RANDOM RANTS, RAVES & THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

How Do You Get On "Survivor"?

These past few seasons it seems like Survivor has been more aggressive in asking for people to apply to be on the show with all of Jeff Probst's promos for it. I've applied to be on Survivor multiple times and have never heard back. Could you find out what casting is looking for when they review applications? Why an application wouldn't be considered? How many people are denied every year? Thanks so much. — Rachael

According to casting director Jesse Tannenbaum (edited for space): "I can only imagine how frustrating it may feel to apply for Survivor once or many times and not receive a phone call from the casting department. We get countless applicants each season with people applying all year round. We do review all submissions, and each casting producer has their own methods to doing so, but some advice I would give would be to first submit a clear photo of yourself that represents you and your personality. This is the first thing we see when going through applications. (Some people submit a blurry photo where they are wearing a hat and sunglasses.) We typically read through the information you've submitted before we start playing your audition video. …

"There is a section where you can tell us a little bit about who you are. I would suggest putting the top three to five things you would want us to know about you and what makes you stand out as an individual. Maybe it's where you're from, how you were raised, what you've overcome in your life or why you want to be on Survivor. After we read through your submission, we then watch your audition video. For this, it's really important to first make sure we can hear and see you clearly. Don't film this in a dark basement where we can't see you or next to a waterfall where we can't hear what you're saying. Don't try so hard. We want to get a sense for who you are when you're with your best friends, so talk to the camera as you would with those friends. Be completely unfiltered and just give us a brief run-through

THE FACTS OF LIFE

Emmy nominee Charlotte Rae led this sitcom, a spinoff of Diff'rent Strokes, that ran from Aug. 24, 1979-May 7, 1988, on NBC.

CLIFF AND NINA MARRY (AGAIN) ON "ALL MY CHILDREN"

Supercouple Dr. Cliff Warner (Peter Bergman) and Nina Cortlandt (Taylor Miller) got married for the fourth, and presumably final, time in an August 1989 episode of ABC's All My Children. (Above is their 1980 wedding.)

Last season's final three on Survivor were Charlie Davis, Kenzie Petty and Ben Katzman, where Petty was named Season 46 winner.

of your life — where you're from, what you're passionate about, what you do for a living, what kind of friend you are, why you want to be on Survivor, etc. When we receive an application that seems overproduced, staged or scripted and doesn't feel authentic, that's an application we might not consider. Or if someone doesn't submit an actual video of themselves talking, that's one that will most likely be passed on. Having so many applicants, it's a good idea to be thorough filling out the application and following the guidelines that we give for making an audition video. There's actually a link to a video message from me on the casting website that gives tips on what we look for.

"I hate to say that we 'deny' applications. Yes, not everyone that applies for Survivor is the right fit for the show but many are, and it's just about timing and what we think works for that particular season based on who we already have in the mix. For those standouts that don't fit the current season we are on, we hold them for the following season and then make those calls."

Hallmark Channel Inspired By Taylor Swift's Love Story

Kansas City Chiefs superstar Travis Kelce and music icon Taylor Swift's headline-generating romance has inspired a Hallmark Channel movie. The feel-good network is working on the movie Holiday Touchdown: A Chiefs Love Story with the Chiefs for a football-themed holiday film starring Tyler Hynes and Hunter King, which is set to premiere during 2024's Countdown to Christmas.

Are TV Beauty Pageants A Thing Of The Past?

By Zhanna Slor

Miss Nebraska Sarah Rose Summers celebrates after winning the 2018 Miss USA Competition

Though both Miss USA and Miss Teen USA are scheduled to air this month (Miss USA on Aug. 4, and Miss Teen USA Aug. 1), The CW announced in May that it would investigate recent toxic work environment allegations that caused both 2023 pageant winners to resign, and the network is currently evaluating a future relationship with the organization, which really begs the question: In a world where you can turn on any channel or visit any website to witness beautiful women, are pageants really necessary anymore?

