EDITOR'S NOTE

A Familiar Fin Returns

It's good to see some traditions continue. Television's longest-running summer event — Shark Week — returns this month on Discovery Channel. At the time of writing this, a lot was still up in the air as teams were deep in production, but executives are promising more than 20 hours of programming. Inside we take a deeper dive on the people (Mike Tyson?) and programming (Air Jaws celebrates 20 years!) that are part of this year's fun stunt.

TCM's Summer Under the Stars is another familiar TV event and this year we will see 12 first-timers as part of the August lineup, including the lovable Goldie Hawn and legendary singer/dancer/actor Sammy Davis Jr. Inside we celebrate the newbies and provide a full calendar of the stars profiled.

It's been a wait, but sports are back. Ryan A. Berenz gives us the rundown on where to watch the NBA and gives some NFL preseason highlights (see page 9). Next month, we'll highlight what you can expect for this new fall season.

Happy viewing!

RANDOM Rants & Raves

Off-Hour Start Times

What's with the scheduling? Lately, when I turn on a show at the scheduled time, the previous show is still playing. This is especially frustrating when I use automatic timer, as the timer will switch to the selected program. Disney Channel is one of the worst; it's almost impossible to tune in to one of their shows when they start because they're so inconsistent. – Bob Random off-hour finish and start times (like 10:03pm versus 10pm, etc.) are common now. This is to try to keep you from flipping channels when a show is over, as you would have already missed the next show. Shows that run longer than an hour are usually the result of networks giving creators a little extra cushion to tell their story.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH: What is the scariest movie you've ever seen?

Email us at letters@ntvbmedia.com

Can You Please Air ...?

We have watched The Man From Snowy River a number of times. Could any network please play Return to Snowy River? Kirk Douglas' part is played by another man, but the top players are all the same as the first movie. – Diane Where Can I Find "China Beach"?

I would like to watch an old series called China Beach, but can never find it on any of our stations or on Netflix. Any chance it will ever show up? – Shirila

This series is only available for DVD purchase at this time and is not streaming anywhere.

More "Sex Education" Please!

I would like to request another season for Sex Education. I want to know what happens to Dr. Jean about her pregnancy and what happens to Otis and Maeve's relationship; any other additions would be appreciated. – Pete

The Netflix series has been renewed for a third season, but due to COVID-19 shutdowns and production delays, we're likely not to see another season until later in 2021.

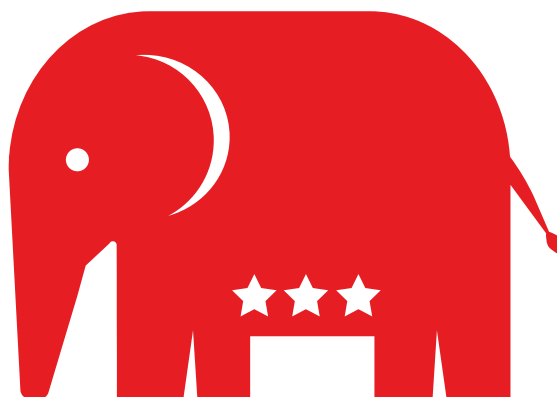

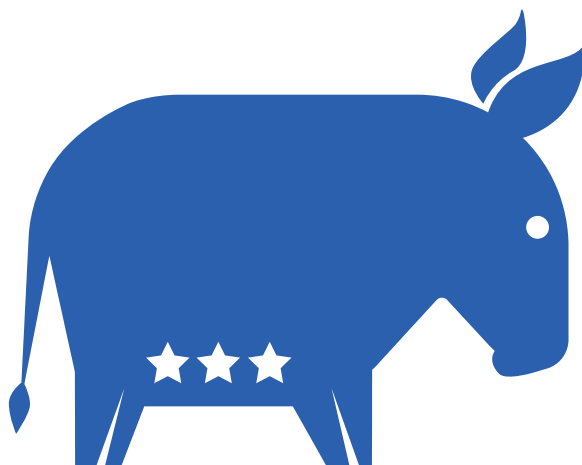

Congratulations!

Unconventional Season

The Political Parties' Parties Haven't Gone As Planned. By Ryan A. Berenz

The Democratic and Republican National Conventions were supposed to take place with all the pomp, circumstance and spectacle for which these massive events are famous. But this is 2020, and COVID-19 has rudely tossed "supposed to" out the door.

The scaled-back DNC will now take place Aug. 17-20 in Milwaukee and include virtual events and smaller gatherings in different cities. Delegates won't make the trip and will instead remotely cast their votes. Joe Biden is still expected to accept the nomination in Milwaukee, but it will look and feel far different from anything in the past. "Like so much of life these days, it will be mostly a Zoom show," says FOX News election co-anchor Martha MacCallum. "Trying to generate that same punch online and with social distancing among those who are there will likely deflate some of the air from the balloons that are always the big finish."

The RNC will conduct its official business in Charlotte, N.C., Aug. 21-24, then head to Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 24-27 for the traditional rallies, celebrations and Donald Trump's speech accepting his party's bid for reelection. "Despite all the plans of the RNC to move from Charlotte to Jacksonville to get that big party atmosphere, COVID-19 will have a vote and will likely dictate what each convention looks like," says Bret Baier, MacCallum's co-anchor on the FOX News election desk.

