EDITOR'S NOTE

Ready For The Heartache?

If you ever watched the drama series UnREAL, which originally debuted on Lifetime before moving to Hulu, you got a riveting insider look at the chaos and manipulative storylines that go into producing a reality series like The Bachelor. Showtime's new I Love That for You is similarly fascinating (but completely hilarious) as it shares the behind-the-scenes environment of home shopping networks. As you watch your favorite home shopping network host give you their spiel on everything that's great about the latest purse, skin cream, you name it — piped into their ear is a producer coaching on sales and persona. It's ripe ground for comedy, and SNL's Vanessa Bayer nails it as the star and cowriter.

On the more sappy side, one of my favorite books and movies — The Time Traveler's Wife — comes to HBO as a six-episode drama series with Rose Leslie (Game of Thrones' Ygritte) and Theo James (Divergent) starring as Clare and Henry. Fans of the book and the original movie know tissues are required for this watch. Actually, keep that box of tissues next to your TV, as this month also marks the final episodes of The Ellen DeGeneres Show and This Is Us.

There's plenty more to get excited about (including the return of Stranger Things), so take a look inside.

Happy viewing!

RANDOM RANTS & RAVES

Michael Landon's Daughter Is On "Yellowstone"?

I recently learned that Michael Landon from Little House on the Prairie and Highway to Heaven – my two favorites – has a daughter on the TV series Yellowstone? Why is this such a secret and what can you tell me about her? – Emily

Yes, Jennifer Landon joined the "Yellowstone" cast in Season 3 as the tough-as-nails, slightly odd ranch hand Teeter. Jennifer has been in the business since she was a child, and her first job was playing a little girl on "Highway to Heaven." Jennifer was only 7 years old when her father passed away. Michael had a total of nine children through his three marriages. Jennifer (who in addition to "Yellowstone" is also a three-time Emmy winner for "As the World Turns") is the product of Michael's third marriage, to Cindy Clerico in 1983.

What's Next For "This Is Us" Stars?

I remember my daughter loving Mandy Moore as a pop star before most of us came to know her as Rebecca Pearson on This Is Us. Do you have any information on what some of these very talented actors are going to be doing after the series ends? I'd love to continue to follow their careers. – Debbie

Mandy Moore is returning to her roots and is releasing a new album smartly timed around the ending of the series. Her album, "In Real Life," drops on May 13 and shares a bit on her being a new mother. She's also going on tour this summer to support her return to music. Milo Ventimiglia will take on a role as a con man (quite the opposite of Jack) in the ABC drama "The Company You Keep." Sterling K. Brown, who plays Randall, will lead the upcoming Hulu limited series "Washington Black," which is based on the novel of the same name. Justin Hartley, who plays Kevin, will star in the CBS drama "The Never Game." Chrissy Metz plans to finish her album (just like her character Kate, she sings in real life) and would like to go on tour. Chris Sullivan, who plays Toby, will lead the ABC comedy "The Son in Law," as the divorced dad of a 21-year-old daughter.

Michael Landon's daughter Jennifer stars as Teeter on Yellowstone

Congratulations!

THE NATIONAL MEMORIAL DAY CONCERT RETURNS

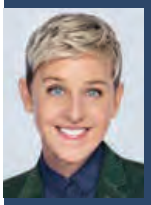

By Jeff Pfeiffer

The annual National Memorial Day Concert, now in its 33rd year and traditionally one of PBS' highest-rated programs, returns to the network for its 2022 installment on Sunday, May 29, in a live broadcast. The concert is usually held on the west lawn of the United States Capitol and features uplifting musical performances, documentary footage, and dramatic readings and real-life stories to honor the service and sacrifice of men and women in uniform, their families at home, and all who have given their lives for our country. This year's hosts and performers had not been confirmed at presstime, but the gathering usually features celebrities, musicians, and distinguished veterans and current service members. An encore presentation airs immediately after the live PBS broadcast; the concert will also stream live at pbs.org/national-memorial-day-concert and be available to watch there for two weeks following the event.

NBC Again Onboard With Billboard

On Sunday, May 15, NBC will broadcast the 2022 Billboard Music Awards. This marks the fifth year in a row that the network has televised this ceremony that is unique among music awards shows in that its honorees are determined by performance on the Billboard charts. The nominees and winners are based on key fan interactions with music, including album and digital song sales, streaming, radio airplay, touring and social engagement. Airing live across all time zones from the MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas, this year's ceremony will again feature performances along with the awards. The Weeknd leads all artists as a finalist in 17 categories. Doja Cat is the leading female finalist with 14 categories, followed closely by first-timer Olivia Rodrigo, a finalist in 13 categories. – Jeff Pfeiffer

ELLEN'S FINAL EPISODE!

After a nearly 20-year run, countless celebrity guests, laughs, tears and insights, The Ellen DeGeneres Show will come to an official end on Thursday, May 26 on NBC (in most markets). "It's going to be really hard on the last day, but I also know it's time," the comedian shared earlier this year. Leading up to her final episode, tons of celebs are expected to drop in to pay tribute and reminisce with the host, including former first lady Michelle Obama, Jennifer Garner, Channing Tatum, Serena Williams, Zac Efron, Adam Levine, David Letterman, Kim Kardashian and more. The show will continue to air repeats and compilation episodes this summer.

5 QUESTIONS WITH CLAYTON CARDENAS OF FX'S "MAYANS M.C."

By Ryan A. Berenz

As Sons of Anarchy spinoff Mayans M.C. keeps on cruising through Season 4 Tuesdays on FX, Angel Reyes (Clayton Cardenas) finds his heart pulled in every direction. He's confronted with a life-altering choice: Does he follow his brother, EZ (JD Pardo), and the Mayans down a path that could lead to ruin, or does he leave the club to make his own life as a devoted husband and father?

"I think as he watches his brother get fully immersed into the club and sees how the consequences of his actions are tearing his life apart, I think Angel will start to say, 'OK, this is not for me anymore. If my brother's going to make the decision to stay in this life, I have to make a decision for myself to get out.'"

Angel's also trying to build a new life with Nails (Justina Adorno) and the child they're having together.

"He's moving into this season with the belief that him and Nails are going to have this baby and hopefully this new life that he never had," Cardenas says. "I think it's an opportunity to find life outside of the club."

Cardenas became the latest member of our "5 Questions" club:

1 What's been your strangest or most interesting fan encounter?

My strangest interaction with a fan happened in Rhode Island. She asked me to autograph her body and said she wanted to go get it as a tattoo. I thought she was joking, but she showed up 45 minutes later to show the tattoo off to me. I will never doubt any fan again.

2 Can you tell us about a time you were starstruck?

The first time I was starstruck, I was 13 and had just seen Shaquille O'Neal for the first time in person. I nervously walked up to him with a notepad hoping to get an autograph. He surprisingly signed every piece of paper in that notepad and told me to hand them out to my friends.

3 What's a movie that you can watch over and over again?

The one movie I can watch over and over is Forrest Gump. For so many different reasons, I think we would need an extra article.

