The Scenes Of "Extracted"

FOX's groundbreaking survival competition series Extracted (Mondays), where contestants rely on their family and friends to make smart choices so they can survive, elicited plenty of questions from viewers, including "How far would you push your family member for a fortune?" Here are a few insights we learned from the production team about the show. Survivalists were given some basic lifesaving training before embarking due to the fact that the area producers chose was so remote, subject to severe environmental conditions and home to large predators. Strategy-wise, most families came in with a plan or a pact of when, if necessary, to hit the extract button. As for the biggest surprise producers weren't even expecting? "There were really two big surprises for us post-filming. One was the perseverance of several survivalists who had little to no experience in the wild. We assumed they would get extracted early, but with the help of their family and their ability to adapt to the wild, they went further than we could have imagined," Brien Meagher shared with us. "The second biggest surprise was the families confronting and even dealing with interpersonal family issues while going through the experience. Issues that probably would have only come up in family therapy were forced to the surface given the extreme situations they found themselves in. Again and again, conversations about love, trust and believing in one another were thrust into the spotlight." The first season comes to a conclusion on Monday, April 21.

"Blue Bloods'" Donnie Wahlberg Will Be Back

After 14 seasons of the Reagan family gathering for a meal on Blue Bloods, the series came to an end in December 2024. Frank (Tom Selleck) claimed the final lines of the show, saying: "You know, we've got a lot to be thankful for. And looking around

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

Notable TV series, episodes, networks and/or events marking anniversaries this month.

70 YEARS AGO

SCIENCE FICTION THEATRE

This anthology series (which was name-dropped in Back to the Future as being George McFly's favorite TV show) aired in syndication from April 9, 1955-Feb. 9, 1957. It introduced stories extrapolated from actual scientific data, covering topics such as space flight.

60 YEARS AGO

MY NAME IS BARBRA

Barbra Streisand's first television special, tied in with her album of the same name, aired April 28, 1965, on CBS. It won five of the six Emmys for which it was nominated and earned Streisand the first of her four Peabody Awards.

this table, I gotta say, I couldn't be more proud or grateful." Turns out we are more than thankful, as in February CBS announced the expansion of the Blue Bloods universe with the spinoff series Boston Blue, which will be part of the 2025-26 broadcast season. Donnie Wahlberg will reprise his role as NYPD officer Danny Reagan as he takes a position with the Boston PD. Once in Boston, he is paired with detective Lena Peters, the eldest daughter of a prominent law enforcement family. No word yet on if Selleck will be involved, but we can only be hopeful.

"Robot Chicken" Celebrates Its 20th

Adult Swim's stop-motion sketch comedy series Robot Chicken is marking its 20th anniversary with an all-new special that dives into iconic reality shows from its parent network family — Warner Bros. Discovery Networks. The latest installment of the Emmy-winning series created by and starring Seth Green and Matthew Senreich is titled The Robot Chicken Self-Discovery Special and will follow the hapless Robot Chicken Nerd as he seeks self-discovery America's way — going on reality shows! Will he find a 90 Day Fiancé — or end up Shark Week chum? The new special will air this summer.

Congratulations!

"HAWAII FIVE-O" SERIES FINALE

On April 5, 1980, the last scripted primetime series that had debuted in the 1960s left the air when the final episode of Hawaii Five-O aired on CBS. At the time, the series, which had debuted on Sept. 20, 1968, was the longest-running U.S. police drama.

FRIDAYS

This live late-night sketch comedy series lasted three seasons from April 11, 1980-April 23, 1982. It featured three key future Seinfeld contributors: writers Larry David and Larry Charles, and regular cast member Michael Richards.

35 YEARS AGO

TWIN PEAKS

The feature-length pilot for this surrealist/mystery/horror/drama from creators David Lynch and Mark Frost premiered April 8, 1990, on ABC. It ended after two seasons on June 10, 1991, but has remained a cult favorite, and was followed by a 1992 feature film and a 2017 Showtime revival.

IN LIVING COLOR

Created by Keenen Ivory Wayans, this sketch comedy series aired on FOX from April 15, 1990-May 19, 1994. He and other Wayans family members led the cast, along with several soon-to-be-famous comedians and actors like Jamie Foxx and Jim Carrey.