Covering these conventions poses new challenges for CNN, FOX News and MSNBC. The Wall Street Journal reported that the major news networks were in discussions to share resources and reduce the overall number of journalists, staff and crew attending the events in person.

The success or failure of the 2020 conventions could also force the parties to reevaluate how much money and resources to put toward future gatherings. "For years the discussion has been that conventions merely ratify a foregone conclusion and are perhaps not necessary," MacCallum says. "This summer we will find out."

"Expect things to look a lot different and the challenge will be for the organizers to still create excitement in the presentation," Baier says. "There are big issues that we're facing as a country. Those issues will be front and center at both conventions – no matter what they look like."

5 Questions

With RANDY FENOLI of
TLC's "Say Yes To The Dress" By Barb Oates

If there's one thing fashion designer and host of TLC's Say Yes to the Dress Randy Fenoli can offer during these more uncertain times, it's his inspiration and upbeat outlook that finds the beauty in every person he encounters. While wedding season looks a lot different this year, Say Yes to the Dress (Saturdays) shot the new season prior to shutdowns so there's plenty of much-missed drama to fill your time. Here Randy answers our "5 Questions."

1 Do you have a favorite episode this season that you're really excited about?

There are a couple of moments that were the most exciting for me personally. One was when they called me downstairs for a fitting, which is kind of rare. I walked in and the bride is standing in my dress, but it's the first style I ever put down the runway, Style 101, that I designed back in 1993. Her mother bought the dress from me at a trunk show that I did at Kleinfeld back in 1993 and wore the dress on her wedding day. And now her daughter was wearing it for the ceremony. It was one of the most unbelievable feelings of my life, just to see one of my original designs being used again by a bride. It was really touching.

2 What's a typical fan encounter like for you?

They become more and more crazy. I have to tell you, it's hard to leave the house anymore. Even with my mask on, they still recognize me. I have a home down in Florida, and literally one day ... a couple years ago, I was driving through the drive-thru at Wendy's [short on time as he prepped for a hurricane] and placed my order, got up to the window, and there were six people hanging out the window. She goes, "I told you, I could tell by his voice."

3 What's a movie you never get tired of watching?

Oh God, there's probably a dozen. I am a movie fanatic. I love Moulin Rouge! ... The Hunger Games ... The Matrix ... 9 to 5. Comedies. Steel Magnolias. The Perks of Being a Wallflower. Anything with Jennifer Lawrence. Passengers.

4 What are three shows you recently watched or binged that you enjoyed?

Basically anything on the Food Network I love. If I don't have the news on all day long, I usually have the Food Network on all day long because I love to cook – I used to be a personal chef.

5 What are three things you always have to have in your fridge or pantry?

Definitely my espresso. Water. I drink probably 12 to 14 glasses a day. Let me look right now, what I have. I always have eggs. Tomatoes and vinegar. I love sour and salty.

BUBBLE BALL

The NBA Restarts Its Season In The Most Magical Place On Earth.

By Ryan A. Berenz

The NBA was the first major sports league to suspend its season when the COVID-19 outbreak hit. After a four-month layoff, it's time for the Association to finish what it started.

Basketball resumes July 30 with 22 teams competing in the "bubble" at Disney's ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex in Orlando, Fla. Teams play eight regular-season games each to establish playoff berths and seeding, with a potential play-in tournament if the race for the eighth seed is close. The playoff format remains as usual, with 16 teams competing in best-of-seven-game series beginning with the first round Aug. 17 and continuing with the conference semifinals Aug. 31, conference finals Sept. 15 and the NBA Finals Sept. 30. If necessary, Game 7 of the NBA Finals would be Oct. 12. Games air on ABC, ESPN, NBA TV, TNT and regional sports networks.

LeBron James and the L.A. Lakers restart the season on top of the Western Conference standings, followed by the L.A. Clippers, Denver Nuggets, Utah Jazz and Oklahoma City Thunder. In the East, Giannis Antetokounmpo and the Milwaukee Bucks hope to pick up right where they left off after winning a league-leading 53 games before the layoff. Chasing the Bucks are the Toronto Raptors, Boston Celtics, Miami Heat and Indiana Pacers.

Even with an abundance of health and safety protocols in place, it's inevitable that COVID-19 will be a factor in determining the 2020 NBA champion. If a star player or multiple players on a team contract the virus, it could sink a contender's title chances. Several players — including the Lakers' Avery Bradley — are choosing to opt out of playing in Orlando for personal or family reasons, and there will likely be others as the season progresses. It will also be bittersweet for the eventual NBA champion and their fans to win without frenzied home crowds and victory celebrations.

TCM's summer under the STARS

There's something about Goldie Hawn that's always made us smile. Her upbeat attitude, free spirit and genuine, kindhearted nature have radiated both onscreen and off. A few of you may first remember the bubbly, blond starlet in CBS' one-season run of Good Morning World as gossipy neighbor Sandy; however, it was her turn on Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In (that body paint, that bikini, that ditzzy bombshell!) that will forever be etched in our minds. Hawn's career has spanned five decades and here we celebrate her, now 74, by looking at a handful of the films that are part of her TCM lineup on Sunday, Aug. 9, and sharing some of the stories that have made her one of Hollywood's most golden gems.

GOLDIE HAWN!

Goldie Hawn Is One Of 12 First-Timers To Make TCM's Summer Under The Stars Lineup.