4 What's your favorite sports team?

I can't pick one. I'm an L.A. kid, so Dodgers, Lakers and Raiders.

5 What's a job you had before showbiz?

The one job I had before acting was being a waiter. Be sure to tip well!

DRIVE FOR FIVE

Helio Castroneves Can Kiss The Bricks For A Record Fifth Time. By Ryan A. Berenz

Just add milk — Helio Castroneves can stand alone in Indy 500 history

Helio Castroneves shocked the racing world with a win at the Indianapolis 500 last year. The Brazilian motorsports legend, who previously won the famous race in 2001, '02 and '09, will try to sit alone as the only five-time winner when the 106th Indy 500 takes place Memorial Day weekend.

Castroneves joined A.J. Foyt, Al Unser and Rick Mears in the elite group of drivers to have won the "Greatest Spectacle in Racing" four times. On May 14, NBC airs Pennzoil Presents The Club, a documentary featuring all four men in an exclusive conversation. Filmed last summer, the special includes a dedication to Unser, who died in December.

Here's a quick preview of the best month in auto racing:

NTT IndyCar Series Barber Motorsports Park in Birmingham hosts the Honda Indy Grand Prix of Alabama (NBC, May 1), then it's off to Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the GMR Grand Prix on the Brickyard's road course (NBC, May 14). Pato O'Ward, Alex Palou, Scott McLaughlin and Josef Newgarden are among the top contenders looking to spoil Castroneves' party at the 106th Indy 500 May 29 on NBC.

Formula 1 Max Verstappen, Lewis Hamilton and Charles Leclerc are among the top contenders as F1 comes to South Florida for the first ever Crypto.com Miami Grand Prix (ABC, May 8) on a temporary 19-turn, 5.41 km circuit built around Hard Rock Stadium. The series heads back across the Atlantic for the Pirelli Spanish Grand Prix (May 22, ESPN2) and the prestigious Monaco Grand Prix (May 29, ESPN) on the streets of scenic Monte Carlo.

NASCAR Cup Series Chase Elliott, Ryan Blaney, Joey Logano, Martin Truex Jr. and other Cup Series stars are at Dover Motor Speedway (FS1, May 1), Darlington Raceway (FS1, May 8) and Kansas Speedway (FS1, May 15) before heading to Texas Motor Speedway for the All-Star Race events (FS1, May 22). NASCAR's longest race, the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway, airs in primetime May 29 on FOX.

THE DEPTH CHART

Triple Crown

Epicenter, Crown Pride, Classic Causeway, Un Ojo and Slow Down Andy could be among the top horses in the starting gate as the Kentucky Derby (May 7), Preakness Stakes (May 21) and Belmont Stakes (June 11) air on NBC.

PGA Championship

The year's second major, the PGA Championship, is played at Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Oklahoma, May 19-22 and airs on ESPN and CBS. Phil Mickelson won the Wanamaker Trophy last year at age 50.

French Open Tennis

Grand Slam tennis returns to the red clay courts of Roland-Garros in Paris for the French Open. Novak Djokovic and Barbora Krejčíková claimed singles titles in 2021. Tennis Channel and NBC air the tournament May 22-June 5.

Sunday Night Baseball

ESPN's Sunday MLB lineup has Philadelphia at N.Y. Mets (May 1), L.A. Dodgers at Chicago Cubs (May 8), San Francisco at St. Louis (May 15), Chicago White Sox at N.Y. Yankees (May 22) and Philadelphia at N.Y. Mets (ESPN2, May 29).

Series Finale!

1 THIS IS US

Tuesday, May 24 on NBC

We've got less than a month to ready ourselves for the final episode, and we can't help but get a little teary-eyed just thinking about it. Creator Dan Fogelman has taken us on a beautiful, emotional, exhilarating journey following the Pearson family through their tragedies, heartbreaks and triumphs. The multigenerational story was a poignant reminder on the importance of family, acceptance, forgiveness and just plain decency, anchored by parents Jack and Rebecca (Milo Ventimiglia and Mandy Moore) and their all-consuming love for their "Big Three" triplets – Randall (Sterling K. Brown), Kevin (Justin Hartley) and Kate (Chrissy Metz). Their stories took us down paths and conversations we never imagined, and introduced supporting characters (Beth! William! Toby! Nicky! Déjà!) in whom we became equally invested. "It's not [ending] because we don't have any more story to tell," Fogelman shared. "It's because we exactly planned it to go this way." Here are a few things we can share about the final episodes.

On Rebecca's "deathbed" fate in the house Kevin built her.
Dan Fogelman: "We're definitely going to spend more time there. … Typically our flash-forwards into the future, there's three future areas we've been in. One is we've seen glimpses of Kate's second wedding. We then see in that kind of what we call the 'death house.' And then we also obviously have our late Jack Jr. in the much even deeper future as a young aspiring musician."

On ending the series.
Sterling K. Brown: "To not be able to see [the cast] every day, I'll miss [them]. I'll miss the story that we've had a chance to tell with one another. And I can't wait for 20 years to do an E! True Hollywood Story. It's going to be awesome."

Milo Ventimiglia: "Jack will probably be a part of me for a long time. But at the same time, I get to shave the mustache, shave the beard, get a haircut. I'm looking forward to filming that [last episode]. I think it's going to be one for the books."

On the idea of a follow-up movie.
Justin Hartley: "I am down for a This Is Us movie; I love these cats. I would do a trilogy movie, I really would. I would do a movie every year with these guys."

Mandy Moore: "I would be game to do anything that would reunite me with everybody here." – Barb Oates

Picking up on an increasingly popular trend, the fourth (and penultimate) season of Stranger Things is broken up into two halves, the first beginning this month and the second continuing on July 1. After a layoff of nearly three years since Season 3, Season 4 picks up six months after the Battle of Starcourt, which brought terror and destruction to Hawkins, Indiana. Struggling with the aftermath, the young heroes are separated for the first time while trying to handle the difficulties of high school. During these vulnerable days, a new and terrifying supernatural threat surfaces, presenting a gruesome mystery that, if solved, might finally put an end to the horrors of the Upside Down (but probably not until the fifth and final season). The primary cast all returns, including David Harbour, Winona Ryder, Millie Bobby Brown, Finn Wolfhard, Caleb McLaughlin, Gaten Matarazzo, Natalia Dyer and Joe Keery.

3 THE BAD SEED RETURNS

Monday, May 30 on LIFETIME

ORIGINAL FILM!

Mckenna Grace is one of Hollywood's most in-demand stars, with an Emmy nomination for her work on The Handmaid's Tale already under her belt (see sidebar) — all before being old enough to drive! This month she stars in The Bad Seed Returns, the sequel to her successful 2018 film for Lifetime. Her character, Emma Grossman, is a true psychopath, as depicted in the events of the first film that saw her classmates, babysitter and eventually her father (played by Rob Lowe) die by her machinations. The sequel brings up a new dynamic for Emma as she deals with teenage angst as well as her new household situation, now living with her aunt and uncle along with a baby cousin.