WINGS

This sitcom set at a small airport in Nantucket, Massachusetts, ran on NBC from April 19, 1990-May 21, 1997, led by Tim Daly, Steven Weber and Crystal Bernard. While not officially a Cheers spinoff, Wings did exist in the same universe.

THE ART OF PIMPLE POPPING

Dr. Lee Heads To Lifetime.

Watching a super-sized, pus-filled pimple or cyst get popped has never been so popular thanks to Dr. Sandra Lee, who has been fascinating her fan base (online and onscreen) for the past few years. Dr. Lee is heading to Lifetime in her new series Dr. Pimple Popper: Breaking Out, which will air Mondays beginning April 21. As for what to expect, we asked the doctor herself. "This new season on a new network — Lifetime — I bring in young 'protégés,' young dermatologists or people who are trying to get into dermatology residency training programs to become dermatologists," she shares. "To pass on my knowledge and teach them skills you can't just learn in textbooks or during your training. Also, since we are now empty nesters, my husband and I moved to Los Angeles to explore a new town, make new friends, and enjoy our lives in a new bustling, busy and exciting city!" At the core of the show remains some pretty complicated cases, and patients who are turning to Dr. Lee for their last chance. Expect big lipomas and cysts, complicated inflammatory diseases including atopic dermatitis, psoriasis and vitiligo, and plenty of ooze.

5 QUESTIONS WITH BRADLEY WHITFORD OF "THE HANDMAID'S TALE"

By Jacqueline Cutler

Bradley Whitford became famous as Josh Lyman on The West Wing, and he's excited about reuniting with his former castmate Allison Janney in The Diplomat, where they will play spouses next season. As for now, he's currently starring as Commander Joseph Lawrence on The Handmaid's Tale, a leader in a government that's the opposite of all he actually supports. As The Handmaid's Tale returns to Hulu (beginning April 8) for the series' final season, Whitford answers our "5 Questions."

1 Are you ready for The Handmaid's Tale to end? The older I get, the luckier I realize that I've been, and there is nothing like being in an ongoing, creatively satisfying television show, let alone one that unfortunately means something these days. I think one of the truly kind of unacknowledged miracles of the show is the way the writers pretty seamlessly stepped off the dock of a brilliant novel onto an ongoing story and expanded that story, which a dramaturge might argue is kind of a claustrophobic premise. So, I feel like it's the definition of bittersweet. We've been incredibly lucky to go on this long.

2 What's it like making this while laws governing women grow more restrictive? It's tough. I feel heartbroken that stories can't fix everything and simultaneously inspired to make sure that we continue to make these stories to put the heart and soul and blood and muscle and humanity of the people who are at the mercy of what's going on. So, it's a double-edged thing.

3 Tell us about a time when were you starstruck. Springsteen. I was in the movie Philadelphia. I met him at the screening, and I've seen him, talked to him briefly twice over the years. And every time I see him, I'm amazed by his just relentless creative output.

4 What's the ideal day for you? The ideal day, especially now, is being home with Amy [his wife Amy Landecker, Transparent, Your Honor] and waking up in a bed full of dogs and cats and taking a walk and doing some reading and writing. And lately as a sort of antidote, because really the relentless consumption of political content was raising my blood pressure, I watch a lot of sports now. And luckily, Amy's into it.

5 What would you do if you weren't an actor? I remember looking at the letter from Juilliard when I got in, because I grew up in the Midwest, where you never say you wanted to be an actor. I didn't know anybody who was an actor. But from seventh grade on, it was like I can't even decide if I want skim milk, 2% or whole, but I've always wanted to be in as many plays as I can be in. I've had the opportunity to write a little, and writing really is kind of pulling me. One of the greatest creatives on The West Wing, John Wells, basically, I pitched an idea to him when I was supposed to direct an episode. He said, "I think you should write it." It's the thing I am probably most proud of creatively.

WEALTH OF TALENT

Baseball's Top Teams Have An Embarrassment Of Riches.