By Barb Oates

CACTUS FLOWER (1969)

At just 24, Hawn won a Best Supporting Actress Oscar for her role as the troubled mistress to a middle-aged dentist (Walter Matthau) in Cactus Flower. During the 42nd Annual Academy Awards, when presenter Fred Astaire read Hawn's name as the winner, an overly excited Raquel Welch ran out on the stage to accept the award on Hawn's behalf, as she was in London filming. Later, Hawn shared her story with her daughter, Kate Hudson, in a feature piece for Interview magazine. "I was in bed. I forgot it was on television," she said. "I just went to bed because I had a job to do. I forgot. And you know what? I'm really happy about that. And then my mom and dad called, and they were crying and happy and so proud of their daughter. And that made me cry."

SWING SHIFT (1984)

Hawn and her partner in life, Kurt Russell, met and fell in love on the set of this 1984 romantic war film. While Hawn was a trained dancer in real life, Russell was not and needed some help to bolster his moves, so he invited Hawn to the Playboy Club, thinking they could practice dancing. The two never made it to the dance floor and instead spent hours just talking and being mesmerized with one another, a romantic spark that hasn't stopped since.

FOUL PLAY (1978) & SEEMS LIKE OLD TIMES (1980)

The timeless comedy thriller Foul Play has Hawn playing the wide-eyed, kindhearted, nitwit librarian Gloria, who gets wrapped up with a reckless detective (Chevy Chase). The film was the first hit for Hawn since her role in 1975's Shampoo, and was also said to be the role that secured her future part in 1980's Private Benjamin. Hawn re-teamed with Chase two years later in Seems Like Old Times, and then reconnected as his first guest on his short-lived talker The Chevy Chase Show, where she serenaded him and they celebrated her son Oliver's 17th birthday. "When I had children, that to me was the most important thing that I could ever do," Hawn shared. "I remember when my first son was born and I looked at him and I said, 'I waited so long for you.' And nothing really is going to come between me and my children, and that's a promise I made to them the first time I laid eyes on them."

THE FIRST WIVES CLUB (1996)

This 1996 starrer – and a premiere on TCM this month – paired Hawn with Diane Keaton and Bette Midler. "For First Wives, we all took a cut in our salary, we all took a cut in our back end. Because the studios were never sanguine on trusting that women carrying a movie would actually work," Hawn told Harper's Bazaar in a 2017 interview. "You think you're going to prove to Hollywood when you hit 45 that you're still a sexy, viable object? No. There's a certain reality. Does it make me angry? No. I'm not an angry person. I'm not a militant person. Anger doesn't get you anywhere. It's not productive." Instead, these ladies proved their staying power with the movie ranking in the Top 10 films of 1996.

In order to be considered for Summer Under the Stars, an actor must have enough movies to fill a 24-hour schedule. For example, James Dean, whose life was tragically cut short at age 24, only filmed Giant (1956), Rebel Without a Cause (1955) and East of Eden (1955).

Living With In-Laws

UNITED WE FALL

"Saturday Night Live's" Jane Curtin And
"Scandal's" Guillermo Diaz Add Some Punch
To ABC's New Comedy. By Damian Holbrook

ABC's latest family comedy traverses the ins and outs of dealing with in-laws – and the ties that bind when they start to get seriously tangled. In fact, put-upon parents Bill and Jo (Will Sasso and Christina Vidal Mitchell) are struggling to raise their two daughters under the same roof as his mother, Sandy (Saturday Night Live icon Jane Curtin), who has recently moved in. Could Jo's super-opinionated brother and business partner, Chuy (Scandal's Guillermo Diaz), actually make things easier for the stressed couple? We'll see.

"Rounding out the family is always fun in a sitcom. You get to develop the chemistry between these characters, and it's been [great] to play," Sasso (MADtv) says.

Fittingly, the July 29 episode is all about playing and family dynamics. Worried that their eldest, iPad-dependent Emily (Ella Grace Helton), is too plugged in, Bill and Jo decide to enroll her in a soccer clinic run by Chuy. "I love what Guillermo Diaz is doing with Chuy for a lot of reasons, but one of them definitely is the character itself, of the oldest brother, who of course is going to be the most domineering attitude ... as a character," Sasso adds. "Chuy's a great guy and has all the answers, even though he doesn't have any of the answers."

“That’s really something I loved about the script right away – these two are on the same team.” – Will Sasso

Not that Bill's side of the family is any less overbearing. With matriarch Sandy installed in their home, Bill and Jo are subjected to an endless parade of unwelcome parenting tips, which turn into hilarious pile-ons once Sandy gets together with Chuy. Sasso, laughing, describes that relationship as one "based completely on them telling Bill and Jo what to do. I would say they have a mad crush on each other because they're so excited by the other's ability to break down Bill and Jo."

Still, Sasso adds, this husband-and-wife duo stand, as the title notes, united against the constant slings and arrows of their ultimately well-intentioned relatives. "That's really something I loved about the script right away," the comedy veteran says. "These two are on the same team. It's not one of those shows where it's like, 'Oh, I've got to deal with this [bleep] again!'"

THE Their Lips Are No Longer Sealed GO-GO'S

The '80s Music Pioneers Unseal Their Story In Showtime Doc. By Ryan A. Berenz

Known for quintessential '80s hits like "We Got the Beat" and "Our Lips Are Sealed," the Go-Go's remain the only all-female band who wrote their own songs and played their own instruments to have a No. 1 album on the Billboard charts.