A major highlight of the new film is that it was written by Grace herself, along with her father — a surgeon by trade — during quarantine. "We were locked up, like everyone," explains Grace. "We were really bored and so we were trying to think, 'What's a script that we could write?' … We just got to thinking and we were like, 'What about The Bad Seed? Wouldn't that be so interesting?' I thought it'd be really fun if we just went back to that and came up with our own story."

The character of Emma certainly changes from the first movie to the sequel; in the original, she uses the guise of childlike innocence to hide behind whenever doubt becomes cast against her. In the new film, she's learning how to adapt to the trials and tribulations of being a teenager — all while "solving problems" the only way she knows how. "She has to try and figure out how to grapple with being in a more teenage social setting and how to make relationships and get to know people [without being] suspicious to them," teases Grace.

The original Bad Seed movie had a pretty high body count — does the sequel compare? Grace laughs. "Oh gosh, wait, hold on. … Let me count on my hand. I don't know if it's up to the first film, but it's definitely up there." – Taylor Neumann

4 THE TIME TRAVELER'S WIFE

Sundays beginning May 15 on HBO

NEW SERIES!

He's a dashing librarian. She's a gifted artist. But in this six-episode adaptation of Audrey Niffenegger's revered novel, the meeting and subsequent love story of Henry DeTamble (Theo James, Sanditon) and Clare Abshire (Rose Leslie, Game of Thrones) is anything but typical. Cursed with a genetic disorder that makes him time-travel unwillingly, Henry often finds himself propelled into the past or future without even the clothes on his back. It's dangerous, but his one huge chunk of luck is the universe sending him Clare. (She's actually known Henry since childhood, when his future self was her "imaginary friend.")

The time-travel element is "a prism through which we see a tale of ordinary love. By scrambling it all up, it becomes fresh and joyous and sometimes frightening and tragic," says exec producer Steven Moffat, a self-proclaimed "massive fan" of the book. Still, this couple's relationship has a time limit, as fate looms over them. "You need that drumbeat of doom that Audrey's prose provides," says Moffat, adding, "I hope I've found a way of conveying that visually, right from the first episode. You won't miss it!" – Linda Maleh

6 LIONEL RICHIE: THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS GERSHWIN PRIZE FOR POPULAR SONG

Tuesday, May 17 on PBS

Lionel Richie and Carla Hayden, the librarian of Congress

"When you receive this award, it basically tells me that there's a moment in time where you have to say, 'I've arrived,'" legendary singer-songwriter Lionel Richie said at a press conference ahead of the ceremony honoring him as this year's recipient of the Library of Congress' Gershwin Prize for Popular Song.

An understated quote like that shows just how much Richie has stayed true to his simple and humble Tuskegee, Alabama, roots. It's good that he himself can finally feel that he has "arrived." Plenty of listeners immediately knew that a remarkable musical talent had come onto the scene over 40 years ago when Richie began his incredible run of writing (and usually also performing) one chart-topping song after another, starting during his days with the Commodores in the late 1970s (with hits like "Easy," "Still" and "Three Times a Lady"), and continuing into the '80s when he began his solo career (which has included popular tunes like "Truly," "Hello," "All Night Long (All Night)" and "Endless Love," his duet with Diana Ross) and even with songs he penned for other artists (like the Kenny Rogers-crooned smash "Lady").

Richie has sold more than 125 million albums worldwide, won four Grammys and written eight songs that were No. 1 hits on Billboard's Hot 100 chart. That is certainly a career worth spotlighting with the Gershwin Prize, which annually honors a living musician's lifetime achievement in entertaining, informing and inspiring cultural understanding through their music.

The ceremony bestowing this honor upon Richie was held in March, and was recorded by PBS for broadcast this month. The event featured an all-star concert celebration of Richie's songs, with highlights including Gloria Estefan kicking off the festivities with her rendition of "Dancing on the Ceiling," Chris Stapleton performing "Say You, Say Me," and Richie's fellow American Idol judge Luke Bryan singing "Lady," among others.

"I would probably never be able to tell you how I got here because I'm so busy just enjoying the ride," Richie continued in his modest fashion. "I'd love to explain to you where and what and how, but I was inspired. I was divinely guided. And I'm here to this day trying to explain how I got here. But it really is quite a ride." – Jeff Pfeiffer

7 UNDER THE BANNER OF HEAVEN

Stream On: HULU
Thursdays beginning April 28
NEW SERIES!

In 1984, a small community outside of Salt Lake City was rocked when Brenda Lafferty, age 24, and her 15-month-old daughter, Erica, were found brutally murdered in their home. The investigation turned up disturbing revelations about Lafferty's extended family that shook The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to its core.

Hulu's seven-episode drama Under the Banner of Heaven is based on Jon Krakauer's true-crime bestseller and adapted for TV by Oscar-winning writer Dustin Lance Black (Milk). Andrew Garfield plays Detective Jeb Pyre, who has a crisis of his own Mormon faith as he works to make sense of the unimaginable. The stellar cast also includes Sam Worthington, Daisy Edgar-Jones, Wyatt Russell, Denise Gough, Billy Howle, Gil Birmingham, Adelaide Clemens and Rory Culkin.

Black, a gay man raised in the LDS Church, wanted to explore the dangers of extreme fundamentalism that can foment in any religion and inspire people to commit acts of violence and oppression. "If you do a deep dive into any religion, but I think particularly the Mormon religion, there's only two ways to go: It is either going to become a musical comedy or it's going to turn to terror and horror," Black says. "And there are things that need to be changed in this church so that's not the case anymore. That's how I feel. And this show presents some of those things that need to be changed." – Ryan A. Berenz

8 RIDLEY ROAD

Sundays beginning May 1 on PBS
NEW SERIES!

Masterpiece* presents this thriller inspired by true events and based on the novel by Jo Bloom. It tells the story of Vivien Epstein, a young Jewish woman who rejects her comfortable middle-class life in 1960s Manchester and moves to London to join the fight against fascism. Risking everything for her beliefs and the man she loves, Vivien goes undercover into the NSM, a neo-Nazi movement growing increasingly prominent in London. Rebecca Eaton, executive producer-at-large for Masterpiece, promises a story that illuminates both the past and present. Stars Agnes O'Casey, Rory Kinnear, Eddie Marsan and Tom Varey.

9 THEODORE ROOSEVELT

May 30-31 on HISTORY
NEW MINISERIES!

In 1912, former president Theodore Roosevelt was in Milwaukee campaigning for a third term in the White House. Running on his Progressive "Bull Moose" Party ticket, Roosevelt was about to deliver a speech when he took a would-be assassin's bullet to the chest. Undeterred, Roosevelt told the crowd, "I don't know whether you fully understand that I have just been shot, but it takes more than that to kill a Bull Moose." He proceeded to speak for about 80 minutes, and it was not until after he finished that he was convinced to go to a hospital.