By Ryan A. Berenz

Juan Soto and the Mets look to give the Dodgers a run for their money

Once again, big spenders make big contenders in Major League Baseball. Outfielder Juan Soto left the N.Y. Yankees for the crosstown Mets with a record-breaking 15-year, $765 million contract that gives the Mets even more power in the lineup. After falling short in the World Series, the Yankees brought in pitchers Max Fried and Devin Williams, and outfielder Cody Bellinger. The Boston Red Sox have missed the playoffs for three straight seasons, and they hope signing pitcher Walker Buehler and third baseman Alex Bregman will turn the tide. And the champion L.A. Dodgers didn't rest on their laurels, signing two-time Cy Young winner Blake Snell and outfielder Teoscar Hernández.

All that star power gets lots of national TV exposure as the season's storylines start to unfold.

TBS opens its Tuesday primetime MLB slate April 1 with the Arizona Diamondbacks visiting Aaron Judge and the AL champion Yankees. The rest of April's lineup on TBS has the Philadelphia Phillies at the Atlanta Braves (April 8), the Cleveland Guardians at the Baltimore Orioles (April 15) and the Phillies at the Mets (April 22).

FOX Sports' April Saturday lineup opens with the Dodgers at the Phillies and the Cincinnati Reds at the Milwaukee Brewers (April 5, FS1). Other highlights include a FOX regional game featuring the Dodgers at the Texas Rangers or the St. Louis Cardinals at the Mets (April 19).

Sunday Night Baseball returns for its 36th and likely final season on ESPN, as the network opted out of the final three years of its broadcast rights deal with MLB. The April schedule has the Cardinals at the Red Sox (April 6), the Chicago Cubs at the Dodgers (April 13), the San Diego Padres at the Houston Astros (April 20) and the Phillies at the Cubs (April 27).

THE TOP 12

A QUICK RUNDOWN OF WHAT TO WATCH THIS MONTH

WHERE DO YOU KNOW THIS CAST FROM?

JAMES MARSDEN

If you were a '90s horror fan, then you may remember Marsden's breakout role in the 1998 teen sci-fi film Disturbing Behavior, alongside rising star Katie Holmes. He was also the sunglasses-wearing husband of Jean Grey, Cyclops, in several X-Men films. Recently, he made viewers laugh in the Freevee comedy Jury Duty.

STERLING K. BROWN

This one's a no-brainer! Brown is most well known for his previous Dan Fogelman hit This Is Us, for which he won countless awards. He was also recently nominated for an Oscar for his 2023 portrayal of American Fiction's Clifford Ellison, the audacious, recently divorced gay brother of author Monk Ellison (Jeffrey Wright).

James Marsden, Sterling K. Brown and Julianne Nicholson

JULIANNE NICHOLSON
Nicholson has had a long career in television, from portraying Assistant U.S. Attorney Esther Randolph in the hit gangster drama Boardwalk Empire to Dr. Lillian DePaul in Masters of Sex, but she may be most recognizable as Detective Megan Wheeler in Law & Order: Criminal Intent.

1 PARADISE

Mondays beginning April 7 on ABC
NETWORK PREMIERE!

When writer and creator Dan Fogelman took us on TV's most heart-clutching, emotionally draining (yet joyfully satisfying) journey in This Is Us, no one would have anticipated this — this being the thriller series Paradise — as his follow-up.

Paradise originally debuted on Hulu (along with the pilot episode on ABC) in January, and its success garnered a second season pickup and a full Season 1 run on ABC beginning this month.

This Is Us fan favorite Sterling K. Brown (who played Randall) makes his long-awaited return to TV as family man Xavier Collins, who is a loving father to a teenage daughter and 10-year-old son, and husband to a brilliant wife. His role and world, however, are beyond complex in this eight-episode thinker.

Collins serves as the lead agent on the president's Secret Service team and is the personal bodyguard to U.S. President Cal Bradford (played by the extremely likable James Marsden). The series begins with the president's murder and Collins shutting down the crime scene instead of immediately calling it in, making him a prime suspect. From there the story moves backward through some teary-eyed and terrorizing flashbacks, and forward through some jaw-dropping revelations, where nothing is as it seems.

Quickly we learn there's someone far more powerful than the president, and the story unravels from there. Enter the brilliant billionaire Samantha Redmond, nicknamed Sinatra (Julianne Nicholson).