Born in 1978 in the anything-goes L.A. punk rock scene, the Go-Go's were rough and raw misfit musicians performing in underground clubs. But the band got its spark when guitarist Charlotte Caffey – inspired during a midnight viewing of The Twilight Zone – wrote "We Got the Beat" in five minutes. The pop-punk hybrid gave the Go-Go's the hook they needed, and soon after they toured in England with Madness and the Specials, and they signed a record deal with Miles Copeland's I.R.S. Records. Their videos became fixtures on the burgeoning MTV, and the band's 1981 debut album, Beauty and the Beat, reached No. 1 and stayed there for six weeks.

But the Go-Go's couldn't avoid the classic Behind the Music career arc. Commercial success led to tensions and infighting among members, further exacerbated by drug use, hard partying, creative differences and an exhausting touring schedule. The Go-Go's acrimoniously broke up in 1985.

Director Alison Ellwood's documentary film The Go-Go's features the band's full participation, and a wealth of archival video, photos, music and interviews reveals the inside story of a group that opened the music industry's eyes.

LOVECRAFT COUNTRY

Family Drama Meets Pulp Fiction In Misha Green And Jordan Peele's Thrillingly Original Series. By Jeff Pfeiffer

You may not know the name of H.P. Lovecraft, the early 20th century master of “weird fiction,” but you’ve likely seen his influence on the horror genre in everything from certain stories by Stephen King to films like Alien that use what has become known as “Lovecraftian horror,” with a large focus on fear of the unknown and the “other.”

Even if you do know Lovecraft, you may not be fully aware of just what a virulent racist he was. Much of the dread of the “other” that he captured so effectively in his stories likely derived from his real-life fear of, and contempt for, other races. Lovecraft’s ugly notions turned up quite matter-of-factly in his fiction and have tainted his legacy.

Matt Ruff’s fascinating 2016 novel Lovecraft Country was a successful attempt of reckoning with Lovecraft’s racism within the world of a compelling story of Lovecraftian horror. Ruff turned the traditional Lovecraft-type tale on its head by making his novel’s protagonists African Americans who bravely survive not only the sorts of nightmarish monsters found in a Lovecraft story, but also racist human beasts, as they make their way through 1950s Jim Crow America. The book confronted and transcended the racism found in Lovecraft’s work, balancing the terrifying thrills contained within those tales with subtle commentary on racial and social issues.

When Lovecraft Country was brought to the attention of Misha Green (Underground) and Jordan Peele (Get Out) for a potential series adaptation, they both immediately saw exciting storytelling potential in going beyond even what Ruff did in his novel. The series they’ve co-created, premiering this month on HBO, does justice to Lovecraftian horror and also boldly takes detours into other related genres in a thrillingly fun, original and culturally important way.

“I think that when I first read Matt’s book,” Green, who is also showrunner, explains, “the ways in which he took Lovecraft and repurposed it to give space for people who notoriously weren’t given space [in stories like that] was what initially intrigued me.

“And then also, just knowing, as a big genre fan, how little room is made for people of color in the genre space completely. I was very excited about the idea of taking this book as the jumping-off point to going deeper in all the pulp genres.”

The series’ first two episodes are indeed Lovecraftian (complete with some cool monsters, weird cults and dark magic) and use Ruff’s 1950s setting and some of the novel’s plot points as the “jumping-off point” Green references. We

The Lure Of Lovecraft On Television

HBO’s Lovecraft Country is not the only TV project to use the horrific works of H.P. Lovecraft as a jumping-off point. Here are some other notable ones:

Night Gallery: “Pickman’s Model” and “Cool Air” (1971)

These Season 2 episodes of Rod Serling’s anthology series were fairly faithful adaptations of two Lovecraft tales.

The Real Ghostbusters: “The Collect Call of Cthulhu” (1987)

This episode of the animated series used plot elements based on some of Lovecraft’s most famous creations, including the monstrous entity Cthulhu, the Necronomicon book of magic, the fictional city of Arkham and fictional Miskatonic University.

Courtney B. Vance, Jonathan Majors and Jurnee Smollett

meet Atticus Freeman (Jonathan Majors), his friend Letitia (Jurnee Smollett) and his Uncle George (Courtney B. Vance), as they embark on a road trip in search of Atticus' missing father (Michael Kenneth Williams). These characters, and the events of these episodes, carry over thematically even as subsequent episodes delve into other types of genre storytelling.

"To [then] have an Indiana Jones [style] adventure episode," Green says, "to have a ghost episode, to have a time-travel episode ... a sci-fi episode ... was what was really exciting to me. Because I was like, 'Oh, my gosh, we can go so many places. We don't have to start and end at Lovecraft.' ... And I think that was the spirit of that book, being like, 'We can take [Lovecraft's] contributions [to horror] and we can build on them to build something better.'"

This idea of building something better is telegraphed right at the outset of the series, which begins in the middle of a dream that Atticus is having where he is at first the hero of a 1950s war movie before the scenario morphs into an epic sci-fi movie where he is also the hero.

"I think the opening scene of any TV show," Green explains of that intro, "you want [it] to be the premise for what you're about to get into. ... And what I wanted was [viewers] to understand that this is going to be epic. It's going to be big. You don't see characters that are Black people doing this stuff in sci-fi dramas. They don't get to be the center of the story. ... And so the opening was to signify, yes, we're going big.