That toughness is a defining trait of Roosevelt's life and career in public service, and his policies set the stage for America's rise as a global superpower in the 20th century. History's two-night documentary Theodore Roosevelt, based on author and historian Doris Kearns Goodwin's book Leadership: In Turbulent Times, presents a portrait of a complex man who was a cowboy, soldier, statesman, conservationist, adventurer, author and reformer who fought for the working class.

"Teddy sought to create a sense of common purpose among all people, using his leadership not simply to stoke his base and solidify faction, but rather, to find common ground in order to knit classes and regions of people together," Goodwin says. – Ryan A. Berenz

Jenifer Lewis, Vanessa Bayer and Molly Shannon

I LOVE THAT FOR YOU

Sundays beginning May 1 on SHOWTIME

NEW SERIES!

Oh, what a treat this is!

SNL's uber-smiley Vanessa Bayer is so cringey dorky (yet lovable) as Joanna Gold, a home shopping network superfan who gets the job of her lifetime, in the new eight-episode comedy I Love That for You. Now how she kept the job is the real story.

Let's start by going back to Cleveland 1997, where we meet a teenage Joanna who spent most of her younger years in hospitals battling and eventually overcoming leukemia. Once she licked the disease, she then had to battle that lifelong label of "that cancer girl." Her luck finally starts to turn when she gets a job at SVN (the Special Value Network she grew up watching) and befriends her childhood idol, SVN's superstar Jackie Stilton (Molly Shannon).

The series is actually inspired by Bayer's own love affair with home shopping, but more so her story of overcoming childhood leukemia and using humor as a coping mechanism.

"I had leukemia when I was 15. I'm fine now," Bayer shares. "But something that I really discovered – aside from it obviously being very difficult – is that I was able to get a lot of perks from it … like I got to come into school late and there were no consequences. I couldn't go to homecoming with someone because I was getting chemo that week. I mean, I used it as an excuse all the time."

It's in that space and the characters surrounding Joanna where the series finds its depth and humor. When Joanna majorly flubs on air and her icy boss Patricia (a brilliant Jenifer Lewis) fires her, she resorts to the only excuse she can think of – telling the entire team she has cancer. That sets into motion an outpouring of attention, fake friendships, extra perks – and problems. There's a lot of cutthroat competition in this world of egomaniac sellers.

In addition to being hilarious, the series is a fascinating behind-the-scenes look at how home shopping networks actually work. The real-time metrics and pressures, how hosts create their personas, and how they know how to sell you just about anything is riveting. "Talk about your cancer," producers pipe into Joanna's earpiece, and then watch those sales skyrocket.

Bayer and cocreator Jeremy Beiler are true fans of home shopping. "After we decided to create this show together, we went on a tour of QVC, and we had such a great time, and I got to meet these hosts that I've been watching since I was a kid," Bayer says. "It's such an interesting world, it's such a unique world and we were so enamored by it."

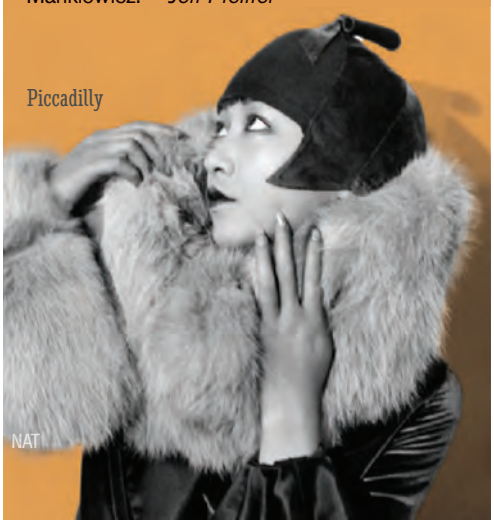

And so are we, as well as by Joanna's story. Consider us sold! – Barb Oates

11 STAR OF THE MONTH: ANNA MAY WONG

Thursdays beginning May 5 on TCM

Actress Wong Liu Tsong, better known as Anna May Wong – a pioneer of Hollywood's early era and the first Chinese American movie star – will be honored by Turner Classic Movies each Thursday night in May as part of Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month with lineups featuring a number of her memorable films. The titles primarily include her work in the silent and early sound eras. Those were particularly tough times for Asian American actors in Hollywood, who were often relegated to stereotypical supporting roles and lost out on lead roles entirely due to the practice of "yellowface," where white actors would portray Asian characters. Despite such hurdles, Wong achieved international stardom, and you can see why with her charismatic presence in films like the silent drama The Toll of the Sea (1922), which featured the actress in her first leading role and kicks off TCM's Thursday night spotlight on May 5. Other highlights include another silent, Piccadilly (1929), and the sound drama Shanghai Express (1932), costarring Marlene Dietrich, on May 12; Daughter of Shanghai (1937), a crime drama notable for its time by having two Asian American actors (Wong and Philip Ahn) playing its lead characters, on May 19; the war movie Lady From Chungking (1942) and the 1960 thriller Portrait in Black, featuring Wong's final film appearance, on May 26; and more. Shirley J. Lim, an associate professor in the history department of Stony Brook University and author of the 2019 book Anna May Wong: Performing the Modern, will cohost the titles on May 5 with TCM's Ben Mankiewicz. – Jeff Pfeiffer