"I'm deeply in awe of Dan Fogelman's writing. I think he has some crazy gift of knowing what people want to watch. You just feel like — as an audience member — you're going to be taken care of," Nicholson tells us. "I love his use of backstory. I love how he gets the audience to fall for these people — to feel like we know these people, we understand these people, and we have empathy and compassion for them in a way that allows for human error and forgiveness."

Sinatra is one of the most complicated characters in the series, and her backstory in Episode 2 will leave you shattered.

"I thought that was one of the most beautiful episodes of television I'd ever read," Nicholson adds. "I thought it was such a sensitive investigation into a woman's life and where she starts off when it's all in front of her, it's all hopeful, it's all joyful. And then life has its own ideas. I just found his writing heartbreaking and beautiful."

Nicholson, who worked with Marsden on Ally McBeal, says he's one of "the most charming, self-deprecating, funniest people I've ever met — he made me laugh all day long." She first met Brown at the Emmy Awards in 2021 when she won for Mare of Easttown. They were in line to enter the building when stars started cutting in front of one another. "Sterling K. Brown started shouting from the back of the line, 'There will be no cutting. No cutting. There is a line, and we will respect that line.' I knew from that moment that I loved Sterling K. Brown. That guy is a hero, because he just wasn't having it. He's so decent."

And a few years later they found themselves in Paradise, and securing a second season. You can bet on them being back in that Emmy nominee line again in no time! — Barb Oates

2 SECRETS OF THE PENGUINS

Sunday, April 20 on NAT GEO

NEW SERIES!

In 2005, the National Geographic-produced feature documentary March of the Penguins opened in theaters and may have been many people's introduction to the amazing yearly journey undertaken by emperor penguins in Antarctica, and their resilience in surviving the harsh elements of their home.

The acclaimed film won the Best Feature Documentary Oscar, and March of the Penguins and its charming subjects expanded into wider popular culture as the film became one of the most successful documentaries ever released in North America; it was No. 27 in terms of U.S. box office gross that year, taking in over $77 million.

Twenty years later, Nat Geo returns to the remarkable world of penguins, this time on the small screen, with the three-episode series Secrets of the Penguins (all episodes air April 20). It is the latest entry in the network's franchise of exceptional Earth Day natural history series from executive producer James Cameron (following Secrets of the Whales, Secrets of the Elephants and Secrets of the Octopus), and it could be the most impressive one yet.

If you thought you had learned everything there is to know about these flightless birds from March of the Penguins and other docs, Secrets of the Penguins will show you otherwise.

Wildlife cinematographer Bertie Gregory and his team, collaborating with leading scientists and using cutting-edge camera technology and unique access, capture beautiful, funny, relatable and heartbreaking moments among the penguins they are immersed with. The series begins with an amazing new look at the continuing endurance of the emperors of Antarctica, and you may find yourself especially rooting for one little chick, basically a "runt" of the group, to make it on its journey to the sea with the others as they all work together to keep each other warm and keep tabs on one another.

Other episodes travel to places like the Galápagos Islands and follow other types of penguins, including chinstraps, rockhoppers, gentoos and "rockaronis" — a hybrid between rockhoppers and macaroni penguins filmed for the first time in this series. There are even some ingenious migrant penguins that have found their way to deserts and tropical islands.

One of the revelatory things uncovered in this series, especially among the emperors, is how, early on, they learn — and are taught, by their parents — how important the bonds of friendship and family, and the need to work together as a society to survive their world, are.

That's at least one penguin secret that we could learn from. — Jeff Pfeiffer

3 SECRETS DECLASSIFIED WITH DAVID DUCHOVNY

Fridays beginning April 4 on HISTORY

NEW SERIES!

"Are you hearing that emergency alert on my phone?" David Duchovny asks at the beginning of our interview. It's a fitting way to start our chat about History's new 10-episode series, Secrets Declassified With David Duchovny, which investigates the stories of secret government activities and reveals the wild truths behind them.

Duchovny hosts each hourlong episode, serving as a narrative guide through the bombshells and intrigue — and though the subject matter seems like a natural fit given the actor's X-Files roots, he says that reason is why he usually avoids these kinds of projects. So what made this one different?