Before several waves of feminism and the emergence of reality television, there was more of a need — or, rather, a desire — for pageantry. What began as a superficial way to make money by drawing the always-profitable male gaze (beauty contests began in 1920s Atlantic City to bring more business to the boardwalk) has changed dramatically over the years, as the organization now promotes winners as ambassadors of women's empowerment. But do we really need beauty pageants to do this? Aren't there better ways to empower women than to perpetuate largely unattainable beauty standards?

Viewership, however, is telling us otherwise, at least on The CW. Miss USA 2023 drew the attention of a million viewers, the biggest audience of any new special on The CW last year. In some ways, it's merely another reality competition series, a genre that has been immensely popular for decades now. In fact, pageant contestants and winners often use the platform as a jumping-off point for careers in unscripted television, such as 2012 Miss USA and Miss Universe winner Olivia Culpo, who used her newfound fame to star in her own reality TV show, The Culpo Sisters, or 2018 Miss USA contestant Hannah Brown, who was featured on both The Bachelor and The Bachelorette. It's also a good way to make some money; winners get a large salary, homes, cars and clothes. Maybe the 2024 pageant will surpass last year's numbers, or perhaps viewers will become fatigued with the controversy. You ultimately decide by tuning in.

5 QUESTIONS WITH JESSE PALMER OF ABC'S "THE BACHELOR"

By Jacqueline Cutler

It's been 20 years since Jesse Palmer, then a quarterback for the New York Giants, became the Bachelor. Now a husband and father, the former player hosts The Bachelor and The Bachelorette, among other gigs. Relaxing in his L.A. home, Palmer answers our "5 Questions."

1 What prompted you to go on The Bachelor? I thought it was going to be an incredible experience. I'd be lying if I said I knew how it was going to play out. I've always been one that likes to say "yes" to things, to embrace new situations and new environments and to try to make myself as comfortable in those situations as I can. The reality show genre and dating shows, specifically, were very, very new at the time when I was the Bachelor, and so I really took a leap of faith, but I had a lot of trust in myself. I thought it was going to be a really fun experience during the offseason of an NFL season.

2 You mentioned saying "yes" as often as you can. Where does that philosophy come from? My parents. They've pushed me and my brothers to be open-minded, to grow and to stretch. I think sometimes you have to put yourself in environments that are not familiar to find out a lot about yourself.

3 Was it a natural transition going from the gridiron to TV? It's a career I never set out for myself. When I was in college, I got two degrees: one in marketing with a minor in education and one in political science for international relations because I thought I was going to be an ambassador to Canada. That was my plan if football did not work out. And this is another great lesson for myself: When you say "yes" to things, sometimes other opportunities come up. Being the Bachelor without question opened doors for me.

4 Tell us about a time when you were starstruck. I interviewed Seal, the singer, on the carpet at the Grammys. I used to listen to his music a lot in college. Seal shows up, and I don't think I was mentally prepared for it. I almost blacked out; I just spaced out when he came over to talk with me, which was a pretty, pretty, pretty cool, surreal experience.

5 What's your ideal day? It would be to wake up early, probably at 6 o'clock or 6:30. I would walk our dog, Lulu. When I come back from the walk, I would make an espresso and then I would wake up our daughter and then would just be spending the day with [daughter] Ella and [wife] Emely and Lulu. At night, having a great meal here at home, capped off by a great glass of wine before getting to bed early. That is a very different answer than I would have given you 20 years ago or a year ago. But being a dad now, having a family, and being able to slow down and really appreciate the moments I have with my family has really become the most important thing to me, and those are the things I cherish the most now.

FEED THE BEARS

The Monsters Of The Midway Stomp Into The Future.

By Ryan A. Berenz

Head coach Matt Eberflus and rookie quarterback Caleb Williams steer the Bears offense in a new direction

The Chicago Bears, one of the NFL's oldest and proudest franchises, are clawing their way back to contention. The Bears took quarterback Caleb Williams, the 2022 Heisman Trophy winner from USC, with the No. 1 overall selection at the NFL Draft. Eight picks later, they took Washington wide receiver Rome Odunze.

And now the NFL is taking notice. The Bears will make their first appearance on HBO's Hard Knocks training camp docuseries when the new season debuts Aug. 6 and airs on Tuesdays through Sept. 3.