"I want it to feel like we are going to go through every genre we can go through by the end of these 10 episodes, because we haven't gotten to see that with African American characters. We wanted to bring that in with every episode. I said, going into it, 'Here's an opportunity to see people we don't get to see in [these] spaces. Let's not just settle for horror. Let's go adventure. Let's go mystery. Let's go sci fi. Let's do all of it.'"

While Lovecraft Country does delve into sometimes wildly differing genres from episode to episode, it maintains an overarching, Lovecraftian premise. Though it may feel at times like it might almost even be veering into anthology series territory, Green considers her show to be something else.

"I think at the end of the day," she says, "it's a family drama, first and foremost, and we're definitely following these characters on a journey. [The pulp genres are] baked in a story about an American family. And it's a Black American family, and [we're] centering on that and saying that, too, is America."

Cast a Deadly Spell (1991)

This fun and offbeat HBO original movie was set in an alternate-universe 1948 where magic and Lovecraftian monsters were commonplace. Fred Ward starred as hardboiled private detective H. Philip Lovecraft. In a 1994 sequel called Witch Hunt, Dennis Hopper portrayed the detective.

Masters of Horror: "Dreams in the Witch-House" (2005)

Stuart Gordon, who directed a few Lovecraft-inspired feature films, also helmed and cowrote this installment of Showtime's anthology series that adapted a Lovecraft tale.

Nightmares & Dreamscapes: "Crouch End" (2006)

Stephen King has cited Lovecraft as a major influence, so it's no surprise that King felt inspired to write "Crouch End," a tale of Lovecraftian horror adapted for this TNT miniseries.

Supernatural: "Let It Bleed" (2011)

H.P. Lovecraft himself is a supporting guest character in this Season 6 episode of the CW hit.

Seeking The Human Stories Behind The Devastating Fallout From The First Atomic Bomb. By Jeff Pfeiffer

This month, the world will gravely commemorate the 75th anniversary of the first detonation of a nuclear weapon in wartime, which occurred on Aug. 6, 1945, when the United States dropped an atomic bomb on the Japanese city of Hiroshima. A second bomb was dropped on the city of Nagasaki three days later. The bombings accelerated Japan's surrender and the end of World War II, but at a terrible human cost — well over 100,000 people, mostly civilians, were immediately killed in the vaporized cities, while survivors were horribly maimed and/or inflicted with burns and radiation poisoning.

History Channel marks this somber event with the two-hour documentary Hiroshima: 75 Years Later from award-winning director James Erskine, which aims to infuse some humanity in one of our species' darkest moments by allowing the figures who designed, built and detonated the bomb, as well as those who were caught in its wake, to narrate their own journeys through an astonishing story of scientific endeavor, unprecedented ambition and unyielding horror.

Told entirely from the first-person perspective of leaders, physicists, soldiers and survivors, the film uses never-before-seen archival footage, long-suppressed color film from the immediate aftermath of the bomb and audio testimony from victims to provide a highly personal understanding of the event, and to present the moral, scientific and military conundrums of the atomic bomb as felt by those closest to it.

SHARK WEEK

We Prey You Watch!

Things Get Crazy This Year With Mike Tyson Taking On The Tiger Shark.

There's no denying you live on the edge of the extreme if you are comfortable diving with sharks. This year Discovery Channel is promising a robust lineup (over 20 hours!) of fun programming for its 32nd annual Shark Week, which begins Sunday, Aug. 9. The weeklong stunt started in 1988 and continues to be TV's longest-running event in history. So nothing is going to stop the network from airing its famed Shark Week – not even a worldwide pandemic. Details were still being finalized, but what we could confirm were the two programs kicking off the week: a 20th-anniversary special of the Air Jaws franchise titled Air Jaws Breach Off, and Tyson vs Jaws: Rumble on the Reef, featuring heavyweight champ Mike Tyson. "Iron Mike will go head-to-head with one of the ocean's top apex predators, the tiger shark," tells Discovery. "With famed ring announcer Michael Buffer calling the shots, these two heavyweights will square off underwater, where Mike Tyson will try to score a TKO over the massive shark ... all in the name of research." And rest assured, Discovery confirms no sharks will be harmed (or bitten) in the making of this episode.

EARTHFLIGHT

A Bird's-Eye View

Stunning BBC Doc Offers A Bird's-Eye View Of The World. By Jeff Pfeiffer

It's no secret by now that the BBC is the gold standard when it comes to producing nature documentaries for television. A combination of scientific expertise, technical advances in camerawork, and the incredible patience and professionalism displayed by the filmmakers in sometimes waiting months or longer to capture rare or previously unseen wildlife behavior has yielded stunning, enjoyable and important series like Planet Earth and The Blue Planet.

It's common for these series, when they air in America, to be edited in some ways and to feature different narrators. That was the case with BBC's Earthflight, an amazing 2011 docuseries narrated by David Tennant (Doctor Who, Good Omens) that takes a bird's-eye view of our feathered friends in flight across six continents. The series previously aired in the U.S. in 2012 on Discovery Channel in an abridged version (two hours instead of the full six) under the title Winged Planet; in 2013, the full series did air on PBS, but with a different narrator.

Now, for the first time, U.S. audiences can see the entire Earthflight series with its original Tennant narration on BBC America starting this month.