"While I was doing that show," Duchovny says, "and even to this day, people will either come up to me and ask, 'Are those real cases?' or they'll tell me that they are real cases [and] that I don't know what I'm talking about. And I thought, 'Well, this is interesting, because these are actually classified files.'"

We got Duchovny to tell us if the truth is really out there.

What interested you about hosting this series?

David Duchovny: I'm a storyteller, I'm a writer, I'm a director and all those things. So I'm always looking for the human angle in the story — the humanity behind the crazy @#$% that these people are doing. The desire for some kind of outcome is always very human; it's usually very understandable. And yet, the length that people will go to pursue that is what makes the great drama of it, and these stories have within them great drama for those particular people that were involved.

The X-Files* originally premiered over 30 years ago. Do you think there's a difference in what we believe now versus what we might've believed all those years ago?

I think we've changed with the technology. The technology has changed with the way we consume our news, or the way we consume the world outside of our own little worlds, and that's become fragmented and siloed and served by algorithms and things like that. I think we haven't seen the end of that change, either.

What do you hope the audience takes away from their viewing experience?

Like any entertainment, I hope they take away good stories. We see this proliferation of documentaries throughout our streaming services — there's so many documentaries — and I see each little segment in this series as worthy of a documentary treatment. There's a lot of great stories, and they just happen to be true. So that's the entertainment for me: the sense of sitting at home and going, "Oh my God, I can't believe that actually happened."

By the way, do you think any of these would make good X-Files episodes? What makes The X-Files stories work is personal investment in the characters and the kinds of ways that the story affects the character. So, you'd have to see [one of these stories] through the lens of Mulder and Scully to see if it really works. Truth is stranger than fiction. You get a great story where you can get it — not just through the lens of The X-Files, but through the lens of storytelling. — Andrea Towers

4 THE LAST OF US

Sundays beginning April 13 on HBO

SEASON PREMIERE!

Fans of the wildly popular video game The Last of Us had been sucked into the game's characters and storylines for a few years, while those unaware of the game had no idea what awaited them when it was masterfully adapted into a TV drama in 2023. The series took viewers on an emotional, adrenaline-fueled, postapocalyptic journey following the story of Joel (Pedro Pascal), a hardened survivor who reluctantly is tasked with protecting the sharp-tongued 14-year-old Ellie (Bella Ramsey), as she could hold the key to humanity's survival. Many believe Ellie is immune to the fungal virus that wiped out most of the globe, and Joel's mission is to deliver her to scientists so she can be studied.

Over the nine-episode first season (Season 2 is only seven episodes), Joel and Ellie made their way through an oppressive world — hating one another most of the time, but eventually Ellie's nonstop chatter broke Joel's hardened exterior, and a bond was formed.

Season 2 picks up five years later as Joel and Ellie are drawn into conflict with each other and a world even more dangerous and unpredictable than the one they'd left behind when viewers last saw them. Jeffrey Wright will reprise his video game role as Isaac, the ruthless leader of the Seattle-based faction. New faces also include Kaitlyn Dever (Last Man Standing) as Abby, a character in the video game who is looking to avenge her father's death by killing Joel, and Isabela Merced as Dina, who is described by creators as "warm, brilliant, wild, funny, moral, dangerous and instantly lovable." Catherine O'Hara (Schitt's Creek) will also guest-star in an undisclosed role.

5 THE DEATH COAST

Tuesdays beginning April 1 on HISTORY

NEW SERIES!

It's known as the Death Coast, an extremely rough area of sea in the North Atlantic (off the northern tip of Nova Scotia) that has claimed more than 6,000 vessels across centuries, along with these ships' crews and treasures. Gold, silver and priceless objects from these wrecked ships are buried at the ocean's bottom, but salvaging in these waters has been banned for nearly a decade because of rampant looting. After a long battle, third-generation shipwreck hunter Jeff MacKinnon has won exclusive rights to dive a limited number of weeks and has identified six specific ships he is searching for. In the series, MacKinnon and his team of former military and law enforcement personnel race against the clock to search the wrecks before the turbulent waters of the Death Coast make diving impossible.