The Bears help kick off the NFL preseason on Thursday, Aug. 1, when they face the Houston Texans in the Hall of Fame Game in Canton, Ohio, airing on ABC and ESPN.

On Saturday, Aug. 3, the Bears will be well represented when the Pro Football Hall of Fame Class of 2024 is enshrined on ESPN and NFL Network. Devin Hester (who returned the opening kickoff for a touchdown in Super Bowl XLI) and Steve McMichael (of the famed '85 Super Bowl team) don their gold jackets. Defensive end Julius Peppers, who played with Chicago for four seasons, enters the Hall as a Carolina Panther. Others receiving a bronze bust are Dwight Freeney, Randy Gradishar, Andre Johnson and Patrick Willis.

The regular season kicks off Thursday, Sept. 5, with the two-time defending Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs hosting the Baltimore Ravens in an AFC title game rematch on NBC.

1 ELIZABETH TAYLOR: THE LOST TAPES

Saturday, Aug. 3 on HBO

"It was truly like an eclipse of the sun," Hollywood producer Samuel Marx is heard gushing about his first glimpse of Elizabeth Taylor, who he helped launch to movie stardom when he cast the precocious beauty at 10 years old in 1943's Lassie Come Home.

Few stars blazed so brightly with as much electrifying glamour as Taylor, and her tumultuous life in the public spotlight was even more the stuff of legend. It's her voice we mostly hear, speaking candidly, with the occasional girlish — dare we say flirtatious? — giggle in director Nanette Burstein's fascinating documentary, culled from 40 hours of newly discovered audio recordings during interviews with journalist Richard Meryman.

"Maybe because of my personal life, I suggest something illicit," she muses. "But I am not illicit. I am not immoral. I have made mistakes and I have paid for all of them."

As Taylor speaks, we're regaled with a trove of photos, film clips, home movie and newsreel footage, covers of tabloids, and newspaper headlines, all testament to her status at the pinnacle of Hollywood royalty. Whatever she did, whoever she wed, and later divorced, was front-page news.

The Lost Tapes is an invaluable guide through Taylor's remarkable life, from National Velvet ingenue to her Oscar-winning triumph in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? She remembers pushing her parents to put her in movies: "The idea of being in films was like the most magical extension of make believe." The fantasy soon soured when she was thrust into adult roles as a teenager: "I had to behave like a sophisticated woman, and in my own world I was a terrified little girl."

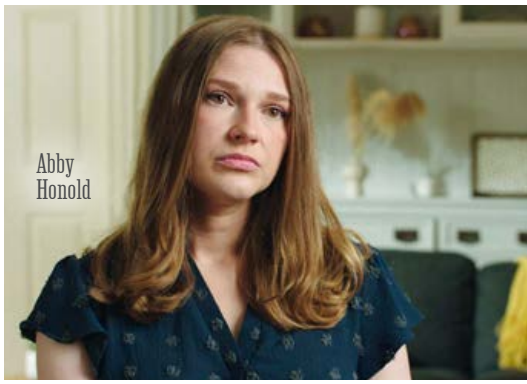

That terror and insecurity would haunt Taylor through her first marriages and much of her career, but when she was swept off her feet by boisterous producer Mike Todd, more than 20 years her senior, "I learned to enjoy life much more" until his untimely death in a plane crash. The scandal that followed, when Todd's best friend Eddie Fisher left "America's sweetheart" Debbie Reynolds for the grieving Taylor, was eclipsed when Taylor dumped Fisher for Richard Burton following their notoriously torrid affair on the Rome set of Cleopatra.

The film also touches on her friendships with closeted gay actors including Roddy McDowall and Rock Hudson and her activism for AIDS research. Ultimately, Taylor found peace by compartmentalizing her private and public personas: "One is flesh and blood, and one is cellophane." Neither will be forgotten soon. — Matt Roush

2 HOUSES OF HORROR: SECRETS OF COLLEGE GREEK LIFE

Mondays beginning Aug. 12 on A&E

NEW SERIES!