Earthflight has lost none of its "wow" factor since its debut nearly a decade ago, using incredible camerawork via drones and microlights – along with having its bird subjects imprint upon a human to keep them close enough for people to film – to fly high with birds as they live their lives and experience some of the greatest natural events on our planet.

The first five episodes focus on specific continents – North America, Africa, Europe, South America, Asia and Australia – while the final episode looks at the technology used to produce those episodes. Earthflight consistently and often literally soars, in its images and in its quality.

Death Is Her Living

CORONER

This Dark Drama Offers A New Take On Death And Mental Illness.

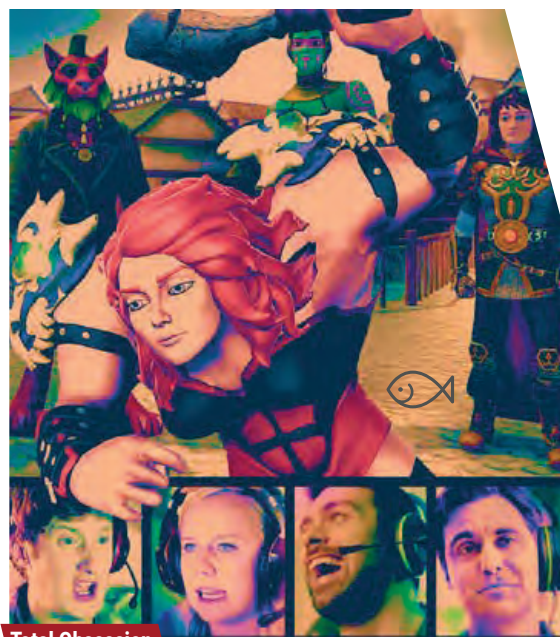

By Taylor Neumann

If you like dark and twisty doctors like Meredith Grey, chances are you'll like Dr. Jenny Cooper, the protagonist of Coroner, a new show on The CW hailing from Canada (where it's already been renewed for a third season). In the series, Cooper struggles with her mental health while raising her teenage son after the death of her husband. She is played by Serinda Swan, who describes the show as "sort of a Nurse Jackie vibe in the sense that it's a really flawed, wonderful lead character."

The series opens with Cooper, a former ER doctor, taking over the job of coroner in Toronto despite struggling with a pill addiction and panic attacks. After suffering a psychotic break, she no longer wants to work with the living, but feels more comfortable among the dead. "Her belief system about herself is that she has a fascination with life, and that's why she tries to save lives," said Swan. "But really, as she starts to work her way through the season, she realizes that it was actually more so to be in proximity of death, because there's something about death and her that are intrinsically connected."

Coroner deals with mental health in a different way than most shows, fully immersing the viewer in the intensity of a crisis. Swan is sure to keep this element of Cooper as realistic as possible. "I remember I was doing one of her panic attacks, and they're like, 'We're running long on the episode. Can you make the panic attack shorter?' And I was like, 'I'm really sorry. I can't,'" Swan said. "I'm tough in that sense, where I can't allow somebody who has anxiety to watch us make it easier because we don't have enough time. I don't want somebody with anxiety to feel misrepresented, and I don't want somebody without anxiety to not understand this actual process."

DEAD PIXELS

Ignore The Real World And Spend Some Time With The CW's New Show. By Taylor Neumann

In this upside-down world we're currently experiencing, taking a break and escaping to another world might be nice. That's what the inhabitants of the new CW show Dead Pixels do, as they enter the fantasy world of a popular video game to try to escape their own mundane lives.

Meg (Alexa Davies), Nicky (Will Merrick) and Usman (Sargon Yelda) are all obsessed with the online role-playing game Kingdom Scrolls, to the point that every moment they're not at their office jobs is spent on the game (which is similar to World of Warcraft). Every raid against the empire or magic used to defend against trolls only reminds them how boring their normal lives are. Meg has cut dates short to get back to the game, where she's definitely not into Nicky – though he may be into her. And Usman ignores his wife and kids to hang out with the two, slaughtering goats in a virtual world.

The show splits time between the characters' lives out in the real world and their lives within Kingdom Scrolls. As for Dead Pixels itself, The CW picked the show up from the U.K., where it's already been renewed for a second season. Long live the trolls!

TASKMASTER

Introducing The Most Hilarious, Least Fair Game Show From The U.K. By Ryan A. Berenz

Greg Davies and Alex Horne

The comedic game show Taskmaster has aired for nine seasons in the U.K., and we're finally getting a sample of this TV import in the States. (Comedy Central aired a forgettable American version briefly in 2018.) The CW has picked up Seasons 8 and 9 of the real deal from Britain, with actor/comedian Greg Davies (The Inbetweeners) as the all-powerful Taskmaster, and show creator Alex Horne as Davies' sidekick and umpire.

Five contestants – usually British comedians you probably won't recognize – are challenged by the Taskmaster to participate in unusual games or create something bizarre with items found in the Taskmaster house or yard. The condescendingly funny Davies isn't afraid to abuse his power, and his rulings are entirely subjective.

The contestant who most pleases the Taskmaster wins the challenge, but the spectacular fails win the most laughs.