6 JOURNEY TO YOU

Saturday, April 19 on HALLMARK CHANNEL
ORIGINAL FILM!

Fans of the Cheryl Strayed memoir Wild (or its film adaptation featuring Reese Witherspoon) will be excited to check out this new romance starring Hallmark Channel darling Erin Cahill as Monica, a woman who, after missing out on a promotion, reluctantly hikes the Camino de Santiago trail. Along the way, she finds inner peace — and a potential romance.

"She goes on this beautiful journey in Spain, which is magnificent, but it's really an internal journey," shares Cahill about her character while walking around her Nashville backyard enjoying the warm weather herself. "She finds her faith and she finds herself again, and she lets go of trying to just hold onto everything so tightly, and she surrenders to not only her higher power, but [also] her best self."

If you're wondering if the film was shot on location, it was, and Cahill logged close to 16,000 steps a day on weekends while exploring the city, plus horseback riding and pottery lessons while filming! "Spain is everything I wanted it to be and more. I cried quite literally multiple times a week out of gratitude," Cahill admits. "It was just surreal. To have it be authentically filmed in Spain in this place that so many people have done pilgrimages on … you can feel the energy in the air and all around you, and you can feel the divine. It was truly one of the most incredible experiences of my life. It was heaven." — Zhanna Slor

7 THE HANDMAID'S TALE

Tuesdays beginning April 8 on HULU
SEASON PREMIERE!

The sixth and final season of Margaret Atwood's dystopian sci-fi story featuring a world where fertile women are used as sex slaves for the rich will see the long-awaited return of June (Elisabeth Moss) and her determined efforts to take down Gilead and will feature newcomers D'Arcy Carden and Josh Charles. When we last saw June and Serena (Yvonne Strahovski) over two years ago, they were en route to Vancouver with their babies in the Season 5 finale, which leaves us to wonder: What's next? Is June finally free? Will she ever truly escape? Plus, what will happen to the rest of the resistance? All we know so far is that Luke (O-T Fagbenle) and Moira (Samira Wiley) will be joining the resistance, while Serena attempts to reform Gilead and Nick (Max Minghella) "faces challenging tests of character." If one can guess based on the previous seasons alone (or Atwood's other novels), the final chapter of this dark drama will probably not be picture-perfect or wrapped up in a little bow (in the book, June's fate was unclear) — but there's always hope.

8 YES, CHEF!

Mondays beginning April 28 on NBC

NEW SERIES!

Noted culinary experts Chef José Andrés and Martha Stewart are executive producers and hosts for this high-stakes cooking competition from the producers of Top Chef that, according to a release, "aims to reform hot tempers, egos and attitudes in the heat of the kitchen." So, probably unlike a Gordon Ramsay cooking show, it would seem.

Combining the raw emotion of personal transformation with the competition, Yes, Chef! delves into the powerful personalities attracted to the chaotic culinary lifestyle. The series puts 12 highly skilled chefs, who have been nominated by their bosses, coworkers, friends and family, through the ultimate test.

Each week, José and Martha use humor and love to guide the chefs through intense cooking challenges designed to overcome the personal issues — whether ego, stubbornness or a short fuse — that are holding them back from reaching their full potential. The one who handles the heat, impressing with both their food and teamwork while also improving their behavior, will take home the $250,000 grand prize.

9 NOT MY FAMILY: THE MONIQUE SMITH STORY

Saturday, April 12 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

She was one of the longest-living Jane Does in our country's history. From a young age, Monique Smith always felt out of place in her family. She lived in constant fear of abuse from her mother and others, and dreamed of a better life. What started out as normal questions involving why she didn't have a birth certificate or social security card when a business license she applied for was rejected turned into a two-decade search to discover her true identity. She soon would learn that the woman who claimed to be her mother wasn't and that documents she had were all falsified. "My sister told me the last time she saw me I was 1 years old. One day she saw me, the next day she didn't and that was over 50 years ago," Monique shared in a news interview in 2019. "It's like I've been living in captivity for over 50 years and now I'm finally free!"