12 BUFFALO KEEPERS

Saturday, May 7 on INSP

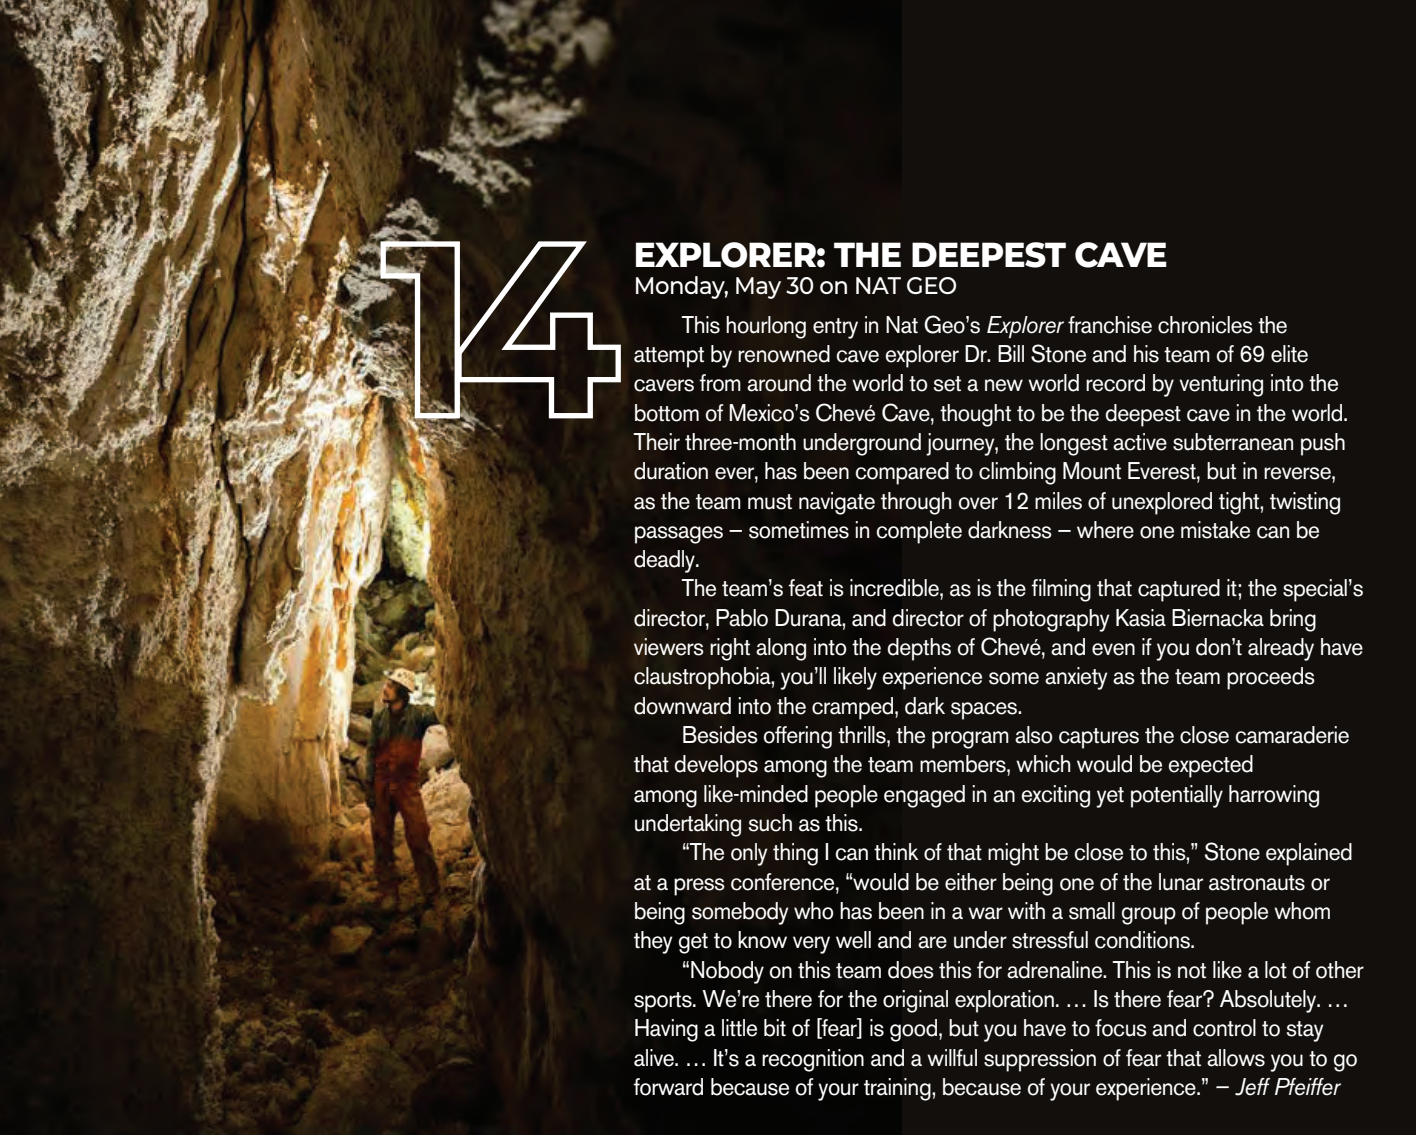

The INSP network is fast becoming a favorite viewing destination for fans of Westerns and Western-adjacent programming. Along with airing acquired programming that includes classic series like Gunsmoke, Bonanza, The Big Valley, The Waltons and many others, INSP has also been producing original programming that has generated strong responses among audiences. The network reports that this past February was the highest-rated month in its history thanks in good part to that month's debuts of the original special Freedom on the Range and the original series Into the Wild Frontier.

INSP looks poised to add to its success this month when it premieres another original special during its popular Saturday afternoon programming block: Buffalo Keepers. This hourlong historical docudrama chronicles the history of the American buffalo, from its place as a national symbol to its near extinction and, ultimately, its last-minute rescue by Native Americans and ranchers. "This is the real story of the American buffalo, the West's most iconic animal, and the handful of determined men and women who initially mobilized to save the creature from extinction," says Craig Miller, VP of original programming and development for INSP. "It's a multigenerational tale of dedication and commitment to carefully tending and breeding the herds, and passing them down to the new stewards of the cause." – Jeff Pfeiffer

13 THE COLOR OF CARE

Sunday, May 1 on SMITHSONIAN CHANNEL

Oprah Winfrey's Harpo Productions and Smithsonian Channel team up for this documentary special exploring racial inequalities in the American healthcare system, and how the COVID-19 pandemic revealed the tragic consequences of that disparity. Candid interviews with healthcare professionals and people who've lost loved ones to the coronavirus reveal the human toll of long-held biases in the availability and quality of medical care for people in nonwhite communities. "As we continued to hear how the racial disparities in our country were exacerbated by the effects of the pandemic, I felt something needed to be done," Winfrey says. "This film is my way of doing something, with the intention that the stories we share serve as both a warning and foster a deeper understanding of what changes need to take place to better serve us all."

14 EXPLORER: THE DEEPEST CAVE

Monday, May 30 on NAT GEO

This hourlong entry in Nat Geo's Explorer franchise chronicles the attempt by renowned cave explorer Dr. Bill Stone and his team of 69 elite cavers from around the world to set a new world record by venturing into the bottom of Mexico's Chevé Cave, thought to be the deepest cave in the world. Their three-month underground journey, the longest active subterranean push duration ever, has been compared to climbing Mount Everest, but in reverse, as the team must navigate through over 12 miles of unexplored tight, twisting passages – sometimes in complete darkness – where one mistake can be deadly.

The team's feat is incredible, as is the filming that captured it; the special's director, Pablo Durana, and director of photography Kasia Biernacka bring viewers right along into the depths of Chevé, and even if you don't already have claustrophobia, you'll likely experience some anxiety as the team proceeds downward into the cramped, dark spaces.

Besides offering thrills, the program also captures the close camaraderie that develops among the team members, which would be expected among like-minded people engaged in an exciting yet potentially harrowing undertaking such as this.

"The only thing I can think of that might be close to this," Stone explained at a press conference, "would be either being one of the lunar astronauts or being somebody who has been in a war with a small group of people whom they get to know very well and are under stressful conditions.

"Nobody on this team does this for adrenaline. This is not like a lot of other sports. We're there for the original exploration. … Is there fear? Absolutely. … Having a little bit of [fear] is good, but you have to focus and control to stay alive. … It's a recognition and a willful suppression of fear that allows you to go forward because of your training, because of your experience." – Jeff Pfeiffer

15 PISTOL

Stream On: HULU
Available Tuesday, May 31

NEW SERIES!