This U.K. Thriller Gives A Gripping Twist On A Classic Cat-And-Mouse Story. By Barb Oates

Here's a morally murky what-if. If an adult leaves a child and a baby in the bath and the baby drowns, whose fault is it? The kid or the adult who left them both alone? You'd think the answer is obvious in this somber scenario, but the dangerous temptress asking the question is countered by her love interest with: "What if the parent returns to find the child holding the baby's head underneath the water with both hands?" Yah, not normal thinking.

Thus is the banter between phone sex worker Freddy Lane (played by Hermione Corfield, Star Wars: The Last Jedi) and former child soldier now toilet attendant Baba (Dipo Ola, Baghdad Central) – who during a chance meetup become an unconventional pairing. But we need to back it up and start from the beginning in Showtime's pickup of the U.K.'s neo-noir, six-part crime thriller.

In the stylistic We Hunt Together, the hunting involves two odd pairings – Freddy and Baba as Bonnie and Clyde-type psychopathic killers, and the conflicted detectives Lola Franks (played by Torchwood's Eve Myles) and Jackson Mendy (Babou Ceesay, Guerrilla) chasing them.

Fans of Killing Eve will be delighted with this edgy thriller.

LOVE ON HARBOR ISLAND

Hallmark Original Reminds Us That Home Is Where The Heart Is.

By Barb Oates

Lake homes, romance and rescue dogs. We're all in on Hallmark Channel's latest original Love on Harbor Island. The film stars Morgan Kohan (who fans love from the network's When Hope Calls). Kohan talked to us from British Columbia's "stunning" Okanagan Valley, which is just outside of her hometown, where she is currently filming another project she's extremely excited about. "It's been amazing to be working again," she tells. "It feels like magic to be back on a film set." Here she shares some of the magic and sparks involved in this month's feel-good film.

Hallmark's summer original Love on Harbor Island has you playing an interior designer who returns to her hometown. Can you share a little about your character, Lily?

Morgan Kohan: Lily is an independent, very ambitious interior designer and she initially moved to the city to pursue her career. She's built an entire life there and is working at the top design firm when she hears that her Aunt Maggie [Brenda Matthews, The Last Bridesmaid] has taken a fall. She's extremely close to her aunt, so as soon as she gets the news, she speeds back to Harbor Island to do what she can to help out!

The title is a spoiler, so we know romance comes into play; tell us about that.

At the start of the film, Lily is in a relationship with a long-term boyfriend, but it quickly becomes apparent that they maybe haven't quite grown together as a couple over the years as she wishes they had. Eventually they decide they aren't right for each other. So when she first meets Marcus [Marcus Rosner, UnREAL] on Harbor Island, she isn't looking for another relationship ... and they don't exactly have the smoothest of introductions, but over the course of the film, of course, sparks start to fly!

ROMANCE IN THE AIR

Cindy Busby And Torrance Coombs Reminisce On Their Childhood Summers. By Barb Oates

Hallmark's first original movie for the month, Romance in the Air, will send you down memory lane, taking you back to how you enjoyed your summers growing up. The film follows Eden (played by Cindy Busby, Cedar Cove), who returns to Lake Tahoe, where she spent much of her younger years and where she reunites with her childhood friend (Torrance Coombs, Reign).

"Life is full of different paths you can take. I think all of us have a lot of 'what-ifs' and near-misses, and we can spend a lot of time worrying about whether we've made the right decisions in life," Coombs says. "It's a special feeling when the universe brings someone back into your life at the right moment, whether it's romantic or otherwise. This movie is a celebration of one of those moments."

Busby also loved the script for all of its nostalgic feel. "From summers on the lake to small-town familiar faces in the ice cream parlor and, of course, that summer crush that never worked out," she adds. "I think as we grow up sometimes life gets ahead of us and becomes fast-paced, so it can be easy to lose track of what we really want, but when we take time to ground ourselves and come back to our roots, well, beautiful and unexpected things can happen."

And Romance in the Air provides just that grounding we all need right now.

SUMMER MEMORIES OF...

Growing up, I loved playing soccer, being part of a swim team and riding my bike. I'd have lots of sleepovers with my friends and I was lucky enough to have a pool, so that was my go-to spot because it can be very hot and humid in Montreal. We enjoyed many backyard barbecues with family and I LOVED going to the water slides. To this day that's still one of my favorite things to do.

Torrance Coombs

I grew up in British Columbia. My parents would take me every summer to a place called Hotel Lake on the Sunshine Coast. We'd rent a cabin on the lake, and I'd spend my days swimming, catching fish, taking a rowboat out and finding turtles, and hiking the nearby mountain. Sadly, I don't still do that, but I'm hugely nostalgic for it.

ENDEAVOUR

Ring In The New Decade With A Seventh Season Of The Intriguing Drama.

By Taylor Neumann

When viewers last saw Endeavour Morse (Shaun Evans), the inspector was finishing out the '60s unmasking the culprits behind the heroin deaths, brought together again with Fred Thursday (Roger Allam).

As Season 7 begins, Morse is off in Venice on a brief sojourn from England. He soon returns to an Oxford where Chief Superintendent Bright (Anton Lesser) is back in charge, and the team has been reunited at Castle Gate CID. A body of a young woman is found, and a witness heard whistling on the night of the murder.

The seventh season brings on the new decade of the 1970s, beginning on New Year's Eve. There are big changes coming up for society, but you'll notice one big change about Morse — his Season 6 mustache is gone. Evans also steps behind the camera to direct the first episode of the season, deftly setting up what will be a trilogy of episodes. There's also an element of the supernatural to the show's opener, casting a dark tone alongside the usual investigation.