Monique's abduction story is the subject of this original film where Yaya DaCosta stars in the title role. "Monique Smith is more than a survivor," DaCosta shares with us. "She's a warrior and a healer, whose embodiment of faith, focus and fierce self-love is a powerful reminder for us all of what is possible when we take the proverbial pen of our own life stories into our own hands and take our power back. We all deserve to feel a sense of belonging and to be loved. When stories like this are told, mass perception of what is possible can begin to shift, and hopefully, more and more lost people can be found, because their searches continued."

"The opportunity to immerse myself in Spain's many regions, to discover its fascinating history, to indulge in its dynamic culinary traditions and innovations has been nothing short of exhilarating," Longoria says. "I am so excited to finally share this incredible journey with the world!" Among her adventures: bar hopping in San Sebastián to snack on pintxos, partaking of prawns in Barcelona, indulging in blonde beef in Galicia and sipping Asturias cider in her ancestral hometown of Longoria. To top it off, she'll welcome friends to her new home in Marbella for a feast of local delicacies.

11 TITANIC: THE DIGITAL RESURRECTION

Friday, April 11 on NAT GEO

RMS Titanic has captivated the world since it sank into the Atlantic and claimed the lives of more than 1,500 people on its maiden voyage in April 1912. The discovery of the wreck in 1985 began a new era of exploration into the legendary vessel, and scientists and historians continue to piece together the puzzle of the world's most famous maritime disaster. In this Nat Geo special, researchers present a 1:1 "digital twin" of the ship and its surrounding debris field compiled from over 700,000 scans taken by two unmanned subs. "The shipwreck is the last surviving witness of the disaster," says Titanic expert Parks Stephenson. "With the digital twin, you can see the entire wreck site. Now I have a better view of Titanic than I ever did at the Titanic [site]." Historians, metallurgists and shipbuilding experts examine the detailed model for clues into the ship's final hours, and the last actions of the crew and passengers as the ship went down. It's also an important snapshot of a vanishing historical relic: Iron-eating bacteria (called "rusticles") continue to feed on the wreck, and the remaining structure could collapse within the next decade. *— Ryan A. 12 OKLAHOMA CITY BOMBING: ONE DAY IN AMERICA

Wednesday, April 2 on NAT GEO

NEW 3-EPISODE SERIES!

On April 19, 1995, President Bill Clinton was at a press conference discussing the threat of terrorism when someone interrupted and whispered in his ear that America was just attacked. At 9:02am, a massive bomb exploded and decimated almost half of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. On any typical day, there were 1,000 people in and out of that building, which served as offices to several law enforcement agencies including the Secret Service and ATF, as well as a credit union and — most devastating — a day care center. In this three-episode series, Nat Geo shares the chilling footage and extraordinary stories of those who were there and the nationwide manhunt that ensued. Bring your tissues — this is a heart-wrenching watch as footage shows parents painfully searching for their children, survivors who were trapped in the rubble reliving their stories, and intense scenes of suffering and immense trauma. The bombing, committed by former Army soldier Timothy McVeigh, claimed the lives of 168 people and remains the deadliest act of homegrown terrorism in U.S. history.

Amanda Peet and Jon Hamm

Your Friends & Neighbors

Available Fridays Beginning April 11

Jon Hamm is peak Jon Hamm playing Andrew Cooper, a recently divorced hedge fund manager who gets abruptly fired and resorts to stealing from his wealthy neighbors to make ends meet. Yes, he could sell his fancy car rather than spend his time sneaking into nearby mansions, but the loss of his job so shortly after losing his wife has resulted in a bit of a midlife crisis — which is unfortunate for him, but a fun watch for us. Of course, there's more to it than that, because author Jonathan Tropper — who was also behind the hilarious and compelling film This Is Where I Leave You and the unique crime drama series Banshee — is at the wheel as showrunner and director and is an excellent writer who can create very human, relatable characters in just about any setting.

"I lived in Westchester for 15 years and I know that world very well, and I just thought there was a really interesting story to tell there," Tropper says of the inspiration for this series. "But the fun was figuring out a way to tell it that could subvert it at the same time. There's a line in the pilot after he gets fired, where his boss says, 'It's not yours if you can't keep it.' Thematically that resonates through the show a lot — the notion that you spend your whole life striving to build your home and your family and your career, and it all feels incredibly permanent, but how many wrong turns in your life does it take before you lose it? I think a lot of people are so busy trying to get 'there,' that it's only after they get there that they either realize it's not where they belong, or they realize you don't necessarily get to keep it."