The Sex Pistols had the right volatile mix at exactly the right time to blow up music, fashion and pop culture, and create a revolution from the debris. As a functional music act, the band existed for less than three years and recorded only one album, 1977's Never Mind the Bollocks, Here's the Sex Pistols. But anthems like "God Save the Queen" and "Anarchy in the U.K." incited a generation of young people to rebel against working-class conformity and embrace chaos.

Oscar-winning director Danny Boyle (Slumdog Millionaire) and Moulin Rouge! writer Craig Pearce lead the creative team behind this six-part series based on Sex Pistols guitarist Steve Jones' 2017 memoir Lonely Boy: Tales From a Sex Pistol. The cast features Toby Wallace as Jones, Anson Boon as Johnny Rotten, Louis Partridge as Sid Vicious, Emma Appleton as Nancy Spungen, Maisie Williams as Jordan, Sydney Chandler as Chrissie Hynde and Thomas Brodie-Sangster as manager Malcolm McLaren.

Boyle recalls the effect the Sex Pistols had on the "incredibly dull" Britain of the mid 1970s. "It wasn't just kind of flat, it was kind of timed. You felt like you were young and then you were old, and there was nothing in between," Boyle says. "What [the Pistols] did is they gave a sense of timelessness. They said, 'This is yours.' And what was different about them is they said that you can do whatever the @#$% you want with it. You can waste it, be vacant, be futile or not. It's up to you. And nothing ever seemed to be the same again, especially for working-class people." – Ryan A. Berenz

BOBBY BROWN: EVERY LITTLE STEP

Tuesdays beginning
May 31 on A&E
NEW SERIES!

A&E's much-lauded Biography series is back, this time focusing on Grammy Award-winning R&B singer Bobby Brown. The two-night special highlights his struggles with addiction, his first marriage to Whitney Houston and the deaths of two of his children. Despite his personal troubles, Brown achieved much success as a performer, selling over 20 million records worldwide with his group New Edition and later over 12 million records as a solo artist. The documentary special also includes exclusive interviews with Brown as he tells all about a life lived in the spotlight from a very young age and, for the first time, visits the gravesite of Houston and his daughter Bobbi Kristina.

"I started in this business at the age of 14," Brown says of his beginnings in the industry. "I'm 53 now. So there's been so much, almost 40 years of entertainment, that I've been a part of. … Being able to look back on all of the good times and all of the bad times gave me a sense of comfort. So it was really therapeutic for me."

Following the special is the premiere of a new 12-part docuseries, Bobby Brown: Every Little Step, which will focus on Brown as he embarks back on his music career – a new tour with New Edition – and manages his sobriety while continuing to be a husband and father to his family. The series centers on the lives of this chaotic but loving group, with Bobby, his wife, Alicia, and their five kids – La'Princia, Landon, Cassius, Hendrix and Bodhi.

Viewers may remember Brown as one of the pioneers of the modern reality show with Being Bobby Brown, which aired for one season in 2005 and showed Brown and Houston at the height of their chaotic lifestyle. What makes this new series different? "I'm older. I'm more mature. I'm definitely a lot wiser. … I hope [the audience] will take away the fact that I've gone through the rough patches and I'm living my life in a clean and honest way. It's all real." – Taylor Neumann

18 WELCOME HOME NIKKI GLASER?

Sundays beginning May 1 on E!

NEW SERIES!

When the COVID-19 pandemic broke out, comedian, podcaster and roastmaster Nikki Glaser made the difficult choice to take a break from the Hollywood scene and move back to her hometown of St. Louis to be with her parents. Camera crews followed Glaser to capture all her embarrassment and merriment for the E! comedy/reality series Welcome Home Nikki Glaser? While she struggled to keep her career going from afar and maintain some kind of a love life, Glaser also got her family in on the act. She helped her dad serenade residents of a retirement community, and had her parents be the house band when she was guest host of Jimmy Kimmel Live! "I am so deeply honored to be on this network that really introduced me to some of my biggest comedic influences: Chelsea Handler, Joel McHale, the 'before' faces on Botched," Glaser says. "I now join the pantheon of famous families, meme-able moments and red carpet celebrations that E! has brought us year after year. And honestly, I couldn't be prouder."

19 GEORGE CARLIN'S AMERICAN DREAM

Friday, May 20 on HBO

Dubbed "the dean of counterculture comedians," George Carlin was one of the funniest comics on the planet during a career that spanned five decades. This two-part documentary codirected by Judd Apatow and Michael Bonfiglio chronicles Carlin's rise to fame and opens an intimate window into his personal life. According to Bonfiglio, its central focus is Carlin's evolution as an artist and a human being. It covers his childhood in New York City before working its way up to his numerous comedy specials and appearances on The Tonight Show, among other career highlights. In addition to intimate interviews with his daughter, Kelly Carlin, there is a treasure trove of never-before-seen archival material including films, photos, audio recordings, letters and diaries. Some of the many funny people interviewed about Carlin include Jerry Seinfeld, Chris Rock, Stephen Colbert, Patton Oswalt and Bill Burr. – Paul Doro

20 THE PENTAVERATE

Stream On: NETFLIX
Available Thursday, May 5
NEW SERIES!

Mike Myers plays eight (!) different characters in this six-episode comedy series that crosses The Da Vinci Code with the Austin Powers movies. The story begins in 1347, when five men who know the real cause of the Black Plague are denounced as heretics. They form a secret society, the Pentaverate, which has benevolently influenced the course of history ever since. Washed-up Canadian journalist Ken Scarborough (Myers) is on a mission to uncover the truth about the Pentaverate and possibly save the world from a climate catastrophe or, at the very least, get his job back. The colorful cast also includes Ken Jeong, Keegan-Michael Key, Debi Mazar, Richard McCabe, Neil Mullarkey, Lydia West and Jennifer Saunders. Jeremy Irons narrates.

21 STAR TREK: STRANGE NEW WORLDS

Stream On: PARAMOUNT+
Thursdays beginning May 5
NEW SERIES!

This newest entry in the Star Trek franchise is a spinoff of Star Trek: Discovery, itself a spinoff of Star Trek: The Original Series (TOS). Anson Mount, Rebecca Romijn and Ethan Peck reprise the roles they originated during Discovery's second season to positive fan reaction as, respectively, Capt. Christopher Pike, Number One (Una Chin-Riley, Pike's second in command) and science officer Spock in this series that follows the voyages of the starship Enterprise in the decade before TOS and Capt. James T. Kirk's command of the ship. Other characters familiar to fans of TOS regularly appearing in Strange New Worlds are Nurse Christine Chapel (Jess Bush) and a young Cadet Nyota Uhura (Celia Rose Gooding). Christina Chong portrays Enterprise crew member La'an Noonien Singh, who is confirmed to be a relative of infamous Trek villain, and future threat to Kirk and the Enterprise, Khan Noonien Singh. Kirk, portrayed by Paul Wesley, will appear in Season 2 of Strange New Worlds, which has already begun filming.