This new docuseries works to expose the dark side of sororities and fraternity life on college campuses. Each episode features firsthand accounts of how the cult-like dynamic of these long-standing institutions can allow dangerous and traumatizing behaviors to thrive with little consequence, including the story of University of Minnesota student Abby Honold, who was sexually assaulted during a tailgate party off campus and then shunned from Greek life after she pressed charges against her attacker. "I feel like sometimes when people are in groups, and this is really true of Greek life, people start to think alike and do things that they might not have done normally," Honold says of the mob mentality that destroyed her life even further after the assault, causing her to withdraw from school. "There were people that I had been friends with since childhood who stopped speaking to me when this happened because their sorority was more important to them. The peer pressure is really strong, and people want to belong, and people want to keep their friends."

Honold's story, which includes a disturbingly long uphill battle for legal retribution, is only one of many such cases that this series aims to explore. — Zhanna Slor

3 I THOUGHT MY HUSBAND'S WIFE WAS DEAD

Saturday, Aug. 3 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

The title alone has us intrigued. It was the same for two-time Grammy winner LeToya Luckett, who stars as the wife who everyone thought was dead. This emotional thriller is based on the novel Unmissing by bestselling author Minka Kent.

The film introduces us to Lola (Sherilyn Allen) and Leo Winters (Jamall Johnson), whose near-perfect lives quickly unravel when a homeless woman enters their world. The woman is Tori Winters (Luckett), and she's the former wife of Leo's who went missing five years ago.

"There was something very, very different about Tori and I knew it would be a stretch for me," Luckett says. "I wanted to get my hands dirty with this one. And that's exactly what I did."

Although Tori is disturbed, she is trying to find her footing, while everyone around her is questioning her motives, where she has been and why she hasn't gone to the police.

"I can relate to her. I mean, she's taken what life has thrown at her and she's not super bitter about it," Luckett tells. "She has this whole 'I'm still standing' attitude. And I can appreciate that about her."

The former Destiny's Child singer turned solo artist turned actress can certainly appreciate her character's pivot, but where she struggled most was on the men's bathroom floor.

"I'm a germophobe. And I'm talking about pre-pandemic. There was a scene where I had to sleep on the bathroom floor. That was probably the hardest thing I had to do in the movie," she laughs about it now. "I walked out the bathroom after the scene and I saw it was a men's bathroom, which made it even more disgusting. I really took seven baths that night because I just felt like I couldn't get it off."

But this story is far from what's expected. It's an emotional roller coaster.

"I don't think you'll be able to put your thumb on it and know how this is going to end. It is a thriller, it's a mystery, it's a comedy, it's a love story all at one time." — Barb Oates

4 AMERICAN GODFATHERS: THE FIVE FAMILIES

Aug. 11-13 on HISTORY

NEW SERIES!

Michael Imperioli (pictured right) executive produced and narrates this six-hour docuseries, with two-hour episodes airing over three consecutive nights, that explores the inception, rise and fall of New York City's five Mafia families. Over a 50-plus-year period, they had a hand in every facet of organized crime in America, from bootlegging and drug trafficking to extortion and gambling, protected by a long-standing code of omertà (silence). The history and subsequent breakdown of that code, coupled with the ever-changing violent power struggles within each of the five families and the relentless pursuit of them by federal law enforcement, is vividly chronicled throughout the series via investigative archival images, footage, audio recordings and re-creation, as well as new, candid on-camera interviews with historians, experts, law enforcement, witnesses and former Mafia affiliates.

5 KILLER LIES: CHASING A TRUE CRIME CON MAN

Wednesdays beginning Aug. 28 on NAT GEO
NEW SERIES!

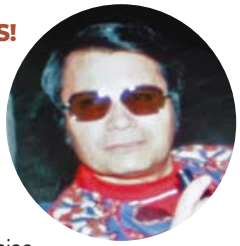

The story of how a group of internet vigilantes uncovered that France's most prominent serial killer expert built his entire career on lies is the focus of this new docuseries with a slightly meta angle: "It's a true-crime story about true crime," says Lauren Collins, whose New Yorker article this docuseries is based on. Until 2020, self-proclaimed criminologist Stéphane Bourgoin was one of the premier experts on serial killers and a bestselling author who claimed to have interviewed 77 murderers, an interest that he said began because his girlfriend was murdered by a serial killer in the 1970s — but this would turn out to be only one of many lies that a devoted Facebook group would eventually uncover about the fame-seeking writer.