Despite the show entering its seventh year, there's still plenty of life in this Endeavour.

NETFLIX NEWS

■ Karate Kid spinoff series Cobra Kai has found a new home on Netflix. Formerly streaming on YouTube, the series' first two seasons will come to Netflix this year, with an all-new third season also on its way to the streaming service. The acclaimed drama takes place over 30 years after the events of the beloved 1984 movie The Karate Kid, and features Ralph Macchio, William Zabka and Martin Kove reprising their original roles.

■ Netflix has renewed its hit crime drama Ozark for a fourth and final season. The expanded season will encompass 14 episodes, airing in two parts of seven episodes each. "We're so happy Netflix recognized the importance of giving Ozark more time to end the Byrdes' saga right," said executive producer Chris Mundy. Star/executive producer Jason Bateman added, "A super-sized season means super-sized problems for the Byrdes. I'm excited to end with a bang(s)." No word yet on when the final season will premiere.

■ In July, Netflix announced via social media that its popular dark comedy Dead to Me, starring Christina Applegate and Linda Cardellini, had been renewed for a third and final season.

■ Oscar nominee/Emmy winner Ava DuVernay (Selma, When They See Us) is teaming with athlete and activist Colin Kaepernick for a limited dramatic series called Colin in Black & White, which is based on Kaepernick's formative high school years and offers insights into the acts and experiences that led him to become the activist he is today.

■ Dwayne Johnson and Emily Blunt, who will costar in Disney's Jungle Cruise feature film in 2021, will also pair up for the Netflix original film Ball and Chain. Oscar nominee Emily V. Gordon (The Big Sick) will adapt the story from Scott Lobdell's 1990s comic book of the same name. Ball and Chain follows a troubled married couple that receives superpowers that only work when they are together.

■ David E. Kelley (Big Little Lies) will be among the executive producers of a new Netflix anthology series called Anatomy of a Scandal, based on the international bestseller by Sarah Vaughan. The suspenseful series will be produced in the U.K. and is about a sexual consent scandal among Britain's privileged elite and the women caught up in its wake.

World's Toughest Race: Eco-Challenge Fiji

On Set For A Bigger, Badder, Stronger And Harder Race Than Ever Before.

By Eric Andersson

It's barely 7am on a muggy morning in Fiji, but the tiny village of Draubuta is already teeming with activity. A swarm of 330 people from all around the world head down a narrow pathway to the Wainibokasi River. They break off into 66 teams of five, scrambling down a steep embankment to load supplies into waiting camakau, Fijian outrigger canoes, and huddle to discuss last-minute strategy for the epic adventure they're about to start, World's Toughest Race: Eco-Challenge Fiji.

Adventurer Bear Grylls, who's on hand as host of the reality series, begins counting down – “Five, four, three, two, one, go!” – and the teams take off, slicing their oars into the water. The vessels crowd the waterway, and one boat flips, taking its racers down. Moments later, another boat flips.

And that's just the first few seconds. Over the next 11 days, the teams intend to travel more than 400 miles across this South Pacific archipelago, hiking, boating, biking and climbing their way through scorching beaches, wild rivers, dense jungles and steep ravines. Making matters more difficult? There's no nightly rest stop where the teams regroup and recharge. The racers – only four from each team make the actual trek, while a fifth team member cooks food and handles supplies at various stops along the way – can push themselves for 24 hours a day.

The first team that reaches the finish line wins bragging rights and $100,000. If anyone gets to the end, that is. “There is a possibility,” Grylls said in an interview the day before the racers set off, “that no one will finish.” Creator and executive producer Mark Burnett agreed, but said the unpredictability is all part of the thrill: “It's great fun, eh?”

The show marks a return to Burnett's roots. Before he challenged players to outwit, outplay and outlast each other on Survivor, he made his first foray into reality TV with Eco-Challenge: The Expedition Race, broadcast on MTV in 1995 (later seasons aired on ESPN and the Discovery Channel).

Though Survivor eclipsed Eco-Challenge in popularity, diehard fans never forgot about the series, which ended in 2002. “People have been asking me all the time, ‘Why don't you do that again?’” says Burnett, who recalls mentioning that to his friend Grylls in 2018. “Bear says, ‘Mark, if you ever do that, I want to be in it.’ In two short weeks we made an agreement.”

Pulling it off took much longer. Making the race “bigger, badder, stronger [and] harder than ever before,” as Grylls puts it, required months of careful planning and hiring a crew of nearly 700 highly skilled people, including military-trained medical professionals and camera operators who have summited Mount Everest.

It was a Herculean team effort – much like the one the racers face. After all, if any one member drops out or is injured and can't continue, the entire team is disqualified. “That's enormous pressure,” says Burnett. “And great drama.”

Hiroshima: 75 Years Later

History, 9pm

This two-hour documentary marks the 75th anniversary of the first detonation of a nuclear weapon in wartime and the end of World War II, when the United States dropped an atomic bomb on the Japanese city of Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945. Told entirely from the first-person perspective of leaders, physicists, soldiers and survivors, the film uses never-before-seen archival footage, long-suppressed color film from the immediate aftermath of the bomb and audio testimony from victims to provide a highly personal understanding of the event.