22 SHINING GIRLS

Stream On: APPLE TV+
Available Friday, April 29
NEW SERIES!

Elisabeth Moss executive produces and stars in this eight-part gripping thriller based on the bestselling novel by Lauren Beukes. Set in the '90s, the series follows Kirby (Moss), a young woman from Chicago struggling to understand her reality (and you will too) after surviving a brutal attack. Kirby begins to link a recent murder to her own case and works with a reporter to hunt down the serial attacker. Her day-to-day doings, however, are constantly filled with self-doubt (she writes everything in her notebook) and you are constantly left wondering what actually really happened. "I think that Kirby's trauma has a lot more to do with the fact that she can never know exactly who it was that was a part of her attack. And that drives her crazy," Moss says. "The fact that she just cannot ever know who it was, and he got away, and she lived, and who is this person? So if there was a person who attacked you, who was still out walking around, what I was trying to do was put myself in that headspace of how that would drive you crazy. And now pile on top of that this ever-changing reality. Pile on top of that that this world completely shifts all the time around you and you don't know why that's happening." At the heart of this series is a mystery, and the details are everything, as viewers get swept into Kirby's confusion and different time periods. The series features a brilliant ensemble that includes Jamie Bell, Wagner Moura, Phillipa Soo, Chris Chalk and Amy Brenneman. – Barb Oates

Stream On: DISNEY+
First Two Episodes Premiere Friday, May 27
NEW SERIES!

Another iconic Star Wars character has his story told and more gaps in the saga are filled in this six-episode limited series. Ewan McGregor reprises his role as Jedi master Obi-Wan Kenobi, who went into exile following the Empire's betrayal and defeat of the Jedi at the end of Episode III: Revenge of the Sith. Set 10 years after those events, Kenobi lives as a hermit in the deserts of Tatooine, keeping watch over young Luke Skywalker (Grant Feely) as he's raised by Uncle Owen (Joel Edgerton) and Aunt Beru (Bonnie Piesse). Meanwhile, the Empire has assembled an elite group of warriors, the Inquisitors, to hunt down Kenobi and the few Jedi who escaped the Purge. With the Empire's agents closing in, Kenobi tries to keep his identity and Force abilities hidden, while also adhering to the code of his nearly extinct order. Hayden Christensen returns as Darth Vader, with Rupert Friend, Benny Safdie, Indira Varma, Kumail Nanjiani, Simone Kessell, Moses Ingram and Sung Kang rounding out the cast. — Ryan A. Berenz

The Pentaverate

Available May 5

What if a secret society of five men, the Pentaverate, has been working to influence world events for the greater good since the Black Plague of 1347? In this six-episode comedy, Mike Myers plays eight different characters. The series also stars Ken Jeong, Keegan-Michael Key, Debi Mazar, Richard McCabe, Neil Mullarkey, Lydia West and Jennifer Saunders. Jeremy Irons narrates.

Clark

Available May 5

This drama from Sweden stars Bill Skarsgård as Clark Olofsson, the notorious criminal whose actions gave rise to the expression "Stockholm syndrome." Based on the truths and lies revealed in Olofsson's autobiography, the series offers a fictional take on one of the most controversial personalities in contemporary Swedish history. It follows Olofsson's life journey and how he was able to make all of Sweden fall in love with him despite several counts of drug trafficking, attempted murder, assault, theft and dozens of bank robberies.

Bullsh*t the Game Show

Available April 27

Howie Mandel hosts this game show where to win big you don't have to be the smartest person in the room; you just have to convince everyone that you are. Players will work their way up a money ladder either by answering questions correctly or by confidently giving incorrect answers – and persuading their opponents that they are accurate.

42 Days of Darkness (42 Días en la Oscuridad)

Available May 11

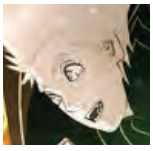

Netflix's first series made in Chile is a fictional crime thriller that is inspired by real events. It concerns the disappearance of a woman, Verónica (Aline Küppenheim), and her sister Cecilia's (Claudia Di Girólamo) race against time to find her. According to director Gaspar Antillo, this series offered "a challenging opportunity to reinterpret the thriller genre and tell a story that's totally Chilean – highlighting our identity, but also taking into account our prejudices and contradictions."

The Lincoln Lawyer

Available May 13

David E. Kelley created this legal drama based on Michael Connelly's bestselling series of novels about Mickey Haller (Manuel Garcia-Rulfo), a Los Angeles defense attorney who runs his practice out of a chauffeur-driven Lincoln Town Car rather than an office. The series costars Neve Campbell and Becki Newton.

Servant of the People
Available Now

Most people are well aware by now that not very long before he became president of Ukraine, Volodymyr Zelenskyy was a comedian and actor. Most notable among his projects was the satirical Ukrainian comedy series Servant of the People, which helped launch Zelenskyy's political career. In the show, he played a high school teacher whose tirade against government corruption goes viral, after which he ultimately finds himself the country's new president. Servant of the People ran for three seasons between 2015 and 2019 before Zelenksyy decided to actually run for president under the banner of a new political party, also called Servant of the People. Netflix, which had previously streamed the show in the United States between 2017 and 2021, has added the comedy back to its library for American viewers.

ORIGINAL SERIES

The Ipcress File
Available Thursdays Beginning May 19

Harry Palmer, the protagonist of Len Deighton's bestselling series of espionage novels published in the 1960s and '70s, has become one of the most well-known fictional spies – even though the character was never named as such, or definitively named at all, in the books. He was only given that moniker in film adaptations famously led by Michael Caine beginning with 1965's The Ipcress File, which was also the first novel to feature the man eventually known as Palmer.

And now there is another first for The Ipcress File, with its remake as a TV series, and there's no ambiguity about the lead character's iconic name here: Joe Cole (Gangs of London, Peaky Blinders) steps into the shoes of Harry Palmer in this six-episode British adaptation. Like its print and film source materials, the series is set in the early 1960s, during the height of the Cold War. Lucy Boynton and Tom Hollander costar in the thriller.

Signora Volpe

Season 1 Episodes Available Mondays May 2-16

This three-part detective drama was filmed on location in the stunning Lazio and Umbria regions of Italy. It follows Sylvia Fox (Emilia Fox), a former high-ranking British spy. When she arrives in Italy for the wedding of her niece Alice (Issy Knopfler), she's disillusioned with her job at MI6 headquarters in London and in need of a break. But then the bridegroom disappears, leaving a dead body in the lake at the bottom of his garden, and Sylvia takes it upon herself to solve the mystery. Despite the unpromising start to her holiday, the Brit is enchanted by Umbria, and is surprised and pleased to find herself reconnecting with her estranged sister Isabel Vitale (Tara Fitzgerald), who lives in the handsome hillside town of Panicale. When she stumbles upon a beautiful, derelict old house, Sylvia decides to buy it, quit her job and start anew. However, never being someone cut out for a quiet life, she finds herself involved in more mysteries – from the disappearance of a young woman a quarter-century ago, to the theft of a truffle pig and a blackmail plot against the son of a Russian politician. At first, police Captain Giovanni Riva (Giovanni Cirfiera) resents Sylvia's interference, but he soon begins to seek her help.