"The reason this was such an attractive scheme, and the reason that he got found out, was because there was such a devoted audience," Collins explains succinctly in one episode. "And that's why this story is the perfect vehicle for getting into some of these deeper questions about true crime. Like why are so many people obsessed with these stories about murder and suffering, and how did true crime turn into the massive industry that it is today?"

These are some very good questions indeed. As much as this is a story about a man with delusions of grandeur and an ability to manipulate the truth to his own liking, it is also an investigation into the true crime obsession in our culture that has allowed such a person to exist. Whatever the reasons may be, it is a bizarre and twistedly fascinating story no matter how you look at it. — Zhanna Slor

6 CULT MASSACRE: ONE DAY IN JONESTOWN

Wednesday, Aug. 14
on NAT GEO
NEW SERIES!

This third installment in Nat Geo's Emmy-winning One Day in America franchise is a harrowing, three-episode chronicle of the tragic events of Nov. 18, 1978, when Jonestown — the supposed "utopian" commune in Guyana led by the infamous Jim Jones (pictured) — spiraled into a mass murder-suicide event, leaving 918 dead. Using accounts from survivors and eyewitnesses, as well as little-seen footage and rare recordings of Jones, the episodes (all three air on Aug. 14) offer an immersive look into the final chilling hours just before one of America's darkest chapters.

7 HOLLYWOOD BLACK

Sundays beginning Aug. 11 on MGM+
NEW SERIES!

Director Justin Simien (Dear White People, Haunted Mansion) chronicles the Black experience in cinema history with this four-part docuseries inspired by Donald Bogle's 2019 book Hollywood Black: The Stars, the Films, the Filmmakers. Opening in the Silent Era when white actors often wore blackface, the premiere episode, "Built on Our Backs," follows early independent film pioneers like Oscar Micheaux, actors like Hattie McDaniel (1939's Gone With the Wind), and commanding performers like Dorothy Dandridge and Sidney Poitier. "The Defiant Ones" (Aug. 18) explores the new age of Black cinema emerging in the 1970s and '80s, with blaxploitation action stars, comedians like Richard Pryor and Whoopi Goldberg, and directors like Spike Lee and John Singleton. "The Price of Admission" (Aug. 25) looks at Black filmmakers and stars who thrived in mainstream Hollywood, even as stories by female and independent moviemakers received little recognition. The finale, "Dear Black People" (Sept. 1), charts the rise of talents like Ava DuVernay (Selma), Jordan Peele (Get Out) and Ryan Coogler (Black Panther) in the 21st century. The series features commentary from Simien, Coogler and DuVernay, plus W. Kamau Bell, Issa Rae, LaKeith Stanfield, Gabrielle Union, Lena Waithe, Forest Whitaker and others. — Ryan A. Berenz

Cult icon and TV persona Miss Cleo is played by Robin Allen

8 MISS CLEO: HER RISE AND FALL

Saturday, Aug. 10 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

"Find out the truth!" "Call me now!"

After all, people had questions, and Miss Cleo and her tarot cards, odd accent and electrifying charisma provided answers. She was marketed as a TV psychic, but for many she was a trusted intimate counselor, the girlfriend who really told the hard truth, and was beloved by millions.

But who was the real Miss Cleo?

Her real name was Youree Harris, a single mother who described herself as a trained priestess who had many talents to receive divine information. These talents, combined with savvy marketing, catapulted her to iconic fame on the Psychic Readers Network in the 1990s and early 2000s. Years later, however, Harris was caught in a media maelstrom when the network was exposed for false advertising and fraud, and viewer anger and blame turned to her.

Lifetime has enlisted rapper Robin "The Lady of Rage" Allen to share Miss Cleo's rise and fall, and ultimately her side of the story, in this emotional biopic.