It's not just Coop who is having this epic realization; it seems just about everyone in this very wealthy community is going through their own version of a midlife crisis. Cooper's multilayered ex-wife, portrayed by Amanda Peet, is struggling with her own demons; his artistic, whimsical (and heavily medicated) sister (Lena Hall) is still pining for her former fiancé a decade after their breakup; and Sam (Olivia Munn), a fellow divorcée and love interest who wants more than Cooper can give her, is trying to navigate being a mother with dating in her 40s. And even though just about every character has more money than the average person would know what to do with (and does not seem overly appreciative of this fact), they're all still very relatable and human as they discover there really are some things money cannot buy.

"That's the fun in writing a show that's supposedly about wealthy people," Tropper adds. "It's really just about people struggling." — Zhanna Slor

And speaking of Gilmore Girls, Yanic Truesdale — who played eternally jaded French-speaking coworker Michel — is among the list of cast members in this series (as is Didi Conn, who you may remember as Frenchy in the hit musical Grease). Other cast members include Mrs. Maisel's Luke Kirby, French actress Charlotte Gainsbourg and several newcomers directly imported from the dance world.

RKO Horror Classics

TCM, beginning at 8:30am

[CATCH A CLASSIC!]

Over the course of its roughly 30-year existence, from 1929-59, RKO Pictures was among the top film studios during Hollywood's golden age. It produced titles in a variety of genres, but RKO's horror features were especially good, the best made during that time along with Universal and its collection of monsters. This morning and afternoon, TCM is airing eight RKO horror classics; seven of them are movies produced by Val Lewton that generally featured more understated chills and psychological horror, and less outright monsters, and were often more effective by doing so: The Seventh Victim (1943), Cat People (1942), Isle of the Dead (1945), The Curse of the Cat People (1944), The Body Snatcher (1945), I Walked With a Zombie (1943) and The Ghost Ship (1943). Airing just before The Ghost Ship is an iconic RKO title from another legendary producer who had a stint at the studio, David O. Selznick, that did feature a memorable monster: King Kong (1933).

Singin' in the Rain

TCM, 12pm [CATCH A CLASSIC!]

One of the most beloved movie musicals of all time, 1952's Singin' in the Rain remains an enjoyable and influential masterpiece nearly 70 years after its premiere. Set during the era when silent movies are giving way to talking pictures, the film follows a dancer turned matinee idol (Gene Kelly) who is caught in the bumpy transition along with his buddy (Golden Globe winner Donald O'Connor), a potential love interest (Debbie Reynolds) and a costar (Best Supporting Actress Oscar nominee Jean Hagen). The cast is exceptional, but beyond the fun performances, it's also worth continuing to marvel at the technical achievement of the film (which was co-directed and -choreographed by Kelly and Stanley Donen), which is especially evident during Kelly's iconic sequence where he does, in fact, sing (and dance) in the rain.

All About Eve
[CATCH A CLASSIC!]

MOVIES!, 6am

Fasten your seat belts — it's going to be a bumpy night! A whopping 14 Oscar nominations went to writer/director Joseph L. Mankiewicz's iconic and sardonic 1950 show business saga, a record that went unmatched until Titanic (1997) and La La Land (2016) each tied it about half a century later. The drama follows maturing stage diva Margo Channing (Bette Davis), who is moved enough by the straits of wide-eyed fan Eve Harrington (Anne Baxter) to take her on as an assistant. It isn't long, though, before the not-so-naive apprentice craftily works Margo's inner circle against one another in furtherance of her own aspirations to stardom. The film won six of the Academy Awards for which it was nominated, including Best Picture; Best Director and Best Writing, Screenplay (both to Mankiewicz); and Best Supporting Actor (George Sanders). Davis and Baxter were both nominated for Best Actress, and costars Celeste Holm and Thelma Ritter received Best Supporting Actress nods.