A Very British Scandal

All Three Episodes Available Now

This limited British historical drama explores the scandalous 1963 divorce of Margaret Campbell, Duchess of Argyll (Claire Foy) and Ian Campbell, Duke of Argyll (Paul Bettany), one of the most notorious, extraordinary and brutal legal cases of the 20th century. The series turns this case inside out to explore the social and political climate of postwar Britain, looking at attitudes toward women and asking whether institutional misogyny was widespread at the time. As her contemporaries, the press and the judiciary sought to vilify her, Margaret kept her head held high, refusing to go quietly as she was betrayed by her friends and publicly shamed by a society that reveled in her fall from grace.

The Unsolved Murder of Beverly Lynn Smith

Available May 6

This Canadian true-crime docuseries from director Nathalie Bibeau (The Walrus and the Whistleblower) follows the cold case and controversial investigation into the 1974 murder of 22-year-old Beverly Lynn Smith in her home in Oshawa, Ontario. Woven together from firsthand accounts, expert interviews, family archives and rare access to key participants, the series explores the unrelenting enigma of ethics and accountability in this provocative criminal case.

Night Sky

All Eight Season 1 Episodes Available May 20

Oscar winners Sissy Spacek and J.K. Simmons lead this drama that spans space and time. They play the Yorks, a couple who, years ago, discovered a chamber buried in their backyard that inexplicably leads to a strange, deserted planet. They have carefully guarded their secret ever since, but when an enigmatic young man (Chai Hansen) enters their lives, the Yorks' quiet existence is quickly upended – and the mystifying chamber they thought they knew so well turns out to be much more than they could ever have imagined.

Love in the Jungle

Available May 8

This series pushes the dating scene into the world of nature and asks the question: Is the key to finding true love mating like animals, rather than dating like humans? Fourteen unlucky-in-love singles are ready to test that theory as they participate in mating rituals pulled straight from the animal kingdom, and do so with little to no verbal communication. Shot in a private eco-reserve in Colombia, the series is even narrated in the spirit of classic natural history documentaries, offering expert observational insight into the humans' animalistic behaviors as if seen for the first time in the wild.

Fight or Flight

First Three Episodes Available May 26; Subsequent New Episodes Available Thursdays

For more than 15 years, Bollywood-star-turned-human-rights-advocate Somy Ali and her groundbreaking nonprofit No More Tears have rescued thousands of men, women and children from domestic violence and sex trafficking. Now, this unflinching docuseries intimately follows Somy's intense, complex and sometimes heartbreaking work as she illustrates the horrors and frequency of abuse, profiling the very real dangers and emotional impact of transforming a victim into a survivor. In every episode, the clock is ticking as she works with real victims. It's a race against time to extricate them from the situations they seek to escape; secure legal, medical and educational counsel; and find them a safe place to stay while working alongside them to rebuild their lives.

ORIGINAL SERIES

The Responder

Available May 24

Martin Freeman stars in this British police procedural that is set in Liverpool and is the first original television project for creator/writer Tony Schumacher, who formerly worked with the police force in Merseyside, the English county in which Liverpool is located.

The Responder holds a mirror up to the emotional extremes of life on the front line of British policing – sometimes darkly funny, sometimes painfully tragic and always challenging. It follows five nights in the life of Chris Carson (Freeman), a crisis-stricken, morally compromised, unconventional urgent response officer (aka "responder") tackling a series of night shifts on his beat.

While trying to keep his head above water both personally and professionally, Carson is forced to take on a new rookie partner, Rachel (Adelayo Adedayo), and both of them soon discover that survival in this high-pressure, relentless nighttime world will depend on them either helping or destroying each other.

ORIGINAL SERIES

Angelyne

All Episodes Available May 19

Former Shameless star Emmy Rossum's latest project finds her stepping, almost unrecognizably, into the glowing pink attire of blonde bombshell Angelyne (born Ronia Tamar Goldberg), a model/singer who became a Los Angeles icon starting in the 1980s through a series of self-promotional billboards that revolutionized the concept of someone being famous just for being famous.

Rossum, who is also an executive producer of this quirky limited series, says that she has "spent the better part of four years thinking, living and breathing this project. I love Angelyne. It's as if Marilyn Monroe got into an Easy-Bake Oven with an '80s punk Barbie doll and a dose of New Age spirituality. She's a trailblazer, a hustler, a visionary, the original influencer, a living, breathing piece of art."

LIVE SPORTS

MLB on Peacock

Live Games Available Sundays Beginning at 11:30am ET (May 8-June 12) and 12pm ET (June 19-Sept. 4)

For 18 weeks beginning May 8, Peacock will exclusively livestream an NBC Sports-produced baseball game each Sunday, starting with the Chicago White Sox taking on the Boston Red Sox from Fenway Park in Boston. Other games this month: San Diego Padres at Atlanta Braves (May 15); St. Louis Cardinals at Pittsburgh Pirates (May 22); and San Francisco Giants at Cincinnati Reds (May 29).

ORIGINAL SERIES

Star Trek: Strange New Worlds

Season 1 Episodes Available

Thursdays Beginning May 5

This newest entry in the Star Trek franchise is a spinoff of Star Trek: Discovery, itself a spinoff of Star Trek: The Original Series. Anson Mount, Rebecca Romijn and Ethan Peck reprise the roles they originated during Discovery's second season to positive fan reaction as, respectively, Capt. Christopher Pike, Number One (Una Chin-Riley, Pike's second in command) and science officer Spock in this series that picks up after the events of Discovery Season 2. It follows the voyages of the starship Enterprise – on a mission to explore strange new worlds, seek out new life and new civilizations, and boldly go where no one has gone before, as TOS' famous intro narration described – in the decade before Capt. Kirk's command of the ship.

MOVIE ADDITIONS

"The Godfather" Trilogy

Available Beginning April 28

On the same day that it is premiering the new series The Offer, which dramatizes the behind-the-scenes people and events that led to the production of the classic 1972 film The Godfather, Paramount+ is also adding all three original Godfather movies to its library of feature films for subscribers to stream and enjoy.

ORIGINAL SERIES

The Porter

Available May 5

This eight-part limited series is a coproduction of the CBC and BET+. Set in the early 1920s and inspired by real events, the drama follows train porters Junior Massey (Aml Ameen) and Zeke Garrett (Ronnie Rowe Jr.), and their friends and families, as a tragedy on the job sets them on starkly different paths to better lives – and on a direct collision course with each other. While Junior takes advantage of a broken system to pursue money and power in gambling and bootlegging, Zeke fights the railway to change the system from within by unionizing the Black porters. Mouna Traoré, Loren Lott, Olunike Adeliyi and Alfre Woodard also star.