"I feel like over the last two years, people are more publicly interested in supernatural and psychic abilities. I feel like the world is in a better place today to receive her story," shares Jami McCoy-Lankford, one of the film's executive producers. "I immediately became intrigued with her story when I heard the news of her death and that she lived in South Florida. I started researching her and looking into what happened to her after the big scandal in the '90s. When I found out that she was just an employee of the Psychic Readers Network and not the person who received all the proceeds, which is not the way the media portrayed it during that time, I felt she needed to be somewhat vindicated, and the real story told." — Barb Oates

9 OCEANXPLORERS

Sundays beginning Aug. 18 on NAT GEO

NEW SERIES!

James Cameron (pictured left) is an executive producer of and narrates this six-part underwater adventure series that follows a handpicked team of explorers and scientists aboard the OceanXplorer, OceanX's state-of-the-art scientific research and exploration vessel, as they investigate the farthest frontiers of the world's oceans.

The ship, with all of its advanced technology and cool little gadgets — including two submersibles and a helicopter — is pretty amazing, but even more awe-inspiring are some of the creatures and their behavior that the crew encounters and documents, sometimes for the first time ever. Nat Geo's exploration series are consistently top-notch, yet OceanXplorers manages to take things to breathtakingly fascinating higher levels (even, and especially, as the OceanXplorers dive deeper).

Two episodes air each night across three Sundays. In the first episode, the team reveals secrets of the North Atlantic humpback whale, followed by an episode in which they track elusive sperm whales to their hunting grounds a mile beneath the surface.

The following week's episodes are all about sharks, with the explorers first in the Azores to tag a sixgill shark, a deep-sea giant, and learn more about its nightly patterns as it hunts for food in the abyss, and then in the waters off Bimini in the Bahamas to witness the incredible journey of the great hammerhead shark.

In the final week's two installments, the crew heads to the far north — first to the icy world of Svalbard, Norway, to study polar bears, and then to the edge of the Arctic ice cap, where, among other things, they become the first to observe the feeding strategies of the Greenland shark, which can live for more than 400 years. — Jeff Pfeiffer

11 CESAR MILLAN: BETTER HUMAN BETTER DOG

Fridays beginning Aug. 16 on NAT GEO

SEASON PREMIERE!

It's been 20 years since TV viewers first met dog-whispering phenom Cesar Millan, who's been helping train humans on how to be better pet owners (it's not the dog that's the problem!). We asked the Emmy-nominated animal savant what he still sees as the biggest issue with pet owners. He told us: "Their lack of understanding and really believing that our energy is the first pillar to influence our dogs. Second is that dogs have their own psychology or their own philosophy of life. And third is the actions that are required — they need exercise for the body, and they need the mind to be challenged." So how do you do that? "Exercise, discipline, affection. People still do not follow through. … I would say the world is still in kindergarten." Let's do better!

Bad Monkey

Available Aug. 14 (First Two Episodes); New Episodes Wednesdays

Vince Vaughn leads the cast of this witty crime comedy series based on a novel by Carl Hiaasen, playing suspended Miami police officer Andrew Yancy, who begins unofficially investigating the case of a human arm discovered by a local fisherman. How that arm came to be severed and floating in the ocean is a mystery that compels Yancy to risk it all, which he must do in order to untangle the web of lies and various crimes surrounding the arm's origins. The unofficial case leads him to the Bahamas and down some unexpected avenues among a very eccentric group of characters, including medical examiner (and love interest) Rosa Campesino, played by Natalie Martinez.

"I think the whole tone of the show really is very creative and different," Martinez shares. "The fact that you have us going off on unofficial police work and the comedy that brings. It's the perfect balance. The way [showrunner Bill Lawrence] writes is truly amazing. And Vince is such a legend. He's so brilliant at what he does."

If you're looking for some levity in your crime television — or you just want to enjoy the awe-inspiring sights of southern Florida and the Bahamas from the comfort of your couch — this is the show to watch! The mystery is absorbing, but it's the laugh-out-loud dialogue that will keep you glued to your seat. — Zhanna Slor
